Another Little Lady.
32,000 to One.
Two-Gun Bob.
Pity Poor China.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

POLICE raided a birth control clinic in New York. The crime charged against the doctors and women was teaching mothers too sick or poor to take care of more children how to avoid having them.

There was only one birth control clinic in New York. The police found it and closed it.

ON the other hand, police authorities say there are 32,000 speakeasies in New York. No birth control taught in any of them; quite the contrary. Drunkenness is responsible for many undesirable births. The speakeasies are not raided.

ANOTHER dear little lady stage star is set free by a sympathetic jury. Government agents accused her of helping the sale of liquor, and consuming much of it herself.

STRUCK to the heart by such cruelty, the little lady would not say a word, simply sat and wept. Did the New York jury turn her loose? Yes, indeed.

Perhaps the admission by government agents that they spent public money in an effort to make a woman drunk impressed the jury unfavorably.

MR. BOB LIMBERT, from Idaho, nicknamed "Two-Gun Bob," disappointed in Chicago gunmen, would gladly take on ten of them. "They can't shoot," says he, as he tosses a five-cent piece in the air and sends a bullet through it.

"TWO-GUN BOB" does not understand Chicago's system. When you take men by surprise, stand them with their faces to the wall and open fire with machine guns, ten feet away, no great skill is required.

Meanwhile, Mohammedans in the far-away provinces delight in murdering religious opponents and are busy, murdering.

Mothers guard their children from Mohammedans and cannibals. Shanghai reports furious fighting with guns roaring on both sides of the Yangtze.

CANADA, puzzled by a mysterious disease attributed to an unknown source of "streptococcus" infections, seeks that source in the water supply.

There are many kinds of streptococci. Descriptions of the disease, with death striking those attending funerals of victims, suggest the bubonic plague.

Rats and ground squirrels spread this most deadly of modern plagues.

PORTES GIL, Mexico's president, seeks to stop gambling, worse than any vice except taking drugs.

Automatic gambling machines brought from the United States have been ordered broken up because they represent a vicious pastime and are dishonestly built.

FRANCE withdrew an order excluding British and American tourists from Britain, unless they had been vaccinated within two months. That would shut out traveling money.

That's exactly what every country would have if vaccination were abandoned.

CHICAGO teachers, investigating the death of a young man killed under an automobile filled with boys and girls that had been drinking, say, "The automobile, road house, beer flat and speakeasy are sources of moral deterioration."

WHY tie up the automobile with beer flats? There were automobiles before prohibition came in, and girls at high school and college did not get drunk then.

MAJ. BRONSON FOSTER, professor of banking at New York University, accuses the Reserve Board of blundering, says it should reduce, instead of raising the discount rate. The present high cost of financing business is outrageous.

SOMEBODY ought to find out, perhaps President Hoover will do it, what the duty, authority and business of the Federal Reserve Bank really are? If its business is to encourage usury, tell Americans how they may invest or spend their money, and upset public confidence, then the Federal Reserve Board is doing well.

But if its business is to stabilize credit, and maintain confidence, it is a failure.

THAT Frenchman should borrow money freely at 4 per cent, using American securities as collateral, when Americans at home pay from 12 to 20 per cent for loans on the same security, is amusing, except to those that pay the 20 per cent.

MINISTER QUESTIONS FISHER'S MOTIVE

From 1,000 pulpits in Pennsylvania Gov. John S. Fisher's action in signing the Mansfield coal and iron police bill will be denounced in tomorrow's sermons, Pittsburgh ministers said today as they declared Fisher had betrayed the churchgoing people of the state to whom he had made a special plea for support when he was a candidate for office.

Disappointment and chagrin was expressed at the failure of the Governor to carry out any great measure of relief for the regime of alleged terrorism exercised by police in the pay of private interests.

"GOVERNOR HAS FAILED"

"I hope that every clergyman in the state will point out to their congregations how the Governor has failed them in the hour when the churches had placed every reliance in him to rid the commonwealth of the pernicious system of the coal and iron police," said the Rev. Dr. Sanford W. Corcoran, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church Union of Pittsburgh.

"MURDER SHOCKED AMERICA"

"The church-going public was thoroughly aroused when the climax of terrorism of these police was reached in a murder that shocked all America. We had given loyal support to Gov. Fisher when he appealed to the conservative, peace-loving religious people of the state and their votes elected him. Naturally the people looked for him to be the champion of humanity when he came to exercise the powerful authority of his office. His action in the coal and iron police matter and his entire attitude toward public questions is hardly in keeping with the campaign appeals of Gov. Fisher and his supporters two years ago."

REFUTES OWN STATEMENT

"I am deeply disappointed in Gov. Fisher," said the Rev. Dr. W. I. Wishart, chairman of the Interdenominational Church Committee. "I had given him credit for having backbone by the stand he had taken on some questions and especially by his declaration that the vicious system of the coal and iron police must be changed. Can it be that his action now is a matter simply of heeding his master's voice?"

Other ministers spoke in a similar vein and declared that they would remind their congregations of "the Governor's betrayal of the trust that had been placed in him when

$170 Paid for Book Hoovers Translated

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—A copy of a first edition of "Georgius Agricola de re Metallica," translated by President and Mrs. Hoover from the first Latin edition of 1556, was sold last night for $170 to H. E. Marks, New York book dealer. The sale took place at the American art galleries.

The edition was published in London in 1912 and according to book dealers sold about a year ago for $25 a copy. The price has been rising since the nomination of Mr. Hoover last June.

Crash Victim?

EDWARD STARR

Starr, 25, 239 Main street, Bloomfield, believed to have been thrown into Pine Creek, West Etna, from the car in which a man was killed and a woman seriously injured when it was struck by a train Thursday. A coat and Starr's driver's license in the wreckage support the theory.

FISHER CALLED CHAMPION OF 'INTERESTS'

Declaring that the signing of the Mansfield Coal and Iron police bill by Gov. Fisher places him in the category of a "champion of unseen and sinister interests who openly flout the will of the people," the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union last night issued a statement calling for an independent political movement to restore to the inhabitants of Pennsylvania the rights of citizenship.

The statement bears the names of a score of the leading independent thinkers in Pittsburgh, members of the Civil Liberties Union executive committee, embracing some of the most prominent clergymen, attorneys, merchants, educators and business men. By unanimous action they point out that a new political regime offers the only means for obtaining progressive legislation.

'DEMOCRACY FARCE'

The meeting for the framing of the statement was held in the Centrall Y. M. C. A. Building, having been called hastily when the news was flashed from Harrisburg that Gov. Fisher had signed the Mansfield bill.

The statement follows:

"By signing the Mansfield bill, John S. Fisher has shown that he is not governor of Pennsylvania. He appears instead as the champion of unseen and sinister interests, who openly flout the will of the people. These mine owners and manufacturers, headed by Jo-

Driver Accused of Scolding Girl He Struck

I. S. Nathan, of 2267 Tilbury street, was held today on a suspicious person charge. Police alleged that yesterday Nathan's auto struck Jessie Yesniek, 14, of 101 Soho street, as she was walking home from school in Forbes street, near Lawn street.

Nathan, police said, soundly berated her for crossing the street when his car was approaching.

Two other school girls carried Jessie, suffering from bruises and cuts, four blocks to Forbes and Brady streets, where they found Patrolman Charles Hays. Patrolman Hays heard their story, and later he found Nathan.

A. F. OF L. CHIEF DECLARES WAR ON COAL POLICE BILL

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Following receipt of information from Harrisburg that Gov. Fisher had signed a "weak sister" bill to regulate powers of privately employed coal and iron police, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement here today scathingly criticised the governor and denounced the State Legislature for passing such a measure.

He served formal notice that the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions would protest the enactment of the law and lead a campaign for its repeal.

President Green's statement said:

"In view of the widespread public demand, both in Pennsylvania and outside the state, that the coal and iron police law be repealed, it is difficult to understand why the Legislature of Pennsylvania would pass a bill conferring broader and greater powers upon privately employed coal and iron police and why the Governor would approve such a law.

"The demand for the repeal of the Pennsylvania coal and iron police law grew out of murderous assaults inflicted by members of the coal and iron police upon defenseless citizens.

"Some of these assaults resulted in the death of the victims.

"Labor believes the police power of any commonwealth should be vested in the state and not transferred to corporations or to private interests.

"The American Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions will protest the enactment of this law and will lead in a campaign for its repeal."

FLIER SEEN 300 MILES AT SEA

LONDON, April 20.—(AP.)—A British trawler fishing about 250 miles west of the outer Hebrides, 300 miles west of the Western Scotch coast, reported an airplane passing over it early today, flying eastward, the identity of the plane was a mystery.

The radio message was received by the Malin Head Station in Ireland from the Trawler Shackleford at 8:23 a. m. (3:23 eastern standard time), it said, "Airplane bound east passed here this morning at 5 o'clock, position is 58.10 north and 14.20 west."

There was no knowledge here of any trans-Atlantic flight in progress and the public was left guessing what the plane might be doing so far out in the Atlantic as to be beyond the limit of any ordinary trial flight.

At the air ministry it was stated: "We have no knowledge of any flight over the Atlantic, neither have we received any news."

TYRRELL TAKEN TO PRISON

"Well, well, so you're all here again," was the cheerful greeting of Fayette J. Tyrrell, Sunday school superintendent and lawyer, to reporters and photographers as he was led from the Allegheny County jail at 9:33 this morning en route to the Western Penitentiary to start a 10 to 20-year term for the slaying of Philip Clark in the First Christian Church, Munhall, last May.

A big grin greeted the boom of photographers' flashlights as Tyrrell descended the steps to enter the sheriff's patrol in custody of Deputy Sheriff Silver Braun along with three other prisoners. Neither Mrs. Tyrrell nor any member of the slayer's family was in the crowd of spectators. His wife had stood in the much larger crowd of yesterday expecting to extend a word of cheer and farewell, but was disappointed when the trip was postponed.

Carrying a large chip basket containing clothing, Tyrrell was dressed in the same black overcoat and derby he wore when he was committed to jail. His mustache was neatly trimmed and a jail haircut was evident.

"You're looking fine," he was told.

"I'm feeling fine," was his reply.

4 HURT IN EAST END CRASH

Four persons were injured, two seriously, early today, when two automobiles collided at Broad street and North Negley avenue. One car overturned, pinning the driver beneath it.

Mrs. Joyce Wright, 27, of 1723 Thorndale street, Chicago, driver of one car, suffered lacerations. Harry Labunsky, 33, of 5521 Bryant street, driver of the second car, suffered lacerations and a possible fracture of the skull.

PINNED UNDER CAR

Labunsky was pinned beneath his car when it upset.

Of three passengers in the Wright car, George Kovach, 21, of 314 Tabor street, Esplen, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations, and Vera Carlson, 25, of 339 South Fairmount avenue, suffered injuries to her back.

POLICE INVESTIGATE

The third passenger, Andrew Fedio, 24, of 189 Catherine street, McKees Rocks, was not injured, but was arrested on a suspicious person charge, to be held while police investigated the accident.

Ex-Pirate Pitcher Sentenced in Holdup

MAYS LANDING, N. J., April 20.—(AP.)—A sentence of one year in state prison was imposed yesterday on William "Wild Bill" Pierson, former pitcher with the Philadelphia Athletics and Pittsburgh Pirates, by Judge Joseph A. Corio, after his conviction for assault and battery with intent to rob.

Pierson drew a six month sentence for having a pistol in his possession during an attempted holdup of a cigar store in Atlantic City on December 12, and a similar sentence for assaulting its proprietor.

Hoover Soon to Fish For Trout in Penna.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 20.—(AP.)—President Hoover will spend several days in the vicinity of Williamsport fishing for trout before the close of the season on July 31, according to an announcement here by Jay Cooke III, of Philadelphia, who entertained the nation's chief executive here last summer at Ogontz Lodge, Salladasburg. Mr. Cooke and friends are at the hunting lodge now.

INNOCENT BYSTANDERS

OTTO HINDMAN, JR. BETTY HINDMAN

Betty, 3, and Otto, Jr., 5, were the unknowing center of a family quarrel which reached its climax last night, when, police say, their father, Otto Hindman, shot his father- and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schragel.

BROKEN PARTNERSHIP

NELSON BELL

Worries of a West Carson street business partnership ended for Mr. Bell, 60, when, police say, his partner beat him to death with a heavy wrench.

JOHN SCHMIDT

The partner, Schmidt, 62, held for the slaying, today in Central Police Sation mumbles only incoherencies. Financial worries destroyed his equilibrium, police were told.

TROOPER SLAIN, 3 CAPTURED

ERIE, Pa., April 20.—The alleged murderers of Russell T. Swanson, 25, of Mt. Jewett, Pa., state highway patrolman, who was shot late yesterday afternoon, were captured an hour later by a posse and a squad of troopers. All three are said to have confessed.

They gave their names as Samuel Bard, 25, said to have been the "trigger man" who dropped Swanson from his motorcycle with a single shot; Joseph Invie, 40, driver of the automobile which figured in the tragedy, and Fred Halverson, 42, who tried to commit suicide by firing a bullet through his mouth because he didn't want his family to know he had been implicated. All gave their address as Minneapolis, Minn.

Swanson, in company with Sergt. O. E. Samson and Peter E. Carlson, highway patrolman, had been checking cars when they encountered the sedan in which the trio were riding. Swanson intimated that the car had been stolen. The trio finally admitted this, police said, and were arrested.

The party started toward Northeast, and after they had traveled for some distance, Bard, is is charged, who was riding in the rear seat of the machine, fired a shot which struck the highway patrolman between the eyes.

At a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Louis Pease last night, the three men were formally charged with murder and upon arraignment offered pleas of not guilty. Their trial was set for April 26.

British Women Open Equal Wage Battle

LONDON, April 20.—(AP.)—A government commission is to investigate proposals that women in the public service shall receive the same pay as men for similar work and that married women shall be admitted to the civil service. Prime Minister Baldwin so assured a delegation headed by Viscountess Rhondda.

WORRY BLAMED FOR SLAYING

The bright hopes that bloomed in the heart of a young French boy 50 years ago amid the pine trees and the sunshine of an Alsatian village had their counterpoint today in the mental vagaries of a suspected killer as he sat mumbling incoherencies in a Central Police Station cell.

That boy and that suspect were one in John Schmidt, 62, of 3101 West Carson street, who admitted quite flatly, police said, that he had slain Nelson Bell, 60, of Oakmont, his partner in the Pittsburgh Lumber and Builders' Supply Company, a neighborhood lumberyard, at 3209 West Carson street.

They were told, they said, that Schmidt yesterday had seized a 10-pound wrench, an unhandy weapon for an aging man, and beaten in his elderly partner's head. He hid the wrench, then sat calmly until police came.

"Go ahead and lock me up," was

Hoover Names Klein Commerce Assistant

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Appointment of Dr. Julius Klein, now director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, to be assistant secretary of commerce was announced yesterday by President Hoover.

The action followed almost immediately upon the return of Dr. Klein from a tour of Europe, where he inspected some of the more important American trade promotion offices. He succeeds Walter F. Brown, now postmaster general, who left the Commerce Department post to enter the Cabinet.

TOMB GUARD, 73, CAN'T WED PITTSBURGH WIDOW, 45

BALTIMORE, April 20.—(INS.)—William J. Permar, 73, guardian of George Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon today, still was hunting a clergyman willing to wed him to Edith S. Boyer, 55, of Pittsburgh.

He didn't have any success yesterday, although the bride-elect was willing.

Mr. Wade explained his refusal thus:

"He ought to have better sense at his age."

Both Permar and Mrs. Boyer have been divorced, but the latter's former spouse has since died, so the divorce question did not enter into the Wade refusal.

PINE CREEK DRAGGED IN HUNT

Mystery injected itself into the auto-train crash which took one life in West Etna when it became known today that a second person was killed or missing as a result of the death ride.

A coat, hat and driver's license found in the debris of the car indicated that Edward Starr, 25, of 239 Main street, also had been killed.

His body has not been recovered and Pine Creek, which is a few feet from the railroad tracks, has been dragged for it.

EX-BOXER KILLED

The other victim was James (Kid) Barone, 35, of 212 Thirty-ninth street, one-time pugilist.

A third person, Mrs. Viola Woldtman, 27, of 29 Kittanning street, West Etna, was injured. She is in Allegheny General Hospital suffering from a fractured arm and shock.

Auto, with its three passengers, and freight engine crashed at the Butler street crossing at 2:30 a. m., Thursday.

Barone's body was found 50 feet from the crossing. Mrs. Woldtman, unconscious, was found 150 feet from the crossing. The car was dragged 600 feet by the engine.

MOTHER HOLDS HOPE

The theory on which Etna police appear to be operating is that Starr, the main support of his mother, six brothers and two sisters, was hurled into Pine Creek and possibly swept into the nearby Allegheny River.

A brother has identified the hat, which bears his initials, and the driver's license as belonging to Starr.

A mother hoped against hope that her son was still alive today. Young Starr was employed in the assembly room of the Ford Motor Company.

"He was a good boy," Mrs. Starr, in tears, said, "and he helped to support our family."

SAFE IS LOOTED DOWNTOWN

When employes opened the store of the American Wall Paper Company, 106 Wood street, this morning, they discovered that burglars had entered during the night, obtaining $200 in cash from a small safe. The combination was hammered off the safe. Entry to the store was gained by forcing a rear window. Nothing but the safe was disturbed. Detectives are investigating.

Engine Derailed, Passengers Unhurt

Passengers on the Pennsylvania Railroad's St. Louis Express were slightly shaken up today when the train's locomotive left the rails as it was entering the Pennsylvania Station train shed. None was injured and there was no damage, officials said.

NAVAL PLANES CRASH IN AIR, 4 DIE; INQUIRY BEGUN

OHIO MAYOR BACKS TAX PROTEST

Since the special session of Congress has opened, citizens in all walks of life and in all parts of the country are rallying with renewed energy to the support of the movement for the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes. In the Pittsburgh territory readers of the Sun-Telegraph have set the pace for activity in the campaign being waged by the Hearst newspapers.

Howard A. Duff

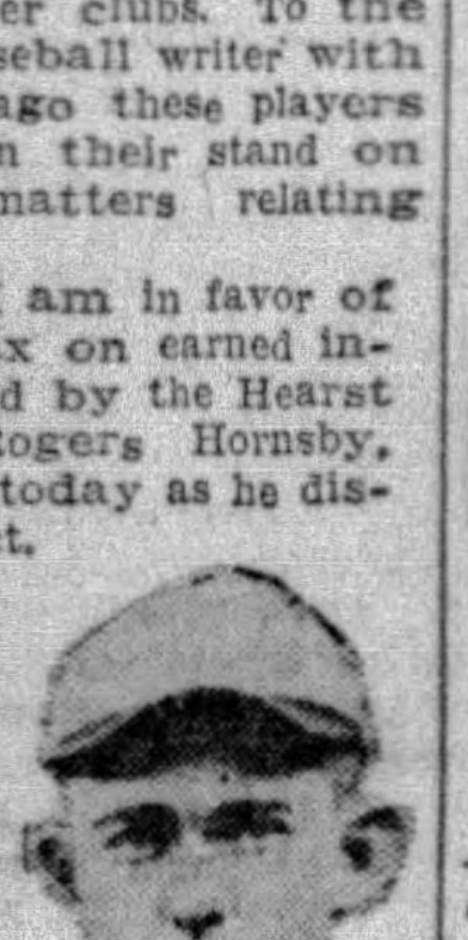
Mayor Howard A. Duff, of Martins Ferry, O., praises the work of the Sun-Telegraph and called upon his townspeople to back the movement for lower taxes on earned incomes. Mayor Duff, serving his third term in his office, is an ex-service man and formerly worked in a steel mill. He said:

"I believe the importance of this campaign for lower taxes is being overlooked by many wage earners in the Ohio Valley, and in doing so the people are not alert to their best interests.

"I have no argument with the government as to what it charges for incomes from stocks and bonds, but as to the levies against what a man earns by actual labor, that is a different thing. It is to be hoped that Congress will heed the petitions which we are sending forward through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph."

Out in the West where the Pirates are playing, the Pittsburgh baseball stars have been carrying on missionary work in behalf of a less burdensome tax on the incomes from wage earners. The Pirates to a man favor the income tax cut and their declarations were re-echoed by players in other clubs. To the Sun-Telegraph baseball writer with the team in Chicago these players were outspoken in their stand on taxation and matters relating thereto.

"I should say I am in favor of a reduction of tax on earned incomes as proposed by the Hearst papers," said Rogers Hornsby, renowned hitter, today as he discussed the subject.



Rogers Hornsby

Hornsby is one of the highest salaried men in baseball and he is forced to give over a big share of his earnings to the government.

The average career of a baseball player in the big show is not long enough to justify the amount they are taxed, according to the rank and file of the players.

"And if you are quoting me you can say that I think prohibition is the cause of this unfair tax," said the baseball star. "Moreover, I have never taken a drink of any kind of intoxicants, but I feel that we are paying out too much on account of the liquor laws. A tax on the legal sale of liquors would soon fix up that income tax stuff."

Charles (Lefty) Grimm, captain of the Cubs, and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler came along just as Hornsby had expressed himself on the big income tax question.

"Get me down there on that question—it's about time something was done on it," exclaimed Grimm.

"Those are my sentiments, too," echoed Cuyler.

his greeting, the arresting officers said.

They took him away, and before he left his home for the detective bureau he said to his sister, Miss Mary Schmidt, "I'll never come home again," according to police.

Miss Schmidt believed she knew the answer to the question why a man who had always, she said, been kind, gentle, had risen to such brutal passion.

"We came from Alsace, in our childhood," she said. "My brother has lived here 52 years. He is French, you know. He was well liked and he was kind.

"He has been so worried over business troubles lately that I was afraid he had committed suicide. I had not thought that my brother might have killed another man.

ACTED QUEERLY

"He has been acting queerly for a long time."

Beside her brother's deed, Miss Schmidt had something else to think about. It was the happiness of her sister, Odilia, such happiness as a paralyzed woman can enjoy.

"Be quiet. Don't let her hear us," Mary Schmidt told newspapermen. "I don't dare to tell her. This would take her, too. I just told her the police had taken him away because he had acted queerly."

Bell's body was claimed by Earl R. Wagner, a brother-in-law, of Steubenville pike, Robinson Township, and removed to the Wagner home today. Funeral services will be held at the Wagner home Tuesday afternoon and interment will be in Union Cemetery, Steubenville pike.

POLISH RABBIS HERE

RABBI TERVEL RODBERG RABBI ISAAC SCHUSTER

Rabbis Schuster and Rodberg of Grodno, Poland, in Pittsburgh in the interest of a Hebrew Theological Seminary at Grodno.

RABBI, VERSED IN MANY TONGUES, TO SPEAK HERE

A linguist able to speak Latin, Greek, Hebrew, German, French, Polish and Russian; an author of some 20 books on the Babylonian and Jersusalem Talmuds and Hebrew theology; a scientist who has made exhaustive experiments with ultra-violet rays; an expert on astronomy and chemistry—these are some of the attainments of Rabbi Isaac Schuster, who is in Pittsburgh in behalf of a Hebrew theological seminary at Grodno, Poland.

The Hebrew scholar is accompanied by Rabbi Tervel Rodberg, who is also on the faculty of the seminary. The institution is maintained by the Union of Orthodox Rabbis and has a student body of more than 400.

Both rabbis are scheduled to address several gatherings of local orthodox Jews during their stay here. Tonight Rabbi Schuster will speak at the Chofetz Chaim Congregation, Murray and Phillips avenues, Squirrel Hill, while Rabbi Rodberg will address a meeting of the Sheirey Tfilho Congregation, Miller street.

FARM AID FIGHT STIRS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Administration officials had their ears attuned today for a reaction to the appeal of President Hoover to the farm organizations to compose their differences over measures of farm relief and present a solid front during congressional consideration of such legislation.

They were hopeful that results would flow from the warning of the chief executive that divisions in the ranks of the farmers themselves encouraged those opposed to all farm relief and at best could bring only delays and danger of failure.

Since the debenture plan of the National Grange now is the chief point at issue between the agricultural organizations there was a general opinion here that Mr. Hoover had the differences over that question in mind, although he did not mention this or any other suggestion except that in the Republican platform adopted at Kansas City last June.

Woman Found Guilty In N.Y. 'Love Slaying'

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 20.—(INS.)—Fela Palick, 29, comely alleged "love slayer," was found guilty of first degree manslaughter here today in connection with the death of Henry A. Gagnon, 27, of Nashua, N. H., last August 11.

Mrs. Palick, wife of a restaurant owner, will be sentenced Tuesday. She is liable to from 10 to 20 years in prison.

10 FILM FIRMS INDICTED

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(INS.)—Ten of the largest motion picture producing and theatrical organizations in the West were under criminal indictment today, charged with conspiring to violate the Sherman anti-trust law. The indictments were returned secretly late yesterday by the Federal grand jury.

By means of "freeze-out" agreements, illegal contracts and other methods, it was alleged, the indicted concerns were driving independent exhibitors out of business and restraining trade.

It was rumored about the Federal Building that the secret indictments named the same companies that were hit in a semi-criminal action brought by the government several months ago to "remedy" asserted irregularities in film booking contracts.

The companies reported to be defendants in the latest action are:

West Coast Theaters, Inc.; Fox Film Corporation, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation, First National Pictures, Universal Film Exchange, Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, United Artists Corporation, Pathe Exchange, Inc.; Vitagraph, Inc., and Warner Brothers.

All of these, with the exception of Warner Brothers, are listed as defendants in the pending action, scheduled to go to trial last week, but which was continued because of the determination of the government to prefer criminal charges.

1,000 CHURCHES TO PROTEST POLICE LAW

the church members joined in united support for his election." Outside of Allegheny County the resentment of the Governor's action was quite as great as in the Pittsburgh district. In all industrial communities where the coal and iron police are employed, sentiment against Fisher runs high, the ministers declared, and will be manifested in the churches tomorrow.

FISHER GOES FISHING

Gov. Fisher, after signing the Mansfield industrial police bill and thereby defeating any present hopes that the coal and iron police system would be reformed—was fishing on Chesapeake Bay today. Meanwhile the civic leaders of Pittsburgh, who had worked for the reform of that system, were preparing to train their guns on what they termed "the betrayers of this state's citizenry."

The storm of condemnation that followed the Governor's action yesterday had risen to a high pitch today and liberal leaders in national, state and Pittsburgh organizations had the support of countless individuals as they voiced their indignation at the signing of the Mansfield bill instead of the stronger Musmanno measure. All laid plans to work for the eventual repeal of the new law and enactment of a sterner, more just bill in its place.

"PROMISE VIOLATED"

Officials of the American Civil Liberties Union here declared that the Mansfield act not only had violated the promise of reform, but actually had conferred broader powers and greater jurisdiction on the private armies of coal companies.

The deliberate rejection of Musmanno's bill to curb the powers of industrial policemen after passage of such a measure had been specifically promised was resented by banker and laborer alike.

At Washington, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced that the great body he leads would put forth its effforts to repeal the Mansfield measure and substitute a law granting reforms equal at least to those embodied in the Musmanno bill.

CIVIC CLUB "DISAPPOINTED"

The Civic Club of Allegheny County, made up of leaders in religious, business and public affairs, voiced its resentment through its president, Maurice R. Scharff.

"The Governor's action in signing the Mansfield bill is a great disappointment to the Civic Club of Allegheny County," said Scharff. "In view of the Governor's statement at the time of the Borkoski murder and at the time of the introduction of the Musmanno bill, it has seemed inconceivable that he could do less than approve this measure."

"It is time for Pennsylvania to be annexed to the United States."

Senator W. D. Mansfield said, "Why talk now? I did my best to have the bill amended. There is nothing to say, since I did the best I could, but was defeated."

The Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, said:

Weather Conditions.

The southwest low, centered over Utah yesterday morning, is now centered over Oklahoma and Southern Kansas, and covers the entire interior of the country. A trough formation of low pressure extends northwestward over Colorado and Wyoming to British Columbia. This vast low barometer conditions is causing cloudy weather over practically the entire country west of the Appalachian Mountains, with showers and thunderstorms in the lake region, the Ohio Valley states and the Plains states.

Relatively high pressure covers the Atlantic coast, the high that covered this section yesterday, and another high covers Manitoba and southward over the northern plains. The temperatures are 32 degrees or slightly below in this high, but over the remainder of the country the temperatures are well above freezing.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere in the Pittsburgh district. Rain is expected over the rivers today and tonight, but the indications are that there will not be enough rain to cause a material rise in the Ohio. The upper Allegheny will probably get substantial rains. Stage at Franklin is 5.0 feet; Lock No. 7, 16.2; Pittsburgh, 16.7; Dam No. 2, 8.8; Dam No. 6, 16.4; Dam No. 9, 17.2, and Dam No. 12, 17.3.

3 U. S. HEROINES AID MEXICAN WOUNDED

TUCSON, Ariz., April 20.—(AP.)—Three American women were hailed today as the heroines of the battle of Sasabe (Mesquite), Sonora, in which about 20 Mexican rebels were killed and wounded in an unsuccessful attempt to repulse an attack by 195 federal soldiers.

The women, Mrs. Arthur Hardgrave, wife of the former president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. Hardy, wife of a San Fernando, Ariz., physician, and Mrs. James H. Jones, a guest of Mrs. Hardy's, crossed the border into Sasabe after the battle yesterday and attended and cheered the wounded fighters.

Eighteen of the rebels, commanded by Lieut. Encarnacio Rojas, fled to American soil to escape capture by the federals and were held for internment. The rebels said between 30 and 40 of their comrades had been taken prisoners by the loyal troops.

The fight began at dawn, when the federals advanced upon 80 rebels entrenched at Sasabe. In two hours the town was in federal hands.

U. S. LINER SAILS SELLING RUM

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 20.—(AP.)—The giant liner Leviathan left for New York this morning with a stock of liquor aboard for sale to passengers.

Ships officers refused to discuss the quantity of liquor put aboard. The loading was done with the utmost secrecy. It was learned, however, the supply had been estimated so as to have little left over when the liner reaches the 12-mile limit, where what is left will be thrown overboard.

It was understood there was to be no bar aboard the Leviathan, but that wines and other liquors once bought might be served when and where passengers chose.

The Leviathan carried 247 first-class passengers and expected to pick up an equal number at Cherbourg. The officials said the booking was normal and about the same as last year, part of a small increase being due to a number of passengers of the French liner Paris being aboard. The Paris grounded Thursday in the English Channel and was forced to put back to Havre for repairs.

WHOOPEE'S IN TOWN

WHOOPEE M'GURK ARRIVING IN PITTSBURGH

WHOOPEE M'GURK INVADES PITTSBURGH—IN PERSON

By WHOOPEE McGURK,
(Himself in Person.)

Well, here we are, as the fellow said when he bicycled from bad to worse.

I wanna say I'm demented over Pittsburgh. I love your hamlet, especially the cops. I stormed into town today and skipped right past a half dozen left arms of the law.

Not a one of them bothered to ask me for my birth certificate—me, Whoopee McGurk, the handsome traveler who is suspected of "borrowing" Maggie's diamond necklace that Jiggs loaned to Dinty Moore.

Now don't ask me if I brought the necklace with me. Did I ever ask you where you got that horse you ride?

This is a swell burg and I'm going to see plenty of it because I'm as safe here as the Sixth Street Bridge. You've got the prettiest alleys ever I glimmered and I hear there's a museum where a fellow that's yearning for excitement can smoke cork-tip cigarets.

I'll be seeing you. I'm going places and executing things. I may come over to your house for tea.

I think I'll drop in on Mayor Kline tomorrow and find out how things are going for the next campaign. Maybe I can cook the big boy a mess of corn beef and cabbage, the same stuff I used to dish up for Jiggs at Dinty's hash house.

Your faithful sweetheart,
WHOOPEE McGURK.

Whoopee McGurk's in town, daring the whole police force. What'll he do next? Bringing Up Father, in the comic section today, and Sunday's Sun-Telegraph will tell you.

Postal Head's Wife Returns Pencils He Pockets

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Postmaster General Brown and Mrs. Brown are in complete agreement on economy in the Postoffice Department.

The Postmaster General has a habit of pocketing every pencil he gets his hands on. Mrs. Brown does them up in neat bundles and every few days personally brings them back to the department and leaves them with her husband's secretary who puts them back into use. The Postmaster General is never told anything about it.

Wife of Gunman Bares Jail Plot

BEAVER, Pa., April 20.—James Howard, of Ambridge, planned to [illegible] his way out of jail and later, if necessary, shoot his way to liberty from the court room where he pleaded guilty to charges of being a gunman, holdup man and drug addict, it was revealed in a confession made by his wife to Judge Frank E. Reader.

Howard, with Harry Moss, also of Ambridge, pleaded to the holdup of the Ambridge Gas Company office, stealing $3,000 and wounding Archibald Pew, the manager. Mrs. Howard admitted, officers say, sending three backsaws to her husband, who also requested a revolver, but the wife balked.

Grange Plans New Community House

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 20.—With a community house for the Pleasant Valley Grange made possible by donations of members, ground for it will be broken in Bullskin township, near here, today. The Rev. E. H. Stevens, pastor of the First Baptist church, will be the principal speaker.

DAVIS SINGS SWAN SONG OF OLD PUDDLING TRADE

CANONSBURG, Pa., April 20.—(INS.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today told the delegates to the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, an organization to which he belonged when he was an iron puddler long before he became a cabinet member, how "the old trade of puddling iron by hand is doomed."

"The day has come when the funeral oration must be pronounced over the ancient trade of the iron puddler, because new scientific processes are being introduced that will compel the old-time puddler to seek a new skilled trade," he added.

"But let us not forget that at the same time it lifts a load off his back and wipes the sweat from his brow. Lighter work takes the place of the old drudgery."

Davis said that the new process means increased production, with lowered production costs and increased uses for iron.

"In the long run it will mean giving employment to more men in the old industries and the opening of new industries for the working of iron into new products, with consequent extension of new jobs to new men," he declared.

"The iron and steel industry is another in which new automatic machines or processes are taking over the heavy physical burdens and making human work lighter. One great effect of this we must make clear to the enlightened employers of the country. That is, the worker who is along in years becomes as valuable as the younger man, and even more valuable, because the new machines and processes no longer require great strength or endurance."

Davis said he was convinced that the day must come when "the humane employer will never think of installing new machines apt to displace many workers without first providing new occupations for their workers."

SHIPS FALL SIDE BY SIDE INTO MUD

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 20.—(AP.)—A plane crash in the air, which sent three naval officers and one enlisted man to spectacular deaths, was the subject of an inquiry by a naval board here today.

The planes, both from the U. S. S. Lexington, collided at an altitude of 600 feet yesterday upon their return from a gunnery practice detail.

One ship was piloted by Lieut William K. Patterson, a native of Millerstown, near Harrisburg, Pa., who was accompanied by H. H. Brown, first class radio man of Billings, Mont.

The other plane carried Ensigns Herbert Bassett, Jr., McComb, Ill., and Harold R. Sheehan, who entered Annapolis from Massachusetts.

The ill-fated ships fell side by side into shallow water covering a mud flat. The three officers were killed outright. Brown, who apparently had been thrown clear as the wreckage fell, died in an ambulance on the way to the naval hospital.

LEADERS HERE SCORE FISHER

seph R. Grundy and William L. Mellon, have determined that they shall continue their private retinue of police, using the same methods of brutality and terrorism as heretofore.

"POWERS EXTENDED"

"Not only has the coal and iron police system been retained, though under a different name, its powers and jurisdiction have been in some respects substantially expanded. Coal and iron police are now given authority in every part of Pennsylvania equal to that of Philadelphia police.

"Democracy is but a farce in Pennsylvania. Public opinion in the commonwealth demanded insistently that the coal and iron police should go. This overwhelming sentiment meant nothing to the dictators of Pennsylvania, who rule with an iron hand. The action of the Governor and the Legislature shows to all where control rests.

WOODS DRAWS FIRE

"For years the state administration has ignored the long record of brutalities, outrages and terrorism which has been an integral part of the coal and iron police system. Then when a public revolt was imminent following the brutal murder of John Barcoski, even the Governor feigned disapproval in a statement which termed the whole system vicious.

"Representative M. A. Musmanno introduced a bill to abolish the coal and iron police, but it was made evident to him that no such action would be sanctioned, so he substituted a weaker bill.

"In its stead, Attorney General Woods, former counsel for coal interests, drew up an insipid measure, which Musmanno 'consented' to introduce in the House and Mansfield in the Senate. In closed committee, the Mansfield bill was changed to eliminate most of the restrictions on the coal and iron police and even to extend their jurisdiction.

"Even with these changes, the unseen government was unwilling at first to accept it and the plan was evolved to kill both bills in committee. When a hurricane of public sentiment swept away this manuver, the Musmanno measure was allowed to pass also as a blind.

"By signing the toothless Mansfield bill when its own sponsor had come out for the Musmanno bill, the Governor has bertayed the people.

"A flight to the seaside will not enable him to escape from the wrath of public opinion. We do not call for any explanation. None can be given. The Legislature and the Governor stand condemned before the bar of public opinion and the real rulers of Pennsylvania are revealed as the coal and manufacturing interests.

'ANNEX STATE TO U. S.'

"Pennsylvania needs an independent political movement to restore the rights of citizens. The tools of the dominant machine must be removed and in their places must be elected men who will represent the citizenship, not the moneyed interests. We feel with Theodore Roosevelt that it is time for Pennsylvania to be annexed to the United States."

Ten gifts of $10 each to the holders of savings bank books, as a reward for thrift, are announced by the Sun-Telegraph today, making a total of considerably more than $5,000 that this newspaper has offered to the bank depositors of the Pittsburgh district since it began its campaign to encourage the saving of money.

The Sun-Telegraph believes it is performing a useful public service in thus calling to the attention of the community the importance of making provision for the future. There is scarcely anyone who can afford NOT to save—scarcely anyone who will not be confronted sooner or later with a demand for a larger sum of money than can be met out of current income.

The only way to make sure of being able to meet the expenses of a long sickness, the only way to pay for a trip to Europe, the only way to assure independence in old age, for most of us, is to save, putting part of one's pay in the savings bank every payday and letting it earn interest.

A multitude of people have received Sun-Telegraph thrift gifts ranging from $50 to $5 each. Recent recipients include Miss Marie E. Katzenmeyer, of 1119 Cornell avenue, North Side, who has been awarded $10 as holder of bank book No. 8,266 in the Arsenal Bank, and Robert Wright, of 1442 Warner street, North Side, who has been given $10 as holder of passbook No. 27,421 in the Bank of Secured Savings.

Texas Town to Pay Opera Bill After All

AMARILLO, Tex., April 20.—(INS.)—The controversy between Amarillo business men and the Chicago Civic Grand Opera Company regarding the payment of $2,500 due the opera company is apparently a settled matter. Mayor Ernest Thompson, spokesman for the guarantors, says the money will be paid.

"The amount is too trivial to argue over," the Mayor remarked. "We have made our protest and accomplished our purpose. In Texas we believe in paying our obligations regardless of whether we made a bad deal."

REDFIRE, BAND, BANNERS WELCOME HARRIS HOME

Red fire, eulogistic banners and a brass band recalled former political days, in the welcome to Senator Frank J. Harris upon his arrival last night in Union Station after his victorious fight in Harrisburg for a vote machine law.

Members of the Senator's family joined with city and county officials in acclaiming Harris as he left his train and entered the station.

Headed by Danny Nirella's Band, the Senator's friends, carrying burning brands, formed a line of march down Liberty avenue to Wood street, to Fifth avenue, to William Penn place, to the William Penn Hotel, where a reception was held.

Sidewalk throngs, hurrying home from theaters and business houses, moved to the curb and joined the marchers in welcoming Senator Harris home.

When the caravan arrived at the Amen Corner in the hotel, James J. Davis, secretary of labor in President Hoover's Cabinet, and James F. Malone, president of City-Council, felicitated Senator Harris on his successful efforts to obtain honest elections.

SYNTHETIC GAS NEAR IN U. S.

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Substantial progress toward commercial production of synthetic gasoline in this country and abroad under a German process was announced yesterday by the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey.

The Standard Oil Company two years ago entered into an agreement with the German dye trust, the I. G. Farbeninudustrie Corporation, for application of the German discoveries to the refining of oil. The German chemists have been distilling oil from coal, but it is probable that Standard Oil should it go into production of synthetic gasoline, would use low grade crudes.

"Final agreement," the company explained, "will depend upon a further examination of legal questions and a settlement of other points."

Prof. Carl Bosch, managing director, and other officials of the dye trust have sailed for Germany after conferences with Standard Oil officials.

Inasmuch as the oil industry for some time has suffered from overproduction of the natural product, it is not believed any extensive manufacturing of synthetic gasoline will be attempted until crude production is brought under control.

Amelia Earhart, the first woman to cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airplane, has definitely accepted an invitation to come to Pittsburgh to attend the aeronautic exhibit and the 1929 national elimination balloon race which will be held in Pitt Stadium May 2, 3 and 4, according to a letter received from her secretary yesterday by former Congressman James M. She will fly to Pittsburgh and expects to bring with her Lady Frederick Guest, of London, who was one of the financial backers of her transoceanic flight. Lady Guest was the former Amy Phipps, daughter of Henry Phipps, of Pittsburgh, whose name is honored with a conservatory and playground here.

Lady Guest spent many years of her early life in Pittsburgh, where her father's boyhood home was located in Reedsdale street, North Side.

FULLER ASKED TO BATTLE TRUST

BOSTON, April 20.—Ex-Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, whose influence is tremendous in the Bay State, was appealed to yesterday by Representative Roland D. Sawyer, of Ware, to aid the fight to lay bare the activities of the power trust and halt its gobbling of local electric companies.

In view of the former governor's vigorous attacks on the power interests and their excessive rates in the past, opinion in official circles is that sooner or later he will respond to the call.

TRUST HELD AT BAY

An illuminating example of how the power interests can be held at bay is found in the Massachusetts town of Hudson, birthplace and former home of United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

The Hudson municipal plant became too small for the needs of the growing manufacturing community. Additional power was contracted for with the New England Power Company, subsidiary of the International Power Combine which recently bought control of two Hub papers.

But the lowest price that could be obtained was considered excessive and the citizens built a new plant, equipping it with three Diesel engines. It took courage, but in a short time Hudson was generating current at half the price fixed by the New England Power Company.

Incidentally the Hudson management tried to get a "tie-in" with Edison of Boston in case of great emergency, such as a lightning bolt might cause, and was refused point blank.

From his experience in dealing with the big private companies, Manager L. D. Wood said:

"It is my firm opinion that in no longer than a single year one company will control the power situation in Massachusetts, if a brake is not clamped on the activities of the big fellows."

INQUIRY DEMANDED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Investigation of the move of the International Paper Company, power and paper producing plant, to acquire control of American newspapers was proposed to the American Society of Newspaper Editors by Willis J. Abbot, editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

Before the large gathering of editors representing leading dailies of the country, Abbot declared that the course pursued by this company in buying newspaper stock justified the "suspicion" that it was seeking to control editorial opinion on questions of electric power distribution.

To illustrate his argument, he pointed to the recent acquisition by the International Paper Company of a controlling interest in the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler. The facts regarding this transaction were first revealed to the public by the Boston American, a Hearst newspaper.

SUSPECTS MOTIVES

"We find this corporation," said Abbot, "explaining its increasing ownership in the American press on the plausible plea that it manufactures paper, more print paper than any other organization in the world, and that it is buying these papers to furnish an outlet for its product. That is plausible.

"At the same time, however, it is going heavily into the power business, which is a public utility, as you know, and the suspicion is, I think, justified, that is acquires these papers not wholly in order to tie to its customers upon which it may rely in the future, but to control the editorial policy of the paper in reference to the distribution of power throughout the country."

Abbot suggested that the board of directors of the society appoint a special committee to inquire into the activities of the paper company and report back to the next annual meeting of the society in 1930.

Reopen Padlock Case Of Johnstown Firm

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, reopening padlock proceedings against the West Penn Paint and Supply Company of Johnstown, declared the facts had not been properly represented when the proceedings were dismissed January 15 and said he wished to interrogate the company representative and counsel at a rehearing fixed for April 30. The padlock petition, granted against Charles J. Fulmer, accused of selling liquor on the property, was dismissed against the company when it contended that the nuisance had been abated. Yesterday the government alleged that prohibition agents had made several purchases of liquor on the property since the former hearing.

MONEY SOUGHT BY DEMOCRATS

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—Study of plans for wiping out the $1,300,000 debt of the Democratic party will be placed in the hands of a committee to be appointed by National Chairman John J. Raskob.

This action was decided upon last night at a meeting attended by Alfred E. Smith and Senator Joe T. Robinson, the party's standard bearers in the 1928 presidential campaign, and members of the party's advisory and executive committees.

The party's debt, said Mr. Raskob, had been reduced by $200,000 through sale of bound volumes of former Gov. Smith's campaign addresses and other contributions. Many suggestions have been received on how the debt might best be met and the committee, which he expects to appoint within 10 days, will study them all.

Reporters were barred from the meeting but at its conclusion Mr. Raskob said that in addition to the debt problem there was a discussion on raising funds with which the party might carry on in a strong and militant manner, especially during the 1930 congressional elections.

He said it also was generally agreed that the party's national headquarters should be transferred from New York to Washington and indicated this might soon be done. He declared he had no intention of resigning his post of national chairman.

PHYLLIS HAVER SAYS GOODBYE TO CAREER IN MOVIES; WEDS NEXT WEEK

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 20.

Phyllis Haver departed for New York the other night, accompanied by her mother. Next Wednesday, at 7 p. m. in the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Rube Goldberg, Phyllis will be married to William Seaman, with Mayor James Walker officiating. At midnight, Phil and her husband will board the Berengaria en route to Europe and a four months' honeymoon.

The wedding ceremony is to be a quiet family affair for the most part. Phyllis will wear a lovely wedding dress. Mrs. Goldberg will be her matron-of-honor. No bridesmaids. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, now in New York, are to be present. Likewise Joseph Schenck, who departed for Manhattan last evening.

Miss Haver and Mr. Seaman met several months ago at the time he came West with Jimmy Walker and his party. It was love at first sight. Some time later, Phil trekked East for a vacation. While there, Mr. Seaman proposed and she said yes.

Edmund Lowe.

She returned to Hollywood to make her last picture under her M.-M.-G. and Cecil DeMille contract, playing opposite Lon Chaney. The picture has been one of those mellers that action from drawing room to railroad yards, trains, rain and show storms. As a result of this, the terrific excitement of anticipating her wedding, and separation from Mr. Seaman, Phil narrowly escaped a nervous breakdown.

It was a sigh-y relief to board the ole Chief and lock herself in her drawing room.

Phyllis' First Trip to Altar

WHETHER or not Mrs. Seaman-to-be will ever make pictures again is problematical. It won't be because of lack of offers. She has had several, at crackerjack salaries which would not take her from New York, but Phil reckons she has written finis on her celluloid career.

Here many Hollywood friends wish her every happiness. It should be hers. Phil has never even skidded to the outer edge of matrimony before. And take it from all who know, she's in love with Billy Seaman.

Lillian Gish, Mary's Guest

Kennywood Dance Season Under Way

Appearing with Izzy Cervone's band, which will play afternoon and evening concerts in Kennywood Park tommorow, will be Joyce Milton, formerly with the operetta, "The Desert Song." Miss Milton will be heard in "Songs of the Day." The first dance of the year in Kennywood's big pavilion is scheduled for tonight, with Bob McGowan and his Recording Orchestra furnishing the music.

Tucker Orchestra Coming to Sanders

"Not a change in personnel in three years" is the record held by Tommy Tucker's Californians, an orchestra of 12 men, which opens a two-week engagement in Sanders Inn, Aspinwall, Monday night. Sanders has had its Terrace Garden ballroom entirely redecorated. Dances will be held nightly, with the exception of Sunday.

NEW GOWN :-: CUTS THE CAKE :-: FILM FACES

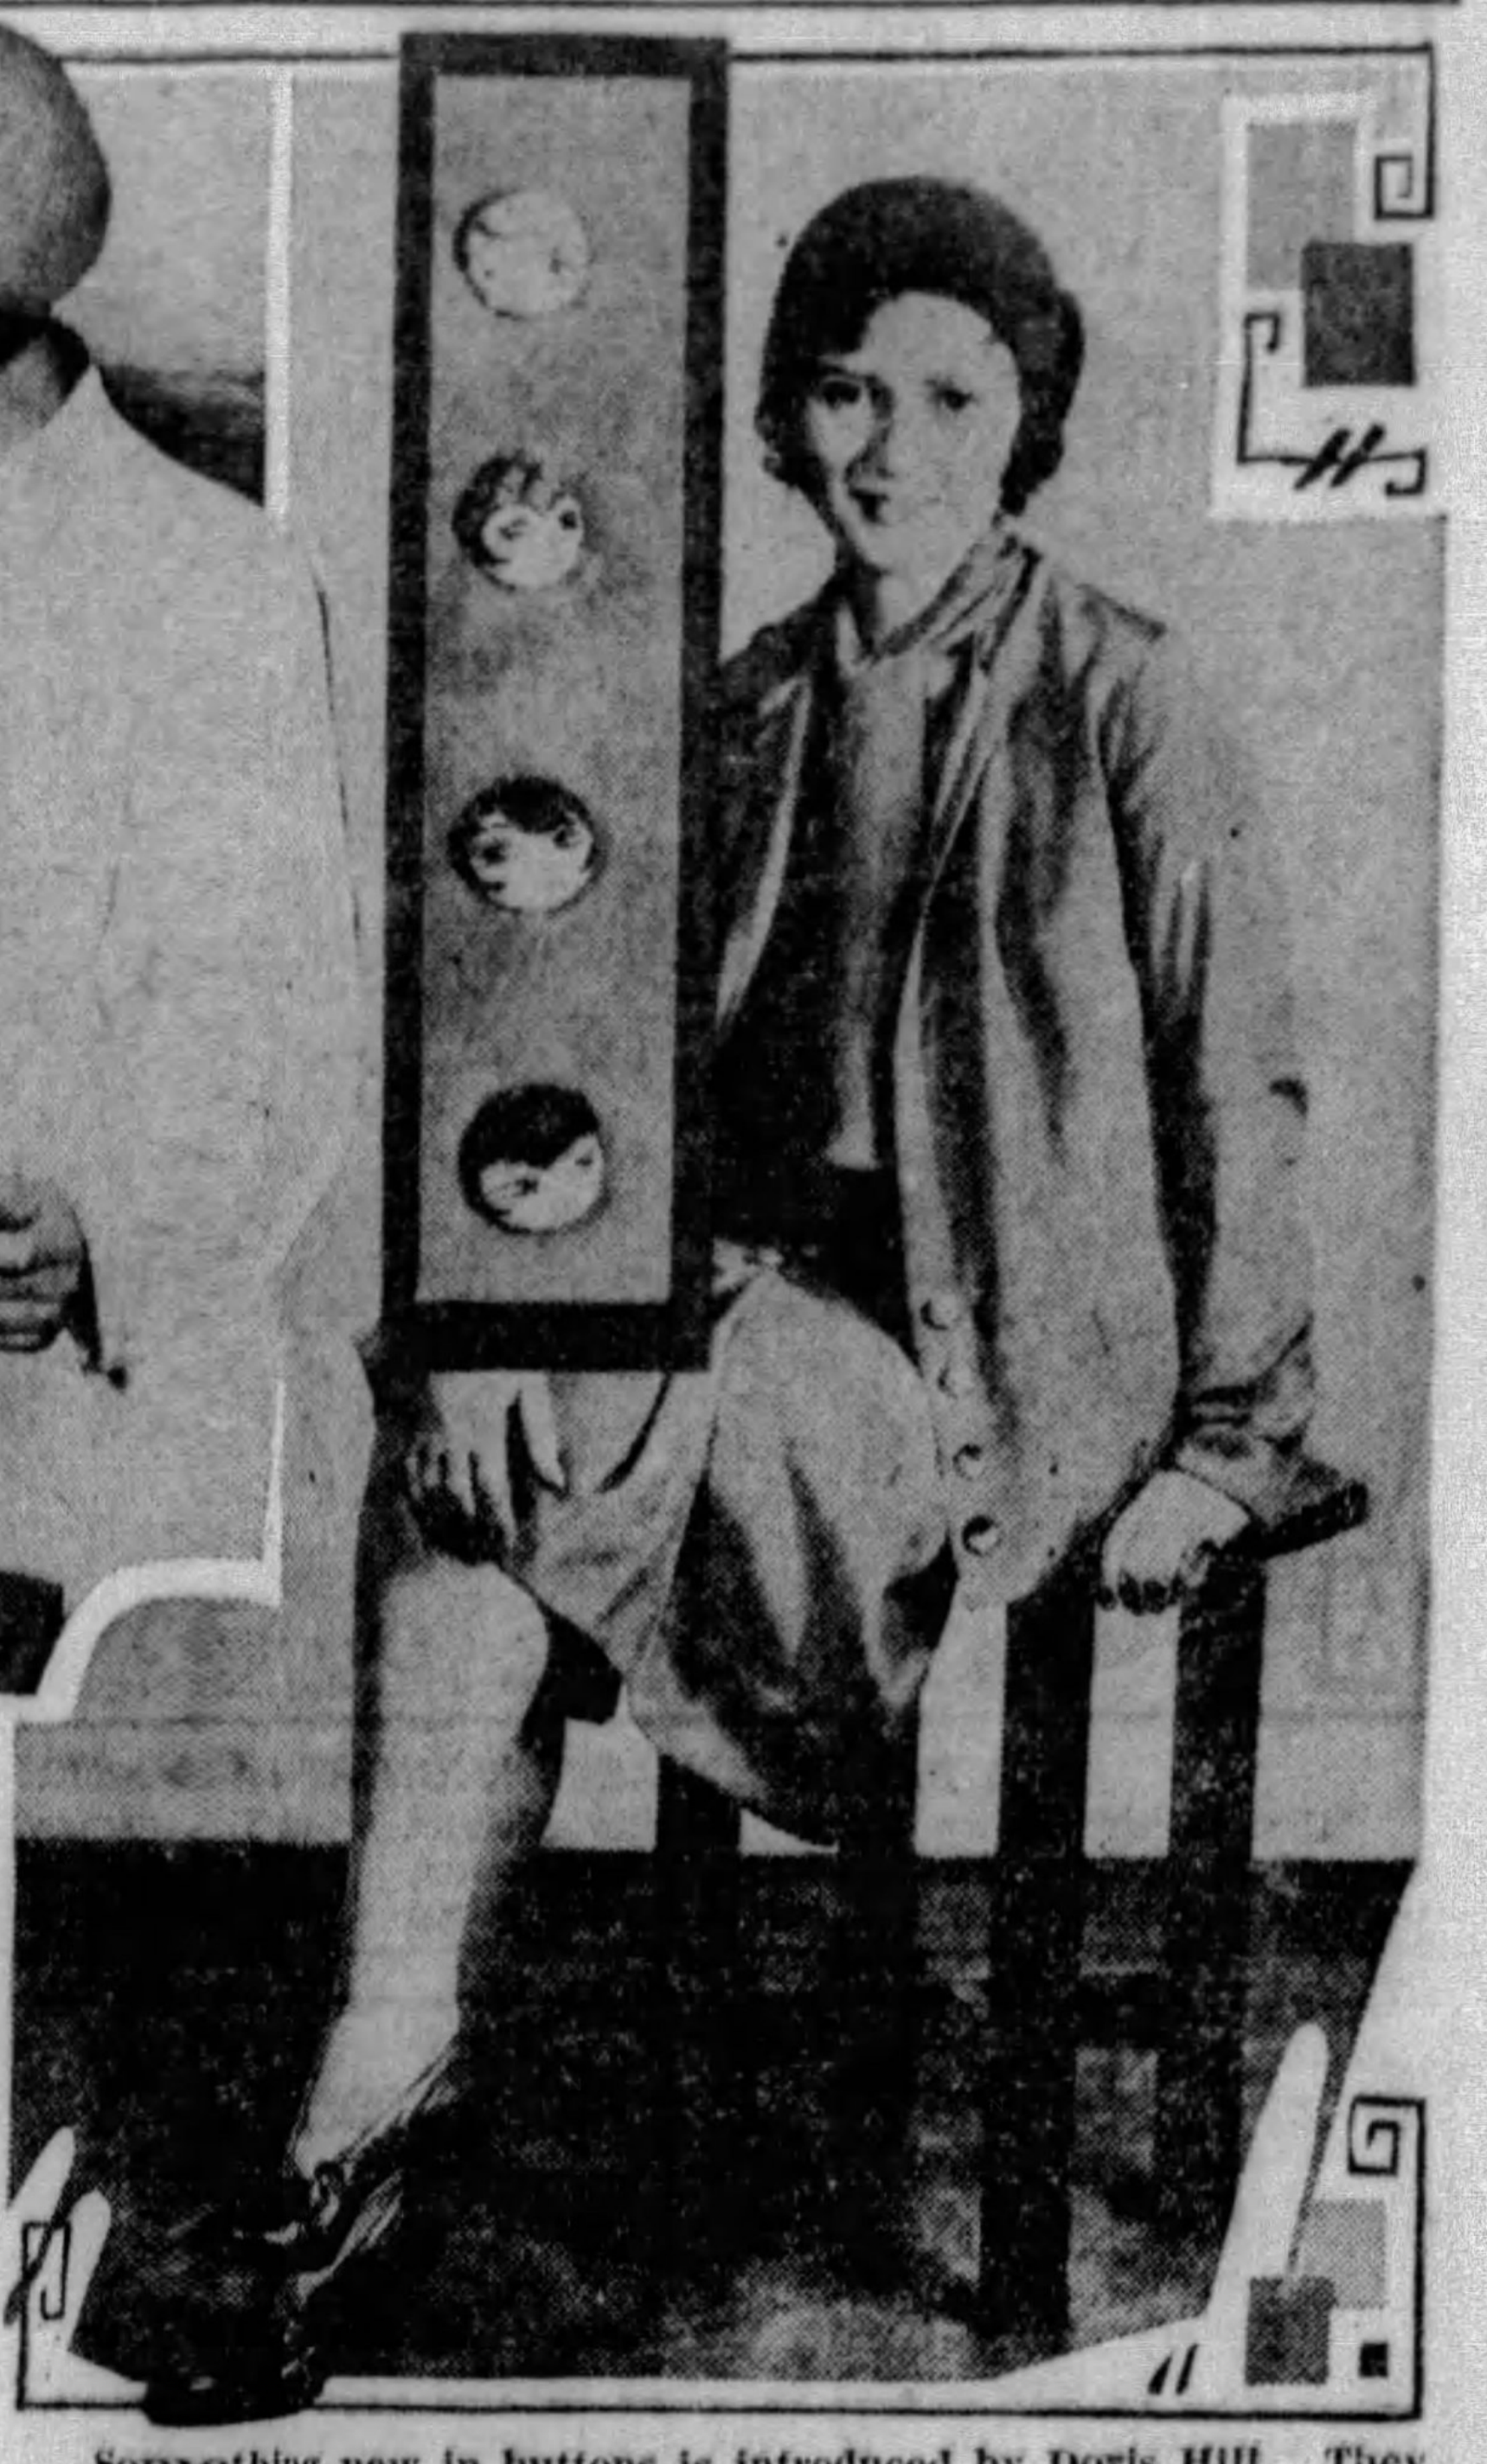
Mary Brian spends a busy night serving 225 square feet of cake in the Midnight Mission, Los Angeles. The cake, used in an Emil Jannings picture, was donated to the mission by the studio.



Something new in buttons is introduced by Doris Hill. They are film face buttons and Doris wears them on her new jacket.

STOCK PLAY, TALKIES, BILLED

"Excess Baggage," which will begin a week's engagement in the Pitt Monday night, being presented by the George Sharp Players, is a drama of back stage life, written by Jack McGowan.

"The Bridge of San Luis Rey," a picturization of Thorton Wilder's prize-winning novel, comes Monday to the Penn screen. There also will be a stage show, "Fore," featuring Teddy Joyce.

"MELODY" REMAINS

"The Broadway Melody," popular song, talk and dance film, will begin its fourth week engagement in the Aldine Monday morning. Bessie Love, Anita Page and Charles King are in the cast.

"The North Pole" and "Murder of Booze" are two featured scenes in "Red Hots," Wava White's Mutual burlesque production opening in the Academy with a midnight show tomorrow night.

Jeanne Eagels, the star of "The Letter," which is being held over for a second week in the Grand, made her greatest stage success in "Rain." "The Letter" is Miss Eagels' first talking picture.

Russell Gleason, son of James Gleason and Lucille Webster, legitimate stage players, has his first part in a talking picture in "Strange Cargo," which comes to the Enright today.

LUPE VELEZ AGAIN

William Boyd, who comes to the Liberty today with Lupe Velez in "Lady of the Pavements," has discovered that the average film star gives away 1,100 personal autographs in a year. This figure, Boyd says, does not include fan mail which bears the facsimile signature.

Two large wine vats were transported from San Diego to Hollywood for use in "Lady of the Pavements," the Lupe Velez starring film, opening today in the Liberty. These vats are capable of holding 2,500 gallons.

Rodrigo and Lila will head the combination of vaudeville and pictures in the Sheridan Square the first three days of next week. On the screen will be a talkie, "The Leatherneck," starring William Boyd.

Mary Haynes, Vitaphone star, will appear in person in the Harris Theater the first half of next week. The screen feature will be "The Leatherneck," a talkie, with William Boyd.

CHAIN NEWSPAPERS MOST LIBERAL ONES—COL. KNOX

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Col. Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst newspapers, addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors yesterday, asserted that the development of "chain newspapers" was the result of economic necessity.

The growth of group newspapers also was discussed by Roy W. Howard, general manager of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, and W. E. Bowman, editor of the Newark Star-Eagle, one of the Paul Block publications.

Col. Knox was asked to lead the discussion on the question:

"Is the chain a menace to American journalism?"

He translated this into the question:

"Is the chain (or group) a menace to the highest development of American newspapers—a hindrance to the service they should render their readers, their communities and the nation?"

To this question, Col. Knox's answer was an unqualified "No."

"This audience alone," he added, "is a sufficient answer to the question. Newspaper chains have been in existence many years, and I do not believe that the newspapers of the country, chained or unchained, ever had better editors than they have today, were ever edited more intelligently and conscientiously than now.

"The development of chain or group newspapers was as necessary and as inevitable in our economic change and growth as chain stores, chain hotels, great railroad systems, branch banks, big factories and other great combinations were inevitable.

"One might as well argue against the law of gravitation or the law of supply and demand. Group newspapers are simply the result of the latter law, and have been gradually brought about by the demand for more, better, and more varied newspaper content, a more complete coverage of the news and quicker distribution.

"This demand, with the increasing cost of labor and material, and narrowing profits, called for highly systematized organization and methods. The old, easy-going, slipshod, wasteful days of newspaper-making disappeared years ago, and in their place has come the necessity for the same degree of specialized effort as is required by any other great and successful business."

Col Knox traced the development of the chain newspaper to disclose that this concentration of effort was brought about by the demands of the news readers, particularly the women, who dominate the purchasing field, and the advertisers who desired to reach a wider field of potential customers. He pointed out that the newspapers were compelled to heed the demands of these two classes.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburghers Closing Palm Beach Homes And Coming North

PALM BEACH must be fairly well deserted by this time, since most of our folks are back home now. A few who are planning homes for next season are remaining late, among them the Thomas R. Cowells who are, I understand, building a beautiful new house on El Vedado lane. They are still at the Beach consulting with architects and builders and to see the work started, and then they will come North to New York.

Mrs. Henry B. Rea, who left the Beach on Thursday, kept up to the last her custom of having her friends in for a buffet supper on Sunday evening. I hear, too, that Mrs. Rea is planning to open her villa at Southampton for a few weeks this summer. And among other local folks who concluded their visits to the Beach this week are the Frederick G. Blackburns. They have occupied a villa there this season and are closing it today to leave for home.

Perhaps you would be interested, too, in hearing that the Alfred G. Kays have bought about 10 acres of orange grove and nursery land with tropical and sub-tropical plants at Boynton, which they are planning to develop with a caretaker's bungalow and a fully equipped laboratory for plants' analysis. Mr. and Mrs. Kay, you know, have similar experimental gardens on their New York estate. Mrs. Kay is secretary of the Palm Beach Garden Club, which has just furnished a city planner to co-operate with the town in beautifying the resort.

* * *

SO Virginia Thaw is going to make a Pittsburgh debut, after all. I had heard, you know, that this daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw III, of New York, and granddaughter of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, would be presented to New York society next winter, but probably would not come out here. Now I understand that Mrs. Thaw, Jr., will introduce her granddaughter to her Pittsburgh friends at a tea dance at her Sewickley Heights home on Saturday afternoon, September 14. Virginia will be introduced to New York society in December.

THE junior James Barlow Cullums, of Sewickley, and the Allan Milligan Cullums, of Reading, were joint hosts at dinner last night in the Allegheny Country Club supplementing the rehearsal for the wedding of Katherine Porter and Hartley Given Walker. Washington League Wins Play Contest

"JUDGING the fifth annual amateur players' contest was a difficult task and the decision was arrived at only after much mental perspiration and perturbation. If the quality continues to increase as much as it has during the last year I will not be a judge again." So said George Seibel, dramatic critic of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and one of the judges, in awarding the prizes at the conclusion of this year's contest last night in East Liberty Carnegie Library. The first prize of $100, with which goes the Samuel French trophy, was awarded to the Washington Drama League players for their work in "Trifles," their first contest appearance. The South Hills Repertoire Players, veterans in the contest, won second prize for their presentation of E. P. Conkle's "Minnie Field," while the third prize went to a newly organized band, the Round Table group of Pittsburgh, for their work in "The Little Stone House," the fourth to the Puppets of Pittsburgh (appearing in "The Conflict"), who won first prize the previous two years, and the fifth to the Jamestown Players, who presented "A Wedding." Honorable mention was made of the work of the Temple Players, the Sacred Heart Repertoire Company and the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg.

Last night's plays, each one of which presented its own type of interest, were the comedy by John Kirkpatrick, which the Jamestown Players gave with spirit and understanding: "Sanctuary," Dennis O'Shayne's little drama given by the Gargoyle Club, of Shady Side Academy; "Minnie Field," the almost actionless folk play through the lines of which the audience learns of the end of a bleak, beauty-starved life, and "Sabotage," which the Sacred Heart Repertoire Company offered. In the Jamestown cast were Richard Woods, Russell Burns, Lillian Brooks Clary, Ralph P. Ripley, Ursula Jones Sullivan, Leon F. Roberts and Matelle Crosby. Richard Martin, Ray E. Hurd, George H. Calvert, Jr., and Edward C. Bald, Jr., composed the Gargoyle cast. The South Hills Players who might have been more effective had they been less deliberate, were Frederick G. Clerigue, Howard R. Eulenstein, William B. Stricker, Charles W. Van Esseh and J. C. Spahr Hull.

The "Sabotage" cast included Joseph A. Burns, Mary Ann Gallagher, Ivor M. Lowrie and Helen V. Crawford.

And so ended one of the most interesting experiments in amateur theatricals Pittsburgh has ever seen and one in which, as Mr. Seibel said, future Belascoes were being developed.

PROHIBITION AND LICENSE DISCOVER REAL SOLUTION

In a dialogue debate between "Prohibition" and "License," John Haddon, the writer, of Montclair, N. J., has matched the arguments of the prohibitionists and moderates, and pointed out the fallacies in the claim that the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act have been undisguised blessings for the country.

Mr. Haddon submits his diverting dialogue as an expression of opinion in connection with the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest, although not as an entry for the contest. His word duel follows:

By JOHN HADDON

Prohibition and License happened to meet one day in front of the Hall of Justice.

"Well," sneered License, "what a flop you turned out to be! You've made more sneaking drunkards than the world ever knew before and put crime in the column with big business."

"I did nothing of the kind," said Prohibition sullenly. "I've saved thousands of men from drunkards' graves. I've filled banks to overflowing with savings deposits. I'm the greatest friend that women and children ever had. You'll find that the next generation will bless my name."

License snorted contemptuously.

"Be yourself. The next generation will have to live under arms if the liquor and drug trade continues to grow. You make a joke of law and order. The most profitable business in the United States today is criminal business. You can't deny that, and it isn't necessary to say any more."

AS FOR THE SALOON

"This from a whited sepulcher," said Prohibition venomously. "You, I suppose, would immediately restore peace and respect for law. Perhaps you would like to suggest that saloons on every corner would create a Paradise on earth. You would propose to make men happy and prosperous by inviting them to swill to their hearts' content. The whisky route to perfection. Gutter training for salvation. What rot!"

"Rave on, stupid," said License. "You have the choice between pure liquor sold in the open and vile poison sold by bootleggers. You can have some sort of orderly refectories, as in Germany and France, or outlaw speakeasies that breed gunmen and hopheads. The cops can handle a few drunken fools, but they're helpless against an organized industry that can buy its way right up to this Hall of Justice. Certainly, though it isn't desirable, I'd rather see even the return of the saloon. If it should come back there soon would be an army of booze and dope peddlers digging ditches instead of ruining the young people of America."

"Don't concern yourself about the saloon," said Prohibition with an unpleasant grin. "My followers would rather see the streets barricaded and blood flowing in streams than sacrifice the victory we have gained. Ours has been a moral achievement and—er—but I hardly think you would understand my argument on such grounds."

A STRANGER

The two glared at each other belligerently and were about to continue their verbal duel when they were interrupted by hearty laughter. They turned to confront a stranger who appeared vastly amused.

"Excuse me for overhearing your remarks," he said. "I detest snooping, but I must confess that I am greatly interested. You see, I'm the fellow who will settle the matter that you two are discussing."

"You?" exclaimed License and Prohibition in the same breath.

"Most assuredly," said the stranger with good-natured firmness. "I'm the only hope in the present situation. You, License, represent all the evils of the old liquor system and the people will never tolerate you again. You, Prohibition, are an impractical idealist and, for that reason, you can never succeed. Both of you gentlemen are extremists. One of you promotes drunkenness; the other promotes crime.

"Through me, all bootlegging will be abolished. There will be no incentive for an illicit liquor traffic. And while our people will be able to buy non-poisonous alcoholic beverages openly, there will be restraints on excessive drinking."

Prohibition's lip curled as he launched a mighty sneer:

"You, I suppose, are Providence himself?"

"No," said the stranger, with a twinkle in his eye. "I'm an old friend that no one quite seems to understand or even to remember. You've frequently heard of my parents, Common Sense and Moderation. I'm their only offspring. My name is 'Temperance.'"

Only Ten Days More

Only 10 days remain before the close of the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest, which ends at midnight, Tuesday, April 30. Readers who expect to enter plans should remember the date, for no entries postmarked after the closing hour will be considered.

One of the greatest newspaper contests on a subject of pressing national concern that has ever been held in the history of the nation, has revealed that the great mass of America's citizenship has become thoroughly awake to the manifold evils which have followed the enactment of prohibition. Even those who were formerly the most ardent of dry advocates have altered their viewpoint.

The nation's best minds demand a change. The sponsor of the $25,000 capital prize, William Randolph Hearst, has crystallized the national sentiment through the contest. Read the rules.

Your idea may save the nation from the bootlegger and dive-keeper.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed, and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxts on Earned Incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

PRESBYTERIANS FOR U. P. UNION

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—(AP.)—Steps taken and recommendations in relation to proposed union of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. with various denominations are outlined in a report made public yesterday and to be presented to the Presbyterian General Assembly at St. Paul next month by the department of church co-operation and union.

Some of the phases touched on in the report are definite steps toward speedy organic union with the Reformed Church in America and with the United Presbyterian Church; closer co-operation with the Presbyterian church in the United States (southern); progress toward union with other Presbyterian and reformed bodies, and deferred action concerning union with the Methodist Episcopal Church until after Presbyterian and Reformed bodies are united.

With regard to the United Presbyterian church, the report recommended that the general assembly request the assembly of the United Presbyterian church, which meets at Pittsburgh, Pa., May 29 to June 4, appoint a committee with which the department may confer, with a view to closer co-operation and if possible organic union, and that the Rev. Dr. Henry Chapman Swearingen, St. Paul, Minn., be appointed a fraternal delegate to convey to the United Presbyterians the general assembly's action.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

JOHNSON LINKS DOPE TO ALIEN SMUGGLING

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A new drive against the gigantic illicit dope traffic in the United States was launched yesterday by Rep. Johnson (D.), of Oklahoma.

Federal authorities have estimated that dope valued at not less than $300,000,000 is smuggled into the country annually.

In an effort to smash this traffic, Johnson has proposed a congressional investigation of the smuggling of aliens, liquor and narcotics.

PEDDLED BY ALIENS

Most of the dope peddled to America's addicts is imported and sold by aliens who have entered the country illegally, he charged. He believes the inquiry will lead to enactment of a bill to deport aliens convicted of violating the anti-drug laws.

"No greater crime can exist than the promiscuous bootlegging of aliens into the United States," said Johnson. "I have a case in mind where immigration inspectors watched the smuggling of aliens, liquors and morphine into America in wholesale lots, despite the fact that those in authority had advance information that these boats would enter.

LAW BREAKDOWN

"Many of these undesirable aliens, smuggled in excess of the quotas provided by law, are peddling booze, bootlegging drugs and narcotics, and contributing materially to the breaking down of law and order and lax enforcement in many quarters."

Johnson said he is prepared to submit affidavits to prove his charges of official connivance in the smuggling operations.

"Dope is one of America's greatest curses," he continued. "It has enslaved thousands of our people. It leads to the most aggravated forms of debauchery and crime. People are not safe so long as drug-crazed criminals roam the streets and can obtain apparently unlimited supplies through smuggling."

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Every Woman Loves a "Gentleman"

* * *

Sometimes it's a doctor who fears that chivalrous lads are courting colds in the head. Sometimes it's a feminist, who feels that removing the hat to a woman is an insult to her sex. And now a popular writer suggests that women would be much happier if men refrained from baring their heads, when a lady enters an elevator.

* * *

* * *

In the scramble of modern life, one beautiful and ornamental custom after another has fallen into disuse, and we are rapidly becoming a nation of hoodlums. We gulp our meals, jostle each other in a crowd, bawl each other out in traffic, and leave our bowing to the waiters.

* * *

It takes just two seconds for a man to remove his hat, and another two for him to put it on again. Surely, he can afford to cling to that charming little ceremony, even though he has just pushed a woman through a revolving door, or beat her to a seat in the street car.

* * *

A gesture of chivalry, here and there, is as refreshing as the sight of a florist's window in the midst of a dingy and sordid street. It gives you a positive THRILL, and makes the whole world seem more lovely and human. It is a bright touch of trimming on a dull machine age.

* * *

When a man performs an unexpected little act of courtesy, it does not make a woman feel that SHE is "superior." It makes her feel that HE is superior—that he has that rare thing, good breeding. It puts him in the "Prince Charming" class, and sends a glow right through her, that buttons up the back.

* * *

All the smart clothes and snappy haberdashery in the world cannot make a striking impression on women, as just a touch of mannerliness. Anybody can wear ornamental clothes, these days; but polish and ornamental manners are positively unique!

* * *

If we MUST be utilitarian and fling away all the graces and beautiful things of life, then we shall have to do away with lilacs and hyacinths and roses and honeysuckle; with sunsets and stars and moonlight and poetry and music. They have positively no UTILITY in the world. They just FEED THE SOUL!

* * *

It isn't a man's morals, so much as his manners, that make him lovable. Women have clung to husbands who were burglars and forgers and second-story men abroad, but perfect gentlemen around the house. And they have deserted many a "good man" who answered them in grunts or growls and never stooped to put on their galoshes for them. Nothing grates on a woman's finer sensibilities like an uncouth man. And nothing fascinates her like a polished one.

* * *

Every woman loves a GENTLEMAN! DO let's encourage men to go right on removing their hats before ladies. That's all that is left of the beautiful flower of chivalry!

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Katherine Spikes Sam's Effort to Confer Alone With Lillian

I SPEEDILY foind that in old wives' parlance I "had my work cut out for me" to keep Samuel Brixton from staging the private interview with Lillian which he had come so far to obtain. Whether or not his half-brother was coaching him, I could not determine, but both he and Charles Owen were adroit enough to keep themselves very much in the background, leaving the conversational field to Helen Brixton and Lillian. The two old friends were so busy in catching up with the years during which they had not seen each other, that they paid only perfunctorily courteous attention to the rest of us, and I silently raged as I fancied I saw in Charles Owen's eyes a calculating appraisal of the effect of this reunion upon Lillian's aversion to Samuel Brixton.

Without obtruding myself upon the reunited friends I kept close to Lillian after dinner when we gathered around the living-room fire, which the cool autumn evening made most grateful. And I suddenly sat up mentally and physically when Samuel Brixton looked over at his wife and spoke with ostentatious but genuinely affectionate solicitude.

"I hate to butt in, Helen, but you know how terribly tired you were today. I think you ought to go to bed."

Lillian rose instantly.

"How thoughtless I have been!" she said. "Come, Helen, I'll carry you off and tuck you in at once."

"Does that mean you'll talk till morning?" Samuel Brixton demanded with heavy jocosity. "Because if it does, I shall have to stand outside the door and put a time limit upon the gabfest?"

"No, I really won't let her talk any more tonight," Lillian promised, as she slipped her arm through Helen Brixton's, and, waiting only for her guest's apologetic goodnight to the rest of us, walked with her to the door. I joined her there, stressing my role as hostess, and was just in time to hear a low-voiced query from Samuel Brixton who had gallantly escorted both women to the hall.

"Are you too tired to go over that little matter with me tonight after Helen gets to sleep? You know what it is, dear." He turned to his wife.

"Oh! yes," she fluttered, "and I do hope, Lillian, you will realize how in earnest Sam is about it."

I acquitted her of anything save an earnest desire for her husband's atonement to Lillian and her young daughter for his old defrauding of Marion's father. But I was furious at the smug smile of satisfaction curving Sam Brixton's lips as Lillian turned softened eyes upon her old friend's eager face and answered tenderly:

"At least I'll listen patiently to what he has to tell me, for your sake, Helen."

Over her shoulder I signaled Katherine with an almost imperceptible quirk of my eyebrows. The little nurse waited a second or two, then rose and walked across to us while I detained Mrs. Brixton with a housewifely query as to her breakfast preferences. Then I spoke to Katherine with a casual air.

"I'm glad you're here, Katrina. You'll be able to lay down the law to Lillian as I wouldn't dare to, not having your authoritative office."

"I'm a nurse, you know." Katherine told the Brixton's smilingly, "and I'm sure that behind my back they call me Mrs. Simon Legree. What is Lillian plotting now, Madge?"

"Oh! nothing very terrible," I laughed, "only I thought I heard a tentative arrangement for her coming back downstairs and talking over some business matter——"

"Noth-ing do-ing!" Katherine retorted, and her smile did not rob her verdict of its authoritative rang. "I ought to have sent you to bed an hour ago, Lillian, but I always try to indulge the children when company comes. Now go upstairs, like a good little girl, and tomorrow—will be another day."

That Lillian was secretly relieved at Katherine's dictum as she would have been at anything which postponed the interview with Samuel Brixton, I knew. But she put up a creditable pretense of apologetic disappointment, wrinkling her nose at Katherine and emphatically saying "Needs must——" with a shrug finishing the quotation. And it was worth all the discomfort of the evening to catch the lowering look in the eyes of Charles Owen as he turned them blackly upon me for the merest fraction of a second.

"Must we go to bed, too, Auntie Madge?"

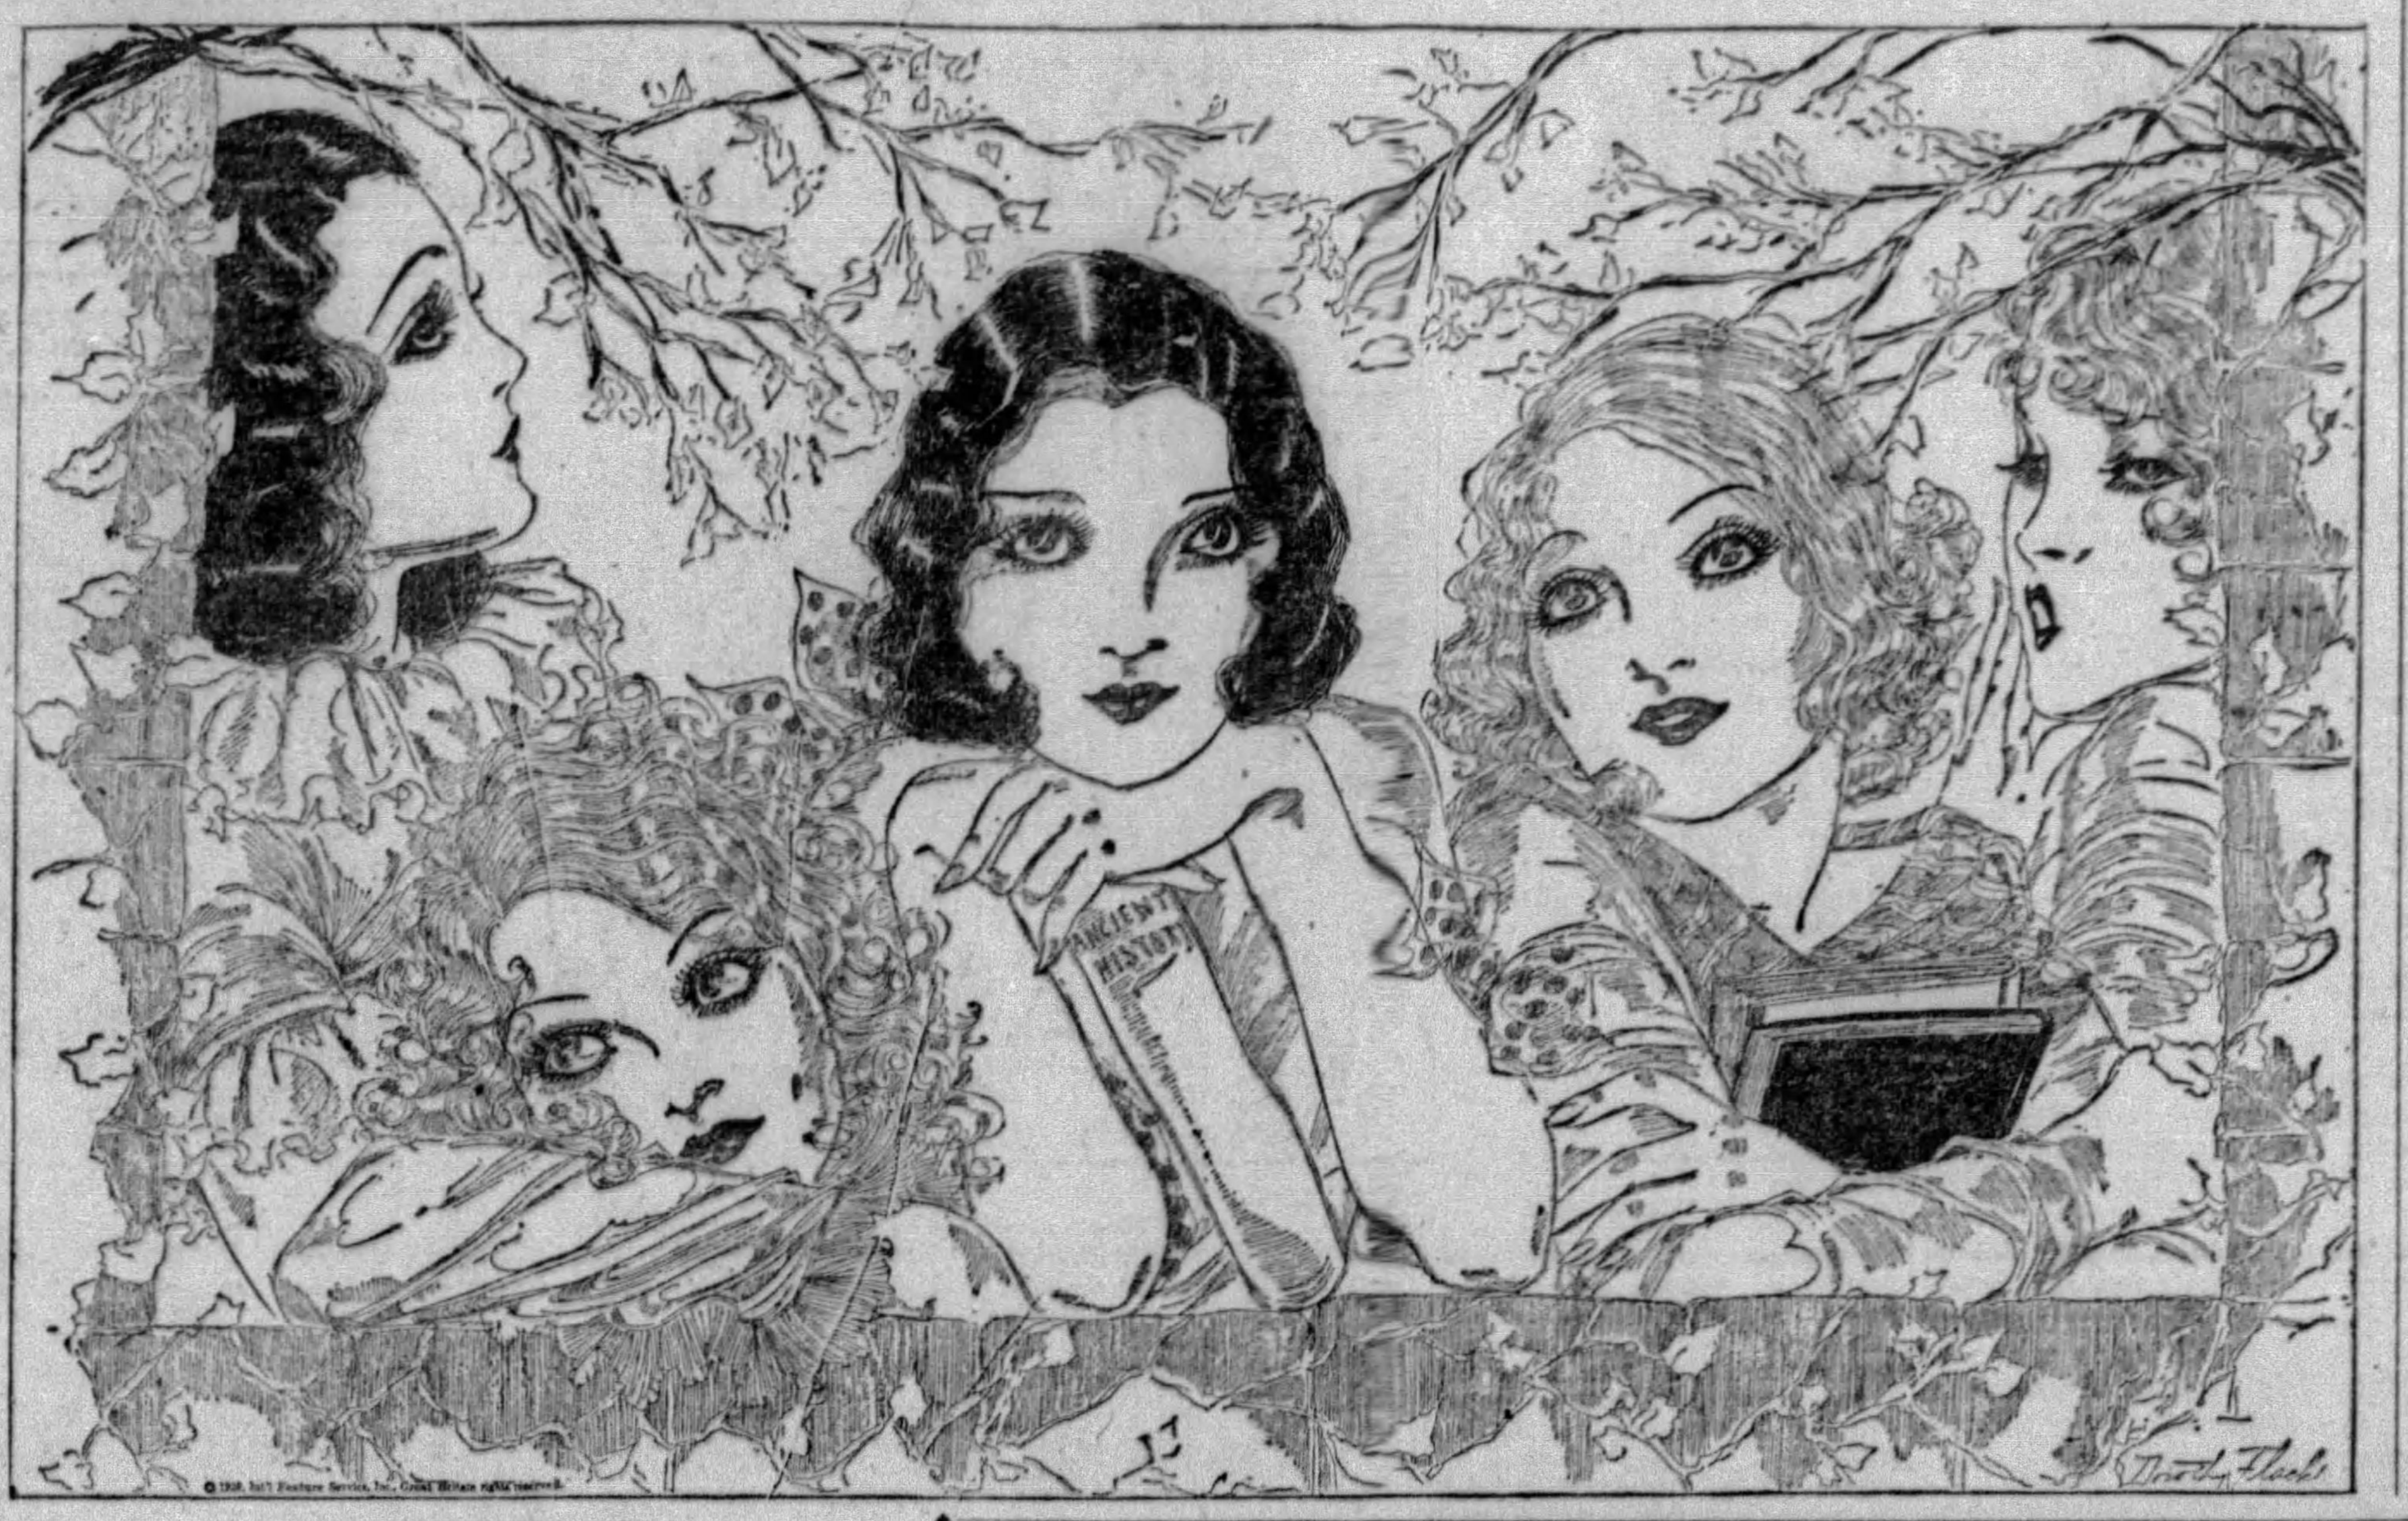
SPRING FEVER

Drawn By Dorothy Flack



© 1929, Int'l Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

WHO cares about all the dry old subjects—Latin, ancient history, mathematics, philosophy and all the other things that have absorbed us all Winter? Now it's Spring, and who can concentrate on such things in these joyous days?

Spring fever! That's what we all have! When eyes stray from books and gaze longingly on distant skies and rolling green fields; when all the birds sing an inspired invitation to come out into the loveliness.

True, exams have to be crammed for, and it's oh! so hard to do when everything in this Springtime world is calling us to get out and join the beauty.

Never mind! It will be over, and then ho! for the joyous vacation time! Then we'll forget books and learning and all the dull, dreary Winter days, and revel in the sunshine and happiness of the golden Summer days.

So try and forget the Spring fever, and look forward to the Summer recovery when we'll be in tune with the world and start once more the search for Romance which is an inevitable part of the Spring fever.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

To Keep Young, Act Young

IF YOU permit yourself to grow old it is to a great extent your own fault. There are causes for old age that you cannot control, but in many instances it is possible to escape the usual signs of age.

DR. COPELAND

To sit down, reconciled to be an old man or an old lady, is the surest sign that you are old. Don't permit yourself to do this. Never admit, even to yourself, that you are old.

To lose interest in life is bad for you. you must have contact with going concerns, you must talk with your friends and be eager to hear the latest news. If you permit yourself to get out of step with your surroundings, you are really old.

To men and women who have worked hard all their lives, it seems wonderful to think of the day of retirement. "To lay down the fiddle and the bow," is sweet in prospect. Mr. Coolidge said once he intended to take a year "just to whittle."

But there is nothing so boresome, nothing so wearing, nothing so age-producing, as idleness. Because you think you are old, you retire from business and, by doing so, you guarantee for yourself speedy rest in the grave.

A body and mind set to work cannot loaf without inviting disaster. The rest of idleness will quickly destroy what activity could not damage.

Through my whole life it has been a hobby of mine to watch business men who "retire." They picture for themselves years of play and fishing and loafing. What do they get? About six months of life. Then they die of some acute ailment that would have amounted to nothing had there been some incentive to get well.

If you have three or four score years to your credit, don't think you must fold your hands and wait for death. If you do, death will be along very soon. But if you defy death by doing every day what you have always done, death will slink away ashamed and afraid.

It is too bad to be a slave to your daily duties. Do them cheerfully, but do not permit them to break your spirit. Keep an interest in what is going on in your world. Think about such things and not about your burdens. Then you will stay young.

I don't care whether you are 30 or 80, when you think only of yourself you are really old. You can keep young only by thinking of others.

Never retire from one business till you are ready for another. Have hobbies enough to occupy your thoughts and interest when the usual occupation is not pressing.

There! Haven't I preached a sermon!

Anyhow, I have told you some important things that will preserve your health if you observe them.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Gifts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A young girl had been "keeping company" with a young man for about three months prior to Christmas. At Christmas time he gave her a gift that was in keeping with what one should give when one is not engaged. Now this young lady was told she could not give a gift in return, as she was not engaged to him. What do you think, should she, or should she not, have given him a gift?

IF the young lady had given the gentleman a gift that also was "in keeping" with what she should give to a young man to whom she is not engaged, then it would have been perfectly correct for her to have given him a gift. For instance, now she is offered every possible kind of book, for all tastes this would have been correct. Or a carton of his favorite cigarets. Or one or two or three handsome linen handkerchiefs, plain or monogrammed. Or a box of plain white or very light gray or Scotch granite letter paper of handsome quality and of a generous size appropriate for a man.

The Club Scrapbook

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

The club I belong to has decided to keep a scrapbook and put me in charge of it. I told one of the girls that you should put everything in it; by that I mean everything that is published in the paper, all invitations from other clubs, letters, posters, dance programs, handbills, small clippings of decorations, and so forth. She says that we should only keep newspaper clippings, handbills and photographs of the club. Which one of us is right? I am not going to put anything in the book until I receive your answer.

T. Y.

IF the scrapbook is to be a complete record, I should think that your suggestion is the perfect one. An incomplete record is often of less value than no record at all. And may I offer you my best wishes for your club.

Horoscopes

Sunday, April 21

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of good and satisfaction for ecclesiastics and clericals, with recognition from elders or superiors, but generally affairs are fluctuating, under restless and opposing forces. There may be sudden visitations, delays and even money losses unless precaution be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of returns or recognition from elderly persons or institutions, with substantial rewards for hard labor and fidelity, but they should safeguard against loss, move cautiously, and be prepared for some delays or obstructions in the plans.

A child born on this day may have many sterling qualities making for its success, but these may be negatived by a disposition to restlessness and sudden change.

Monday, April 22

MONDAY'S astrological forecast may not be held as fortuitious, although there may be some purely personal compensations. These of a social or possibly spiritual character. But there is a sign of tempest, ill will, revenge, jealousy, and these should not be permitted to cloud the auspicious conditions.

Those whose birthday it is may not expect a year of many auspicious conditions in workaday matters, unless these be connected with artistic, educational or entertaining activities. Personal associations may give pleasure, but defeat not these by bad temper, ill will, jealousy or ideas of revenge.

A child born on this day may have contradictory qualities.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Hendricks Fears Bucs.
Keeps Away Strength.
Marathons for Fun.

Robins After Mamaux.

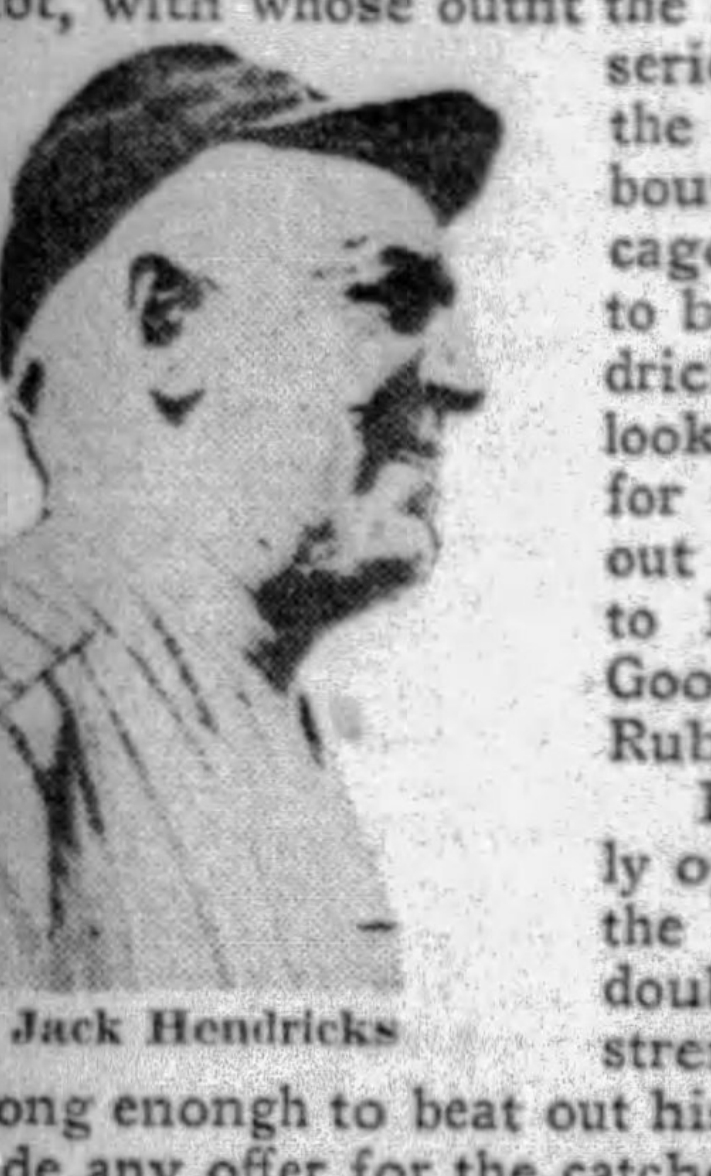
Holdouts Not Shining.

PIRATES REFUSE PICINICH LONG PACT



Jack Hendricks

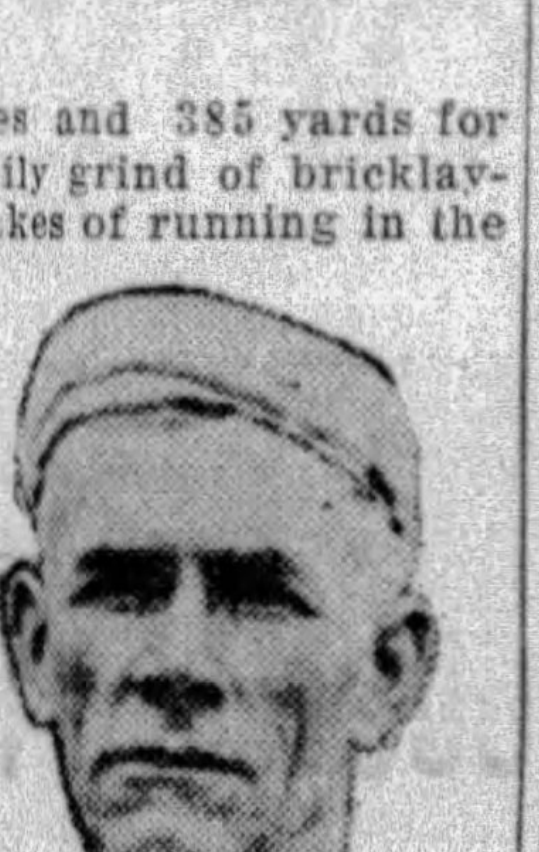
ONE manager in the National League who is not underestimating the strength of the Pirates is Jack Hendricks, Red pilot, with whose outfit the Buccaneers will open a three-game series in Cincinnati today following the postponement of the fourth Cub bout scheduled for yesterday in Chicago. At least that is the conclusion to be drawn from the attitude of Hendricks while the Cincinnati club was looking for an opening to make a deal for the trading of Val Picinich, hold-out catcher, who was finally swapped to Brooklyn for Catcher Johnny Gooch,, former Corsair, and Pitcher Rube Ehrhardt.

Hendricks from the start was clearly opposed to letting Picinich come to the Buccaneers, for the reason, no doubt, that he feared to add further strength to a club that already looked strong enough to beat out his own. The Pittsburgh club never made any offer for the catcher, despite some Cincinnati reports to the contrary, but admitted it would be willing to take him at any reasonable terms Cincinnati might name. Hendricks, however, insisted on a price in playing material that the Pittsburgh club could not afford to pay without weakening itself.

THE understanding was that the matter would be left open until the Pirates arrived at Cincinnati today, but as far as the Corsairs were concerned it was closed on Thursday, when Picinich himself killed any chance of his becoming a Buccaneer by calling up Manager Donie Bush in Chicago by telephone and informing him that he would have to be given a two-year contract before he would consent to play here.

That ended the Bucs' part in the affair, as Manager Bush told Picinich it was the Pittsburgh club's policy not to give any player a contract for more than one year. But even if Picinich had been willing to come here on a single-season contract, it is doubtful if the deal could have been made, as Hendricks probably would have continued to oppose letting the catcher go to a club stronger than the Reds. He was willing to take much less from Brooklyn than he demanded from Pittsburgh, inasmuch as the Robins are not looked upon as contenders for anything higher than sixth place.

WOULD you consider it fun to run 26 miles and 385 yards for nothing, just as a little change from a daily grind of bricklaying? Well, that's the view that Bill Kennedy takes of running in the Boston Marathon. He was in there yesterday, as usual, and the fact that he finished far back among the trailers doesn't mean that he didn't get a kick out of it.



Bill Kennedy

Kennedy rode into Boston on a freight train on April 18, in 1917, slept on a pool table that night, and next day went out and won the Marathon. The passing years have made his hair snow white; but he enters the race year after year, even though he admits he's a "nut" for doing so. He doesn't expect to win, but insists that it's "recreation."

"SURE, we're nuts," Kennedy admits, "but we're not any nuttier than those birds who play golf in the rain or sit and watch football games when it's freezing. I like to run, but I don't let it interfere with my work. I work hard at bricklaying and take care of my family. They are as interested in my running as I am myself. I meet a great many good fellows, and I have a great time running around. It's the only recreation I have. I suppose I am a nut to keep on running without even getting anywhere in particular, but what's the harm of it?"

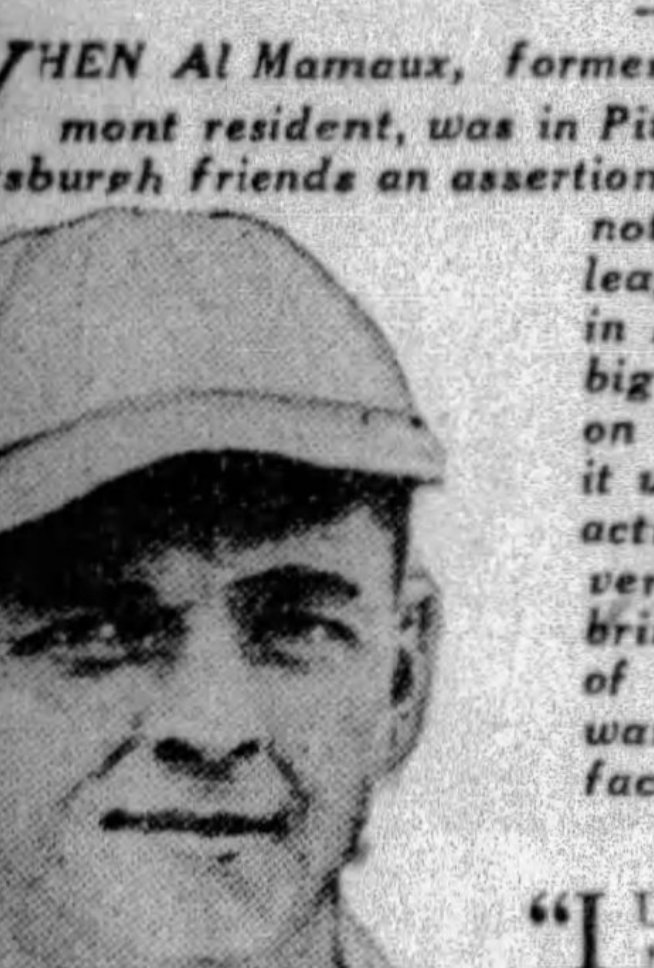
THE fact that Clarence De Mar himself had been so dissatisfied with his time trials that for a time he thought seriously of remaining out of the race prepared the public in a sense for the defeat of the 40-year-old star in the thirty-second running of the famous Marathon yesterday. The dopesters who insisted on making him the favorite must have done so out of sentiment rather than anything else.

For it had become clear that De Mar was slowing up, a fact attested by the development that his time in the race yesterday was almost seven minutes behind the mark he made a year ago. But even those who were not surprised at his defeat feel none the less regretful, as the six-time winner of the distance classic had made himself a warm favorite throughout the country.

IN De Mar's announcement that he has run his last race the Marathon game loses one of the greatest figures that ever graced it. But he has a worthy successor in Johnny Miles, of Hamilton, Ont., whose record-smashing time of 2:33:08 4-5 in yesterday's victory—his second in the event—makes him the outstanding distance runner in the Americas today.

Incidentally, the result proved that De Mar's passing is due not entirely to a going-back on his own part, but also to the fact that other runners are coming forward, as shown by the remarkable feature that the second and third finishers, Karl Kiski and Willie Kyronen, as well as the winner, beat the best time ever previously made in the contest.

WHEN Al Mamaux, former Pirate pitcher and one-time Dormont resident, was in Pittsburgh in February, he repeated to Pittsburgh friends an assertion he had previously made that he did not want to come back to the major leagues. "I want to continue pitching in Newark," he said. "I'd rather be a big flag on a little pole than a little flag on a big pole." In view of that stand, it will be interesting to watch Al's reaction to something that may develop very soon, for a movement is on to bring him back to the big show in spite of his expressed objections. Brooklyn wants him and makes no secret of the fact.



Al Mamaux

"I UNDERSTAND that Tris Speaker, the Newark manager, is gum-shoeing around looking for a catcher," said Wilbert Robinson, Dodger pilot, who has just made another deal in backstops by taking on Picinich and parting with Gooch. "Are there any catchers around? Well, I think I'd try to slip Speaker a catcher and another player or two if he'd let me have Mamaux.

"Mamaux is a peculiar proposition. He seemed all washed up when I let him go several years ago, although he still was comparatively young. He showed nothing when he came back to the majors for a short stay with the Yankees. But he's just about the best pitcher in the International League year after year, and it's my theory that the best pitcher in the minors ought to make a reasonably reliable performer for us."

IF the first game could be taken as an indication of what was to follow, the Yankees might be expected to exercise the same old jinxing power over the Athletics this year. In 1927 the Hugmen won 14 out of 22 from the A's and last year they bagged 16 out of 22, thus winning pennants by defeating the club they had to beat.

Yesterday, in the first meeting of the new season, old Jack Quinn pitched well enough to win any man's ball game, but lost by a 2-1 score because the Yanks got hits on a series of pop flies that were lost in the sun. Last year Quinn lost his first game, and then won five in a row and 15 of his next 18 starts.

THE 45-year-old star started training ahead of his team this spring and his fine work yesterday, in spite of his defeat, reflected the benefits of that course, in contrast to the poor work done so far by some of the holdouts who missed part of the conditioning work. Paul Waner has made only one hit in three games, Sam Jones was knocked out in the second inning of his first start, Dazzy Vance was a bust yesterday in his debut, failing to get even one of his

LOSS OF FAGAN WEAKENS LOCALS

By TOM BIRKS

With Joe Fagan, star right fullback of the Heidelberg team, barred for life by a ruling of the American Soccer League last night, the local booters entered the Western final of the National amateur competition with the Magyars of Cleveland in a considerably weakened condition.

Fagan was blamed for the altercation that followed the Heidelberg-Corinthion game at Heidelberg last Sunday afternoon in which three Corinthian players were assaulted. The decision of the league means that Fagan is barred for life from organized soccer.

An all-morning rain rendered the Stadium grounds soggy for the important battle. The winner of today's battle will meet the Newark, (N. J.) club, Eastern champion, for the National amateur championship, an honor which Heidelberg won year before last. The Western team has won the title four times in the last five years and the winner here today will be favored to cop the big laurels.

This will be the greatest battle Heidelberg ever had in the national fight, and visions of that gruelling fray at Cleveland three years ago when, after a two and a half hour fight Heidelberg lost to the New Bedford defenders by the only goal scored.

MAGYARS POWERFUL

The Magyars will try to prove it the local soccer element that it is the best soccer eleven flashed in the Steel City since the advent of the Glasgow Rangers. And now that Joe Fagan will not play, Dante Villani and Berky Jones will have a tough time with that fast moving line led by Becker. However, Sziga will be the man to watch, being a powerful shot, and as he weaves his way through the opposition, the Clevelander looms as a tough proposition to stop. But Hoffman, who is manager of the club, and also the fullback, will also have a hard time with Buff Donnelli.

Today will be the first time that the Pitt and Duquesne University football squads have seen the national amateur champs in action, and the boys are eager to make a good impression. Heidelberg will not go down without a fight.

WALKER REFEREE

Chappel, McCosky and the Donnelli boys will give the Buckeye defense plenty to worry over and a determination to win in this particular competition should help the local outfit. Referee Walker, of Buffalo, N. Y., will handle the game.

Fans taking in the battle should see the greatest soccer battle ever staged in this city. Clevelanders say this is Magyars' year. For five years this wonderful club has tried in vain to capture the "amateur." Last year Heidelberg barred the way, and in a terrific blizzard, Magyars thrust the Heidelberg tornado aside. Will history repeat itself, or will Heidelberg avenge that defeat of last season. The lin-up:

Heidelberg soccer team, which meets the Magyars, of Cleveland, in the final round of the Western division of the National amateur soccer competition at the Stadium this afternoon. The winner will oppose Newark, N. J., the Eastern champion, in the National final two weeks later. This game also will be played at the Stadium if Heidelberg survives. Heidelberg won the National title for the 1926-27 season, was eliminated by the Magyars in a blizzard in Cleveland last year, when Detroit won the title, and now is in the running to regain its lost laurels. Joe Fagan, pictured above, will not be in the lineup today. He was barred from arganized soccer for life at a meeting last night.

FAGAN BARRED FROM SOCCER FOR LIFE

Joe Fagan, star right fullback of the Heidelberg team, was suspended for life from organtzed soccer by a ruling of the American Soccer League at a meeting held last night. The action was taken because of the alleged assault by Fagan on three Corinthian players following an American League game at Heidelberg last Sunday afternoon.

Fagan is perhaps the greatest American-born soccer fullback ever developed in Western Pennsylvania. He started his career 12 years ago with the Morgan Juniors, then went to Arden, and was the hero of that sensational National semi-final game at St. Louis when Arden lost to Scullin Steel, 2 goans to 1, in 1921.

Fagan joined the Heidelberg club in 1926, and was a member of the team that won the National amateur cup in the season of 1926-7.

SALO CONTINUES LAP WINNING

BRAZIL, Ind., April 20.—(AP.)—Covering the 57 miles from Indianapolis in 7:49:10, Johnny Salo, Legionnaire and policeman, of Passaic, N. J., won his fourth straight lap in C. C. Pyle's bunion derby yesterday, and approached within 25 minutes of Ed Gardner, Seattle, Wash., Negro, who is second in elapsed time.

Salo was unable, however, to materially cut down the lead of Pete Gavuzzi, of Southampton, England, leader in elapsed time, who dogged the New Jersey cop's heels and finished seven minutes behind him in 7:56:15.

Gardner, handicapped by a painful leg, was eighth in 10:15:20, the lowest position he has finished since the start of the race.

With yesterday's run the bunioneers have completed 862.8 miles of their trans-continental journey.

Hafey Wallops Two Homers; Takes Lead

Chick Eafey was the big home run man of the day yesterday as the Cards downed the Reds in the closing game of the series at Cincinnati. There were seven four-base blows struck in the two leagues, five in the National and two in the American. Hafey has hit three so far this season.

Both Ruth and Gehrig, the socking twins of the Yankees, failed to connect for round trippers, but they would have had to hit mighty timely ones to have stolen the show from Hafey. The records:

BILLY O'LOUGHLIN

One of the famous three local O'Loughlin brothers of tennis fame. He opened his season yesterday afternoon by defeating Walter Arensburg in a hard-fought singles match in the team competition between the Duke Preps and Shady Side Academy on the Duke courts. The scores were 4-6, 6-3, 8-6. O'Loughlin, who is the Western Pennsylvania junior and Pittsburgh scholastic champion, is captain of the Duke preps and Arensburg leads the Shady Side squad. Last year they were teammates at Shady Side. Dr. John and Dave O'Loughlin, Billy's brothers, also hold sundry court titles.

WILLIE DAVIES SCAMPERS TO EASY WIN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Lefts to the right of him,
Rights to the left of him,
Volleyed and thundered.—

But Jackie Rodgers stuck it out manfully, and, although outpointed in every round by the phantomlike Willie Davies, of Charleroi, in the 10-round main bout before a packed house in the Moose Temple arena last night, the showy little Negro bantam, of the North Side, made matters as interesting as possible and once more left the ring with no loss of prestige despite the fact that he had been beaten.

Willie did nothing less than hand Jackie a boxing lesson, one worth oodles of coin in any man's realm. But Jackie absorbed it all without a whimper, and never stopped trying. In fact, he was forcing the going most of the time, boring into Willie and winging and trying to get the erstwhile State flyweight titleholder to mix with him. Occasionally he succeeded, but even then he was left in the ruck, for Davies was equally too clever for him at close range. One of Willie's best weapons was a jolting short uppercut inside that kept Jackie's head bobbing back as if it were on a hinge. Out in the open, Willie sprayed punches at the crowding Rodgers like a machine gunner on a busy day. None of them hurt Jackie especially, but they were most aggravating and piled up points in overwhelming fashion.

SPEEDY THROUGHOUT

It was a speedy mill in every round and in three of the sessions they fought after the bell. These sorties were due to Willie's penchant for playing along and off the ropes. Generally he would roll and weave and bob and counter and hook and uppercut and make Rodgers look bad, but now and then Rodgers would catch him off his stride along the hemp and score tellingly. It was in exchanges of this sort that the gong went unheeded at the end of the first, fifth and ninth rounds.

For a one-sided bout, it never lacked interest and the loser, because of his willingness, came off with as much credit as the winner, who figured to outclass him from a boxing standpoint. Davies, who lost an unpopular decision to Midget Wolgast at New Castle last Monday night, appears to have regained all of his old speed and cunning and there seems to be no reason why some of the topnotchers in the flyweight class should not be brought here to meet him during the summer months.

SMACKEY IS VICTOR

Spears Takes Lead In Tourney Singles

Some good scores were produced in all divisions of competition at the Market Square bowling tourney, but Spears, of the Red Moran Colts, rolling in the individual events, was the only player to boost the previous scores, his 630 mark placing him 39 pins in the lead of Pete Furman, still in second place with a 591 count.

The 2,495 score of the Kibitzer Five rolled early in the tourney retains first place in the five-men event. Butts and Dubski lead in the doubles, this pair sporting a 1,101 count. Lease, of the Enright Five, still is leading in the all-events with 1,641.

The tourney will be concluded with the rolling of today's events, featured by the appearance of all-star teams from Youngstown, Sharon and Homestead.

CINCINNATI, April 20.—When the Pirates reached Cincinnati this morning, a switch was announced in the pitching plans. Manager Bush yesterday said he would work Carmen Hill in the opener with the Reds, but apparently Donie experienced a change of mind last night, with the result that Burleigh Grimes will be on the mound in the inaugural with the Reds. Charley Hargreaves will catch. Rolly Hemsley generally works with Hill.

Manager Bush left the train at Indianapolis this morning owing to the sudden death last evening of has brother, Michael, who was killed in an automobile smashup while traveling with a friend toward Cincinnati.

Donie's brother intended to be here to join Donie and to see today's contest.

Sunshine greeted the Pittsburg players as they made their first visit of the year to the home of the Reds. Everybody on the Pirate roster is in good shape with the exception of Captain Traynor, who seems to be improving. He received daily treatment from Trainer Mike Martin. Lloyd Waner has a painful "strawberry" as the result of sliding, but this will not keep him out of action. Lucas is due to face the Bucs today.

REDS JUST FAIR

The Reds are not figured as strong for the flag honors as they were last year, and they were not favorites, by any menas, in the last race. The prestige of the Hendricks crew has taken a turn for the worse since the close of the last race, although the Rhinelanders are just the kind of a club that may give the better-liked contenders lots of trouble.

Manager Hendricks has a good pitching staff, at least, fair strength under the bat, a fine infield, especially on defense, and a fair-to-middling outfield. The club generally has a good morals.

All in all the Rhinelanders are no setup, and the Pirates are not regarding them as an easy push-over, but the Buccos do feel that they should take at least three of the impending fights.

HOPE FOR SERIES

The Pittsburghers would like to return home next Tuesday with as many games won as lost, to say the least. To reach the home port under these conditions they must take two of the games, provided all three of the contests are run off.

The stay in Chicago was pleasant in one sense, but the two defeats sustained while sojourning at Wrigley Field did not leave a pleasant taste. This turn of events may prove a good thing for the Bucs, coming as it did at the start. It should serve to let the Pittsburgh athletes know that they have some real opposition in Chicago, and again the terrific pastings experienced may tend to keep our boys from being over-confident.

EASY FOR GIANTS

The early phases of the schedule bring severe tests for the western flag-chasers. The Pirates, Cubs and Cardinals must fight it out through two weeks while the Giants are having the soft competition of the east. This sort of thing has been going on for many years, but the western teams appear to be able to hold their own anyhow, judging by the number of flags going to the Pirates and Cardinals in the past few years.

PREP NET TEAM WINS OPENER

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

With vigor and ambition that carried them far into the twilight hours, the Duke Prep and Shady Side Academy net squads inaugurated the local racquet campaign on the Bluff rectangles yesterday. The contest was bitterly fought throughout, and ultimately terminated without definite decision, the Dukelets leading in matches, 3-2, when darkness descended to interrupt the second doubles affair in which Shady Side held a 6-3, 3-3 advantage.

Billy O'Loughlin, Prep ace and former Shady Sider, and Wally Arensberg, blonde visiting driver, staged the feature match of the day, a three-set inter-captain affair that O'Loughlin finally edged out, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6.

The summary:

Singles—O'Loughlin, Duquesne, defeated W. Arensberg, Shady Side, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6; Huttinger, Duquesne, defeated C. Arensberg, Shady Side, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3; Miller, Shady Side, defeated Behringer, Duquesne, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1; Herrmann, Shady Side, defeated Breen, Duquesne, 6-2, 6-2.

Doubles—O'Loughlin and Huttinger, Duquesne, defeated Arensberg and Arensberg, Shady Side, 6-1, 6-2; Miller and Crawford, Shady Side, led Behringer and Virage, Duquesne, 6-3, 3-3 (match to be finished at Shady Side later).

YANKS, CARDS, BRAVES, GIANTS ARE VICTORS

By LES CONKLIN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April, 20.—The heart of Cornelius McGillicuddy was a bit heavier and his venerable head drooped a bit lower as he led his Athletics against the Yankees here today, for the world champions demonstrated yesterday that they still have the Indian sign on the Mackmen.

John Picus Quinn, the 44-year-old Ponce de Leon of the A's, lost a 2-to-1 decision to Waite Hoyt in a brilliant pitching duel only because Mule Haas, Mack's inexperienced center fielder, lost two flies in the red glare of the descending sun. Al Simmons, out with injuries, probably would have caught both. And so Connie, who has spent more than a million dollars and tried out some 400 rookies since 1914 in an effort to win just one more pennant, got off on the wrong foot again because of the ever-present jinx.

Hoyt allowed only four hits in chalking up his 146th victory in a New York uniform. Quinn yielded five.

BRAVES WIN TWO

Another impressive performance was turned in by Ed Brandt of the Braves, who held Brooklyn to three hits and beat Dazzy Vance, 5 to 1, after the Beaneaters had won the morning game by a 6-to-5 count.

Believe it or not, the Braves, regarded as the worst team in the majors, top the clubs of both leagues today with three wins and no loses.

Chick Hafey was the batting hero of the day, his two homers enabling the Cardinals to down Cincinnati, 9 to 4. Today Chick will peer through his new "specs" at the Chicago pitchers in the first game of a series that will test the new-found batting power of the Cubs.

HURST IN FIGHT

Carl Mays, veteran submarine pitcher, started his comeback campaign auspiciously as the Giants shellacked the Phillies, 14 to 5. A first fight between Hurst, of the Phils, and Harry Kelly, of the Giants, enlivened the fray.

The St. Louis Browns lost their first game of the season, 5 to 4, when Chalmers Cissell, one of the White Sox "bad boys," stole home in the ninth. Washington finally broke into the victory column by trouncing the Red Sox, 3 to 1, Marberry holding the Sox to five hits.

O'KELLY BOWS TO MALONEY

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The feud between the Irish Maloneys and the equally Irish O'Kellys came to a tame and disappointing ending last night when Jimmy, of the Boston Maloneys, scored a technical knockout over Con O'Kelly, late of County Cork, in the third round of a 10-round match at Jess McMahon's new Coliseum.

A deep cut over O'Kelly's eye halted the third meeting of the heavyweights after 52 seconds of fighting in the third.

Hunter and Allison In M.-D. Finals

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 20.—(AP.)—Francis T. Hunter, veteran internationalist of New Rochelle, N. Y., and placed second in the national ranking, and Wilmer Allison, of Fort Worth, Tex., who is far down the list, reached the final round of the ninth annual Mason and Dixon tennis championship yesterday. They will battle for the title today.

Hunter, who holds two legs on the tournament trophy, the Plaza Bowl, took a close match from John Van Ryn, of Orange, N. J. The scores were 6-0, 6-3, 5-7, 8-6. Allison provided the big upset of the tournament by eliminating Johnny Hennessey, of Indianapolis, fourth ranking American player, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Boxer, Waving To Friend, Is Kayoed

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP.)—Henceforth, Willie Pello will greet his friends before and after a fight, but never during. He decided that last night.

The bell rang.

As he advanced to mid-ring, one of his boy friends in the gallery yelled at him to "tear the other guy's head off."

Willie turned. He looked up. He waved his right duke in greeting, as if to say: "O. K."

BOXING ARENA DOWNTOWN PLANNED

For a couple of weeks reports have been rife that John Hernon, manager of Motor Square Garden, and a few friends, would promote bouts in the Glory Barn, near the Point, and that Francis Flynn, Moose Temple promoter, has a site in mind for a downtown arena. Meanwhile the Meyers Brothers are completing their big outdoor arena in North Braddock. And now comes word of still another arena.

Formal announcement was made last night by Joseph A. Tobin of the formation of The Arena Amusement Company, Inc., of which he will be president, with Ben Steinberg, assistant city solicitor, as his attorney, to erect an arena with a seating capacity of 10,000 to 15,000 at prices of $1, $2 and $3. The exact location is withheld pending the closing of a few minor details in the leasing of the ground.

It is planned to have the arena ready for the opening show late in May. Tobin has been connected with sports for years. He was associated in the staging of horse-racing at the New Kensington track and more recently has been manager of the Burns A. A. football team of New Kensington.

GOLDSTEIN PRIMED

Phil Goldstein will return tomorrow from New York, where he did his training for his 10-round return bout with Ray Newton, the Mansfield (O.) knockerout, in the Motor Square ring Monday night. Word precedes his arrival that he has been training with some of the best men in the lightweight class in New York and is primed for the battle of his life in an effort to reverse the decision Newton won over him at the Garden two weeks ago, when he scored two knockdowns in the second round of an eight-round battle. Jimmy Bronson, Goldstein's manager, will be here to second him Monday.

Nine amateur boxing bouts are scheduled at the P. A. A. tonight. The card follows: Tom Fairful vs. Joe Speigle, Tony Frante vs. John Hazel, M. Lavan vs. M. Pulley, Tod Murphy vs. R. J. McCormick, Marty Mehalic vs. Billy Evans, Dan McCabe vs. A. Andrucci, A. DeLuca vs. George Bretsch, Mike Chomyak vs. Tony Bazzone and Eddie Hebner vs. Ed Collier. The show will get under way at 8:30.

KAPLAN VS. ROBERTS

Phil (K. O.) Kaplan, recent addition to the light-heavyweight ranks, boxes Jimmy Roberts in a 10-round bout in New York tonight.

Promoter Jim McGirr expects to close today for his second 10-round bout on next Thursday night's double windup card. He already has booked Frankie Stellmack, of Cleveland, and Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, for one of the feature numbers.

MANDELL SIGNS

CHICAGO, April 20.—(AP.)—Promoter Jim Mullen said today he had received signed contracts from Sammy Mandell calling for the lightweight champion to meet the winner of the Jack Berg-Phil McGraw match April 30. Mullen plans staging the bout involving Mandell at the Coliseum, May 14.

GRISWOLD, VET SPORTS SCRIBE, DIES AT 80

OMAHA, Neb., April 20.—(AP.)—Sandy Griswold, dean of American sports writers, died today of acute heart trouble. He was 80 years old.

Griswold covered nearly all of the big prize fights, beginning with the Sullivan-Jake Kilrain 72-round bout, carried out in bare-knuckle fashion.

His name was Samuel Gerard Vietz Griswold, but most all knew him as Sandy. Born near Marion, O., February 16, 1849, Griswold came from a family distinguished in letters, art and science. When only 15 years old he began writing for the Philadelphia Saturday Night, later for the Saturday Evening Post and the New York Weekly. He later joined the staff of Beadle and Adams, first dime novel publishers.

IN MANY CITIES

In 1873 he became a member of the New York Sun staff, later going to the Toledo Commercial as city editor, and then with the Cincinnati Enquirer as sporting editor.

He came to the Omaha Bee in 1886 as sporting editor and came to the World-Herald in 1898 in a similar capacity. Here he was sports editor, columnist and feature writer.

During his life time, Griswold was a student of nature as well as of sports. He knew bird life as few did. He knew trees and plants and flowers.

STUDENT OF NATURE

In his column "Forest, Field and Stream," he once wrote:

"Since the most callow days of my youth the rustling of the winds, through the trees, the murmur of brook or stream, the note of bird or animal, has been an invitation to join them, to get a little of that rest that mother nature always vouchsafes her children."

Griswold married Miss Sarah Coburn, of Omaha, in 1890. She survives him, as does a son, Gerard Coburn Griswold, of Omaha.

He also leaves another son by his first marriage, the Rev. Dr. Latta Griswold, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Lenox, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. Ada Sifford, of Lancaster, O.

SCHENLEY WINS OPENER, 5-2

Schenley, Peabody and Westinghouse, in Section 1, and South Hills and Allegheny, in Section 2, captured triumphs in the opening of the annual City League baseball campaign yesterday. With only two veterans in the lineup, the defending champs, Schenley, gave evidence of having another fine team.

The champions downed Allegheny Vocational, 5 to 2, with Studnicki hurling fine ball. Moran, the veteran Bud Loder and Friedman led the Schenley attack with two hits apiece. Blatnick, Vocational hurler, kept his team in the ball game by hitting safely three times. A three-run attack in the third inning put the game on ice for Schenley.

PEABODY VICTOR

Peabody won a free-hitting contest from Fifth, 11 to 8. Six runs in the fifth inning proved the undoing of the Uptowners. Patterson had three hits for the victors.

Westinghouse beat Ralston with ease, 9 to 2, in the third Section 1 game.

In Division 2, South Hills slammed out an 8-to-4 win over Oliver, while Allegheny was beating Carrick, 8 to 6. Allegheny had to rally strongly in the final inning to eke out the triumph, pushing four runs over the platter.

CATHOLIC HIGH LOSES

Other non-league scholastic frays yesterday resulted in victories for Shady Side Academy over Catholic High, 6 to 4; for Turtle Creek Union over McKeesport, 3 to 1, and for Edgewood over Rankin, 16 to 0.

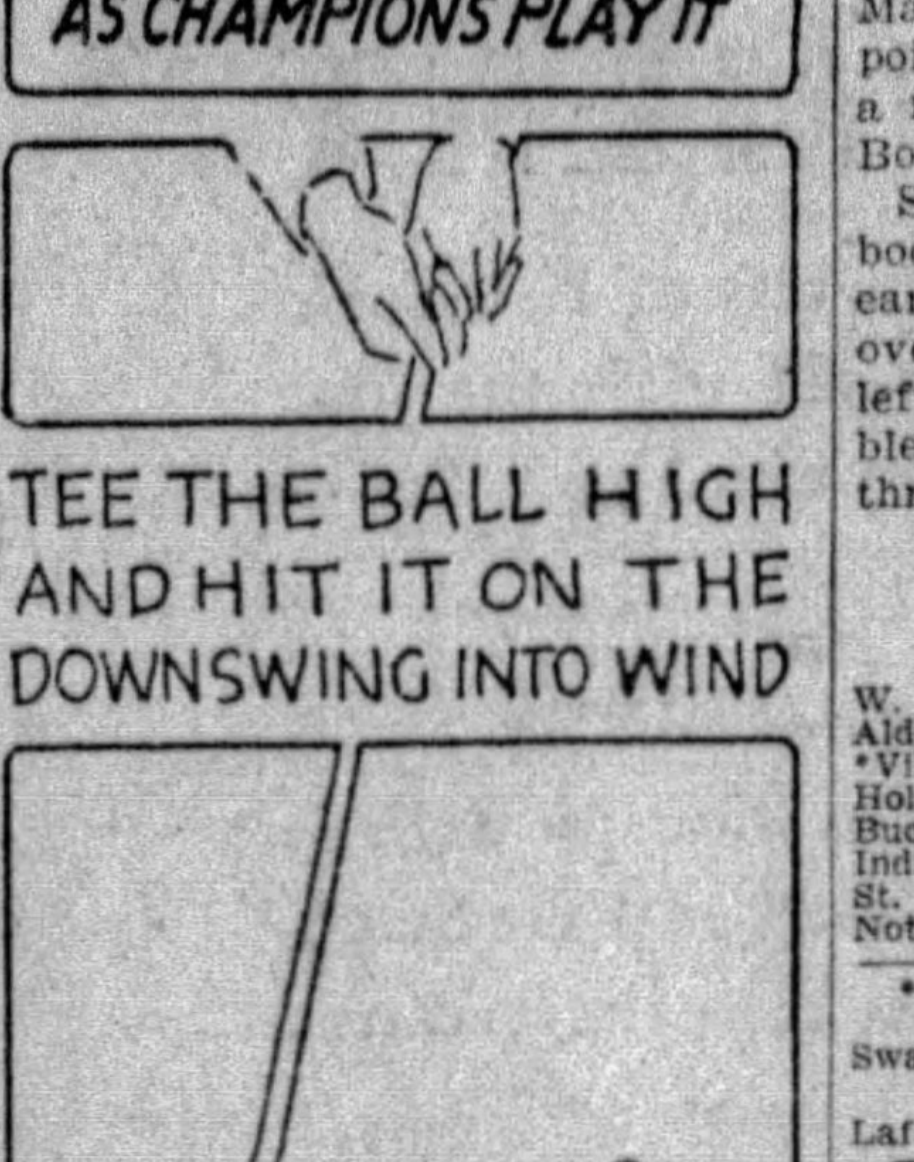
AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT



TEE THE BALL HIGH AND HIT IT ON THE DOWNSWING INTO WIND
Lich 12

Should the ball be teed high or low in driving against the wind?

Answered By

The ball should be teed high when playing against the wind and a straight faced club used. The ball should be struck on the down stroke and the tee made high enough for this. A low ball will be the result. The player often becomes confused. He knows that he wants a low ball playing into the wind and makes a low tee. A flatter stroke with a lofted club has to be used, in this case, but the flight of the ball will have reverse spin, and going into the wind it will raise and distance will be killed. The ball struck on the down swing has overspin which keeps it down in the wind.

BUSH' BROTHER KILLED IN SMASHUP

By Staff Correspondent.

CINCINNATI, April 20.—It was a sad journey Donie Bush took with his Pirates last night. Just before Bush boarded the train in Chicago he was informed of the death of his brother, Michael, who was killed in an automobile accident earlier in the evening while driving from his Indianapolis home to Cincinnati, where he was to have joined Donie today.

The Pirate manager naturally was terribly shocked over the news and his first thought was of getting home. The quickest way to reach Indianapolis was to travel with the Pirates who reached the Indiana city shortly before 5 o'clock this morning. Bush left the train there and huried to his mother and other members of the family.

Secretary Sam Watters was notified of the fatal accident by railroad authorities who had a message for Donie when Sam went early to the station to work out the usual details incident to to a departure. Donie was with some friends during the evening and while arranging to let Bush know the news, Watters called up Indianapolis to get a confirmation of the story.

Sam was told by Indianapolis folks that Michael Bush, accompanied by a close friend, Ted Sullivan, left during the afternoon for Cincinnati. They intended to see today's Pirate-Red game, but Sullivan lost control of the car at Dublin, Ind., their auto striking another car, Bush being fatally injured.

Before leaving his club, Manager Bush placed the Pirates in charge of Assistant Manager Jewel Ens, who will be in authority over the team until the return of the bereaved leader.

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Andy Martin, Boston featherweight, outpointed Eddie Shea, of Chicago, by a narrow margin last night at the Boston Garden.

Shea started pounding Martin's body vigorously and piled up an early lead which the Bostonian overcame by a neat exhibition of left-jabbing. He had Shea's face bleeding from several cuts half way through the contest.

Gehrig Takes Swat Lead In Big Six

Lou Gehrig and Goose Goslin still set the pace for the other members of the big six to shoot at yesterday but only Jim Bottomley did any shooting. Gehrig got one double in two trips to the plate in his second game and held the top rung with a .600 average. For the third successive game Goslin hit safely twice in four attempts to hold his mark of .500. "Bottomley crashed the apple for three hits, including a double and a triple in five times at bat to raise his mark to .357. LOCAL WALKERS IN MARATHON

Local pavement pounders today are attempting to steal the thunder of C. C. Pyle and his bunioneers. Walking neither for exercise nor a desire to get anywhere other than back to the place from which they started, but for a prize and such glory as can be ferreted out a squad of heel and toe artists set out from the Boulevard of the Allies below Penn avenue at 10 o'clock this morning in the first 50,000 meter (31 miles and 125 yards) Allegheny Mountain Association championship walk.

April showers of this morning provided an added hardship, but did not prevent the start of the long walk.

In a recent frivolous moment the A. A. U. chiefs, eager to do something in a big way, added the 50,000-meter walk to the list of national competitions. The first of these foot-flatteners was held in New York last Sunday. The first seven to finish broke the world record, indicating that strolls of more than 49,000 meters have not been overly popular up to this time. Mack Weiss of Newark, completed the jaunt in five hours, six minutes and 43 seconds, and pedestrians seeking to dethrone Mack will have to beat that time.

The course being followed by the meter demolishers is as follows:

From the Boulevard of the Allies to Liberty street, to Water street over Manchester Bridge, up Galveston avenue, to Ridge avenue, down Ridge avenue, to Chateau street, to California avenue, following Lincoln highway through Bellevue, Avalon, Ben Avon, Emsworth, Sewickley, to Edgeworth lane, in Edgeworth.

Down Edgeworth lane to Meadow lane, along Meadow lane, returning to Lincoln highway. Along Lincoln highway to blinker, turning right to Sewickley-Coraopolis Bridge. Over bridge, passing through Coraopolis, over bridge to Neville Island, following street car tracks through McKees Rocks to West Carson street, up West Carson to Smithfield street, over bridge and along Smithfield to Sixth avenue, down Sixth avenue, to Liberty street, along Liberty to Boulevard of the Allies.

MILES BREAKS MARATHON RECORD

BOSTON, April 20.—(AP.)—All records for the famous Boston A. A. marathon were smashed yesterday when little Johnny Miles of Hamilton, Ont., raced across the finish line, a winner for the second time in four years. His time for the 26-miles, 385 yards, was two hours, 33 minutes and 8 4-5 seconds, almost four minutes faster than the mark set last year by Clarence DeMar, the six-times winner, who limped in ninth, yesterday.

Johnny Miles

About two minutes after Miles broke the tape, Karl Koski of New York sped up the home stretch, racing to beat off Willie Kyronen, his Finnish-American clubmate, who was shut out of second place by a scant 18-seconds.

MICHELSON FOURTH

Whitey Michelson of the Millrose A. A. New York landed fourth place in 2 hours, 37 minutes, 22 1-5 seconds.

Jack Lamb of Boston, who amazed the hundreds of thousand of spectators lining both sides of the marathon course by leading the field of 188 starters for more than 20-miles, came home in fifth place in 2 hours, 39 minutes, 25 seconds, just a fraction of a minute ahead of William Taylor of Sidney Mines, N. S.

Another Canadian, G. Ruotsalaines of Montreal, landed seventh place and he led Roland O'Toole of St. John's, N. F., to the line by a good two minutes.

The New Foundlander was followed by the veteran DeMar, whose performance substantiated his pre-race statement that he had lost much of the speed that enabled him to win the Boston race six times in the past 18 years. The Melrose Printer, the idol of the roadside crowds, fell into ninth place when the pack broke up during the early part of the race.

The veteran's heart was as sturdy as ever, but his powerful legs did not have the drive necessary to carry him above that place. This 1929 marathon, the 32nd of the Boston A. A. 'S series, probably marked the end of DeMar's racing career, one of the greatest in all history.

Johnny Michaels, of the North Side, 133¾, in the eight-round semi-final. He was slow in getting started and was bothered considerably by the southpaw stance affected by Michaels throughout the bout, but began to come ino his own after the fifth round, when Michaels was tiring, and from then on until the final bell he cuffed Michaels around to such an extent that the latter was glad to hold on at every opportunity. Recently, in the same ring, Smackey was given an undeserved win over Michaels in a six-round bout and last night's rematch was the result.

Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, threw away a well-earned victory over Frank Monroe, hard-hitting veteran from Fair Haven, in the last 20 seconds of the six-round second bout. He had outboxed and outpunched Monroe up to this stage, and, when he tried to make a fighting finish, he ran into a sweet slam on the jaw that dazed him and then was a target for Monroe until the bell came to his rescue. He was just about out on his feet at the close. The crowd booed the verdict and cheered Zelnack as he left the ring because of his fine battle against his opponent's greater experience and vaunted punch and a disadvantage of nine and one-half pounds in deight. Monroe scaled 167½ pounds and Zelnack only 158. The referee's vote was required to decide the issue, Judge Ferris voting for Zelnack.

CONCRETE STOPS DACEY

Bob Concrete, of the East End, 165½ pounds, won by a technical knockout over Billy Dacey, of the Hill, 166, when the latter's seconds climbed into the ring to save him after he had been down for three counts in the fifth round and was obviously through. It was a grueling battle.

Joe Keally refereed all of the bouts. The judges were Red Robinson and Frank Ferris. Bill Schuster did the announcing.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, will box the main bout in the Temple next Friday night.

famous strikeouts in seven innings; Bill Hunnefield has not yet been adjudged fit to appear in the White Sox lineup except as a pinch hitter, and several of the others who delayed their training starts are making their teams suffer for it now.

FROM wrestling to boxing and then back to wrestling is the course followed by Paul Berlenbach. Frank Gotch did the same thing, the only difference being that Gotch failed in boxing whereas Berlenbach succeeded to the point of winning the world light heavyweight championship. Paul's application for a wrestling license in New York has been granted and he will make his re-entry into the mat game in Gotham next Monday night in a finish match with Fred Brubmier.

This will be Berlenbach's first appearance as a professional grappler. Before taking up boxing he was a wrestler of considerable note, but remained in the amateur ranks. He won the Olympic light heavyweight championship in Antwerp in 1920, and in the same year won three national, four metropolitan district titles.

SKIBOS CANCEL MEET; PITT IN COLUMBUS

By JESS CARVER.

With the cancellation of the scheduled meet between Carnegie Tech and the Pittsburgh Athletic Association in the Tartan bowl because of rain today, local followers of track and field athletes will have to be content to await the returns of two out-of-town events, one of which involves the University of Pittsburgh.

Guy Halferty, coach of the Tartans, called off the meet with P. A. A. shortly before noon today when rain made the field too soggy to stage track and field events.

In the other big meets carded today Pitt meets Ohio State in Columbus, while Geneva College invades Morgantown to engage West Virginia University.

Pitt meets Ohio State, holding slight hope of victory. Pete Bowen, Don Gwinn, Everette Utterback and Capt. Victor Pickard are the only Panthers likely to win first places, and these four are almost certain to finish up ahead in at least one event. All with the exception of Gwinn, will likely place in one or two besides the one they figure to win.

GENEVA HOPEFUL

Geneva hopes to secure revenge for the defeat suffered at the hands of the West Virginians on the occasion of the dual meet in Morgantown a year ago, but the cold weather and the rain of the past two weeks has handicapped the Covenanters severely, moreso than it did West Virginia, where the boys have a field house in which to work.

FROTH

It's a great bell they have down at the Moose for fights.... Some times you can almost hear it....At the rate of one buck per round, Jackie Rodgers owes Willie Davies 10 smackers for the boxing lesson he got last night....It seems natural to see the Yankees in first place.... But how about these Braves?.... If it is a surprise to you, think of the ball players....The Red Sox, knowing their place, are right down in the cellar....But the Senators are trying to squeeze in with 'em....Contractors and poker players both do a lot of filling....Slide, Kelly, slide!

Filipino Holds Schwartz to Draw

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(INS.)—Corp. Izzy Schwartz, flyweight champion, was held to a draw here last night by Pablo Dano, Filipino fighter. Both fighters were extremely cautious and an uninteresting bout was the result. Neither fighter was damaged in the slow 10 rounds.

The crouching style of the Filipino was a puzzle to Schwartz until the sixth round. The New Yorker's best round was the eighth, when he scored repeatedly to Dano's jaw with right uppercuts. Dano, however, was not in distress at any time. The Filipino threw his punches wildly and the shifty champion had but little trouble in avoiding them.

Frank Evans Named Matinee Club Prexy

Rain May Prevent Grays Opener Today

Weather permitting, the Homestead Grays will open their home season at Forbes Field at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Yellow Cab club, of Akron, O., is to provide the opposition. A heavy rain this morning and continued cloudiness made it questionable as to whether the game would be staged. Manager Posey, of the Grays, has revised his batting order as follows: Stevens, lead-off; Graham, Beckwith, Vic Harris.

GAS TAX FIGHT TO GO ON

C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, announced today that his organization would continue to fight against a permanent 4-cent gas tax. He declared the motorists had won a victory by forcing the Legislature to confine the tax to one year, instead of two, as originally planned by the administration and the leaders. The increase automatically expires in June, 1930.

"Public opinion has forced the Legislature to compromise," Roth declared, "and thus we have, for the first time in the history of gas taxation, a tax increase for a specified period of one year only. It is our belief that legislators were coerced into voting for the tax by the state leaders. The Motor Club will question each candidate before the next gubernatorial and legislative election to ascertain his stand on the tax."

HOME INDUSTRY TO BUILD COUNTY SWIMMING POOLS

Allegheny County is going to patronize home industries in the building of the swimming pools in the two county parks. County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board of commissioners, announced today that Stanley Roush, county architect, would pass on plans laid out by Paul B. Riis, director of parks, and that work on the swimming pools would be started as soon as possible.

Armstrong's announcement followed definite rejection of the plan to bring Jens Jensen, noted landscape architect and swimming pool expert, here from Chicago. He conferred with Commissioner E. V. Babcock and Roush yesterday.

"I was for this idea until I discovered that it meant paying Jensen a commission of $200 and expenses for every trip he made here to look the work over," Armstrong said. "I think with our Department of Public Works and architects that we can provide the people of Allegheny County with swimming pools and everything else in the parks that will satisfy everybody concerned," he added.

The plans and discussion of the swimming pools probably will be taken up at the commissioners' meeting scheduled for Tuesday morning.

The special election will be held June 25. As soon as the money is available, Gilbert C. Cloonan, county statistician, and employes of the Bureau of Elections, will begin preparation of the ballots for the election.

SUN-TELEGRAPH MODEL HOME ATTRACTS CROWDS

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph model house proved a big attraction to visitors all this week. Many persons have visited the home, at Dormont and Earlsmere avenues, Dormont Park plan, and many words of praise have been heard for the appointments of the home, its decorations and furnishings. The home will be open tomorrow, weather permitting.

Due to the fine floor coverings and beautiful woodwork, the home is kept closed in rainy weather. On dry days the home is open for inspection. Visitors will be received during four more weeks of demonstration.

The location of the home is convenient to the downtown district, yet far enough out to give the atmosphere of the country. The best motor routes are by way of the Liberty Tubes and West Liberty avenue to Dormont avenue, or by way of the West End and the Banksville road to Dormont avenue. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has marked these routes with red arrow signs.

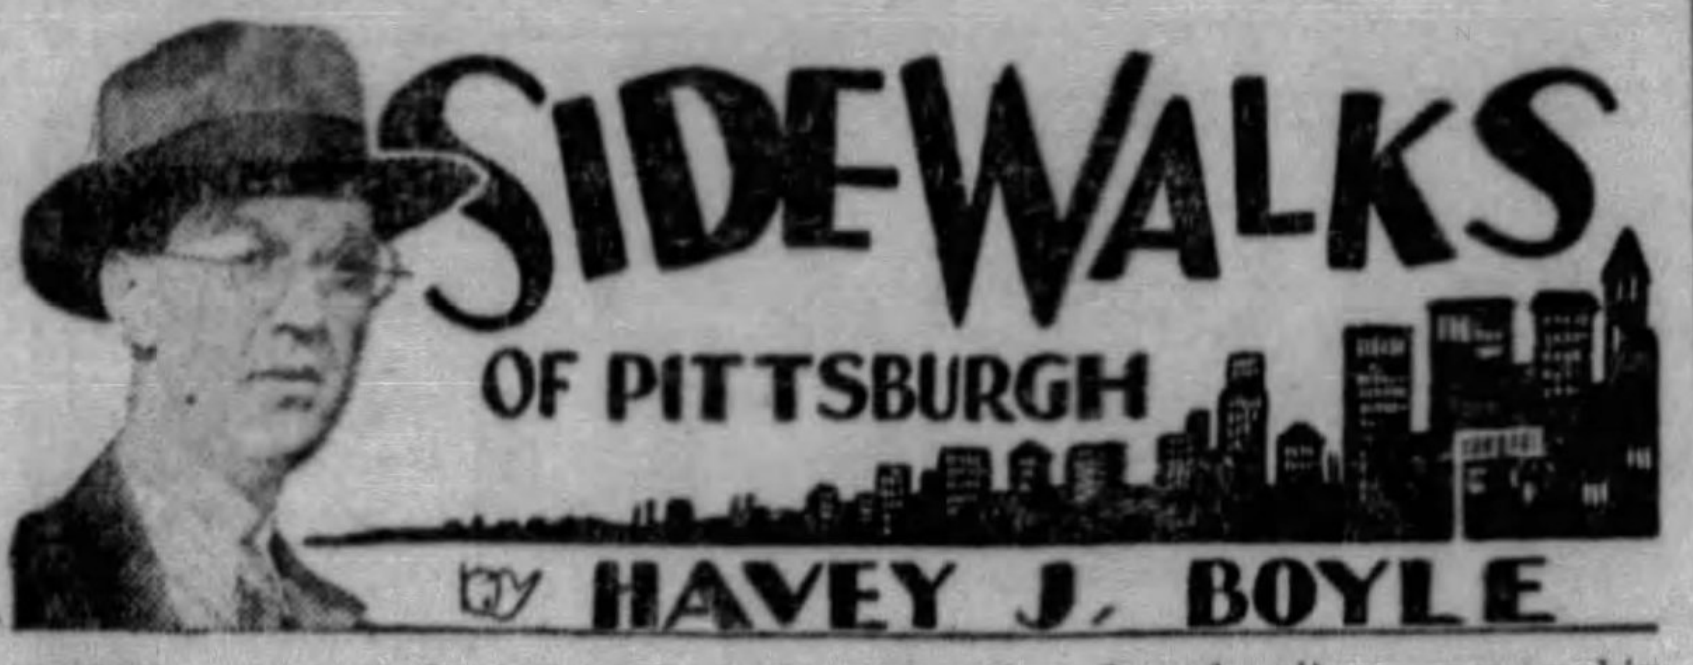
NORTH SIDE, SOUTH HILLS And EAST END NEWS



THE recent minstrel show given by the local police was a big success, artistically and financially. Only one event developed that might have cast a blot on the proceedings, but luckily this turned out well in the end. A thief had the effrontery to try to steal three overcoats, belonging to policemen. Luckily, an alert officer caught up with the thief and nailed him. The three owners of the overcoats were given the privilege of making the arrest, which means, most likely, the thief woke up with a sore jaw the next morning.

While hardly anyone believes his job is the best one in the world, a traffic policeman, according to a confession made here, believes the traffic cops have nicer jobs, at least, than the patrolmen. The traffic cops get their nights off and also their Sundays. This, of course, is not true of the roundsman. The traffic cop further states that a busy corner is to be preferred over a slow one. The time goes faster, even if one does meet up with more stupid drivers. The roundsman's life, of course, is more exciting. He goes places in the night and sees things. Choice districts for the police are the downtown and the Frankstown avenue sections. There is something popping nearly all the time, which tends to make the policeman's life a happy one.

YEH !

IN THE face of the common charge that politics and police are not distant relatives, it is, nevertheless, surprising the amount of discipline that maintains in the department. The patrolmen are anxious not to run afoul of the lieutenant in an embarrassing situation, and there are frequent layoffs imposed for derelictions of duty. An inspector is a veritable czar of his domain and when he speaks the air is surcharged with electric qualities.

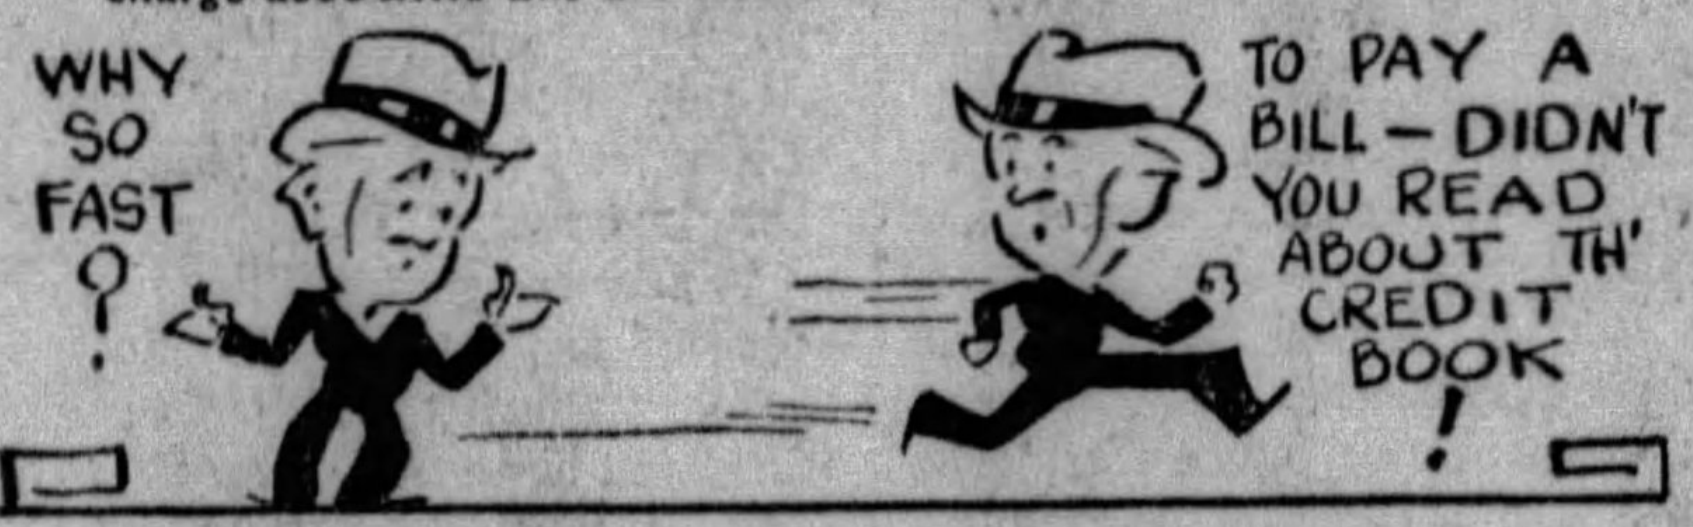
The day of the rubber check purveyor and of the boys and girls who roll up bad bills is fading into the twilight. In Pittsburgh there is a vast system of credit investigation which is proving helpful to all merchants. A voluminous file of names and addresses, and how we all pay our bills, promptly or not so promptly, is kept up to the minute in a big establishment downtown. There are not many persons who buy on charge accounts who are not rated in this immense directory.



WHY SO FAST ?
TO PAY A BILL—DIDN'T YOU READ ABOUT TH' CREDIT BOOK !

Merchants in the communities away from the downtown district join this credit organization and besides getting a line on new customers, co-operate by reporting the names and addresses of their customers with their rating as to credit. The result is that persons who are unlucky or just careless in taking care of their bills are indexed and cross indexed in the system employed and the number of bad accounts is being reduced steadily.

* * *

AND speaking of credits, the railroad men in the vicinity who handle some of the theatrical shows coming in and going out often are thrust into dilemmas when a show that is nearly flat wants to move to another town, where prospects seem better. The railroads do not extend credit, by any means, as that probably is against eighteen or twenty thousand laws on the subject, but from time to time a little juggling of the available funds and certain economies here and there, allow a company just about stranded to move on to more fertile pastures.

BUSINESS MEN AID DRIVE FOR RADIO IN SCHOOLS

With the Sun-Telegraph-Stanley-Warner Brothers' theaters campaign to place a radio in every schoolroom in the Pittsburgh district rapidly expanding, comments indicate that the community is seizing the plan as a distinct opportunity for educational progress.

Business firms are beginning to take an active part in the campaign, both by donation of subscriptions to schools and by inclosing in their delivery packages subscription blanks for the convenience of their customers.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure that I indorse the movement to have radio receiving sets placed in the classrooms of our schools," says Council President Malone.

BLANKS DISTRIBUTED

Order blanks may now be obtained at the Stanley theaters, in Haller Bakeries and United Laundry packages, from school children, and from the Sun-Telegraph.

The 8-tube Atwater-Kent Electrodynamic radios are ready for delivery and installation. There will be no delay in their commissioning.

Selling for $133.50, these sets are of the finest possible construction, ideally fitted for installation in schools. Range and tone quality are excellently adapted to such use.

Indorsing the employment of radio receiving sets in the schoolrooms, James F. Malone, president of the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, writes that "I hope this movement will meet with great success."

MALONE LAUDS MOVE

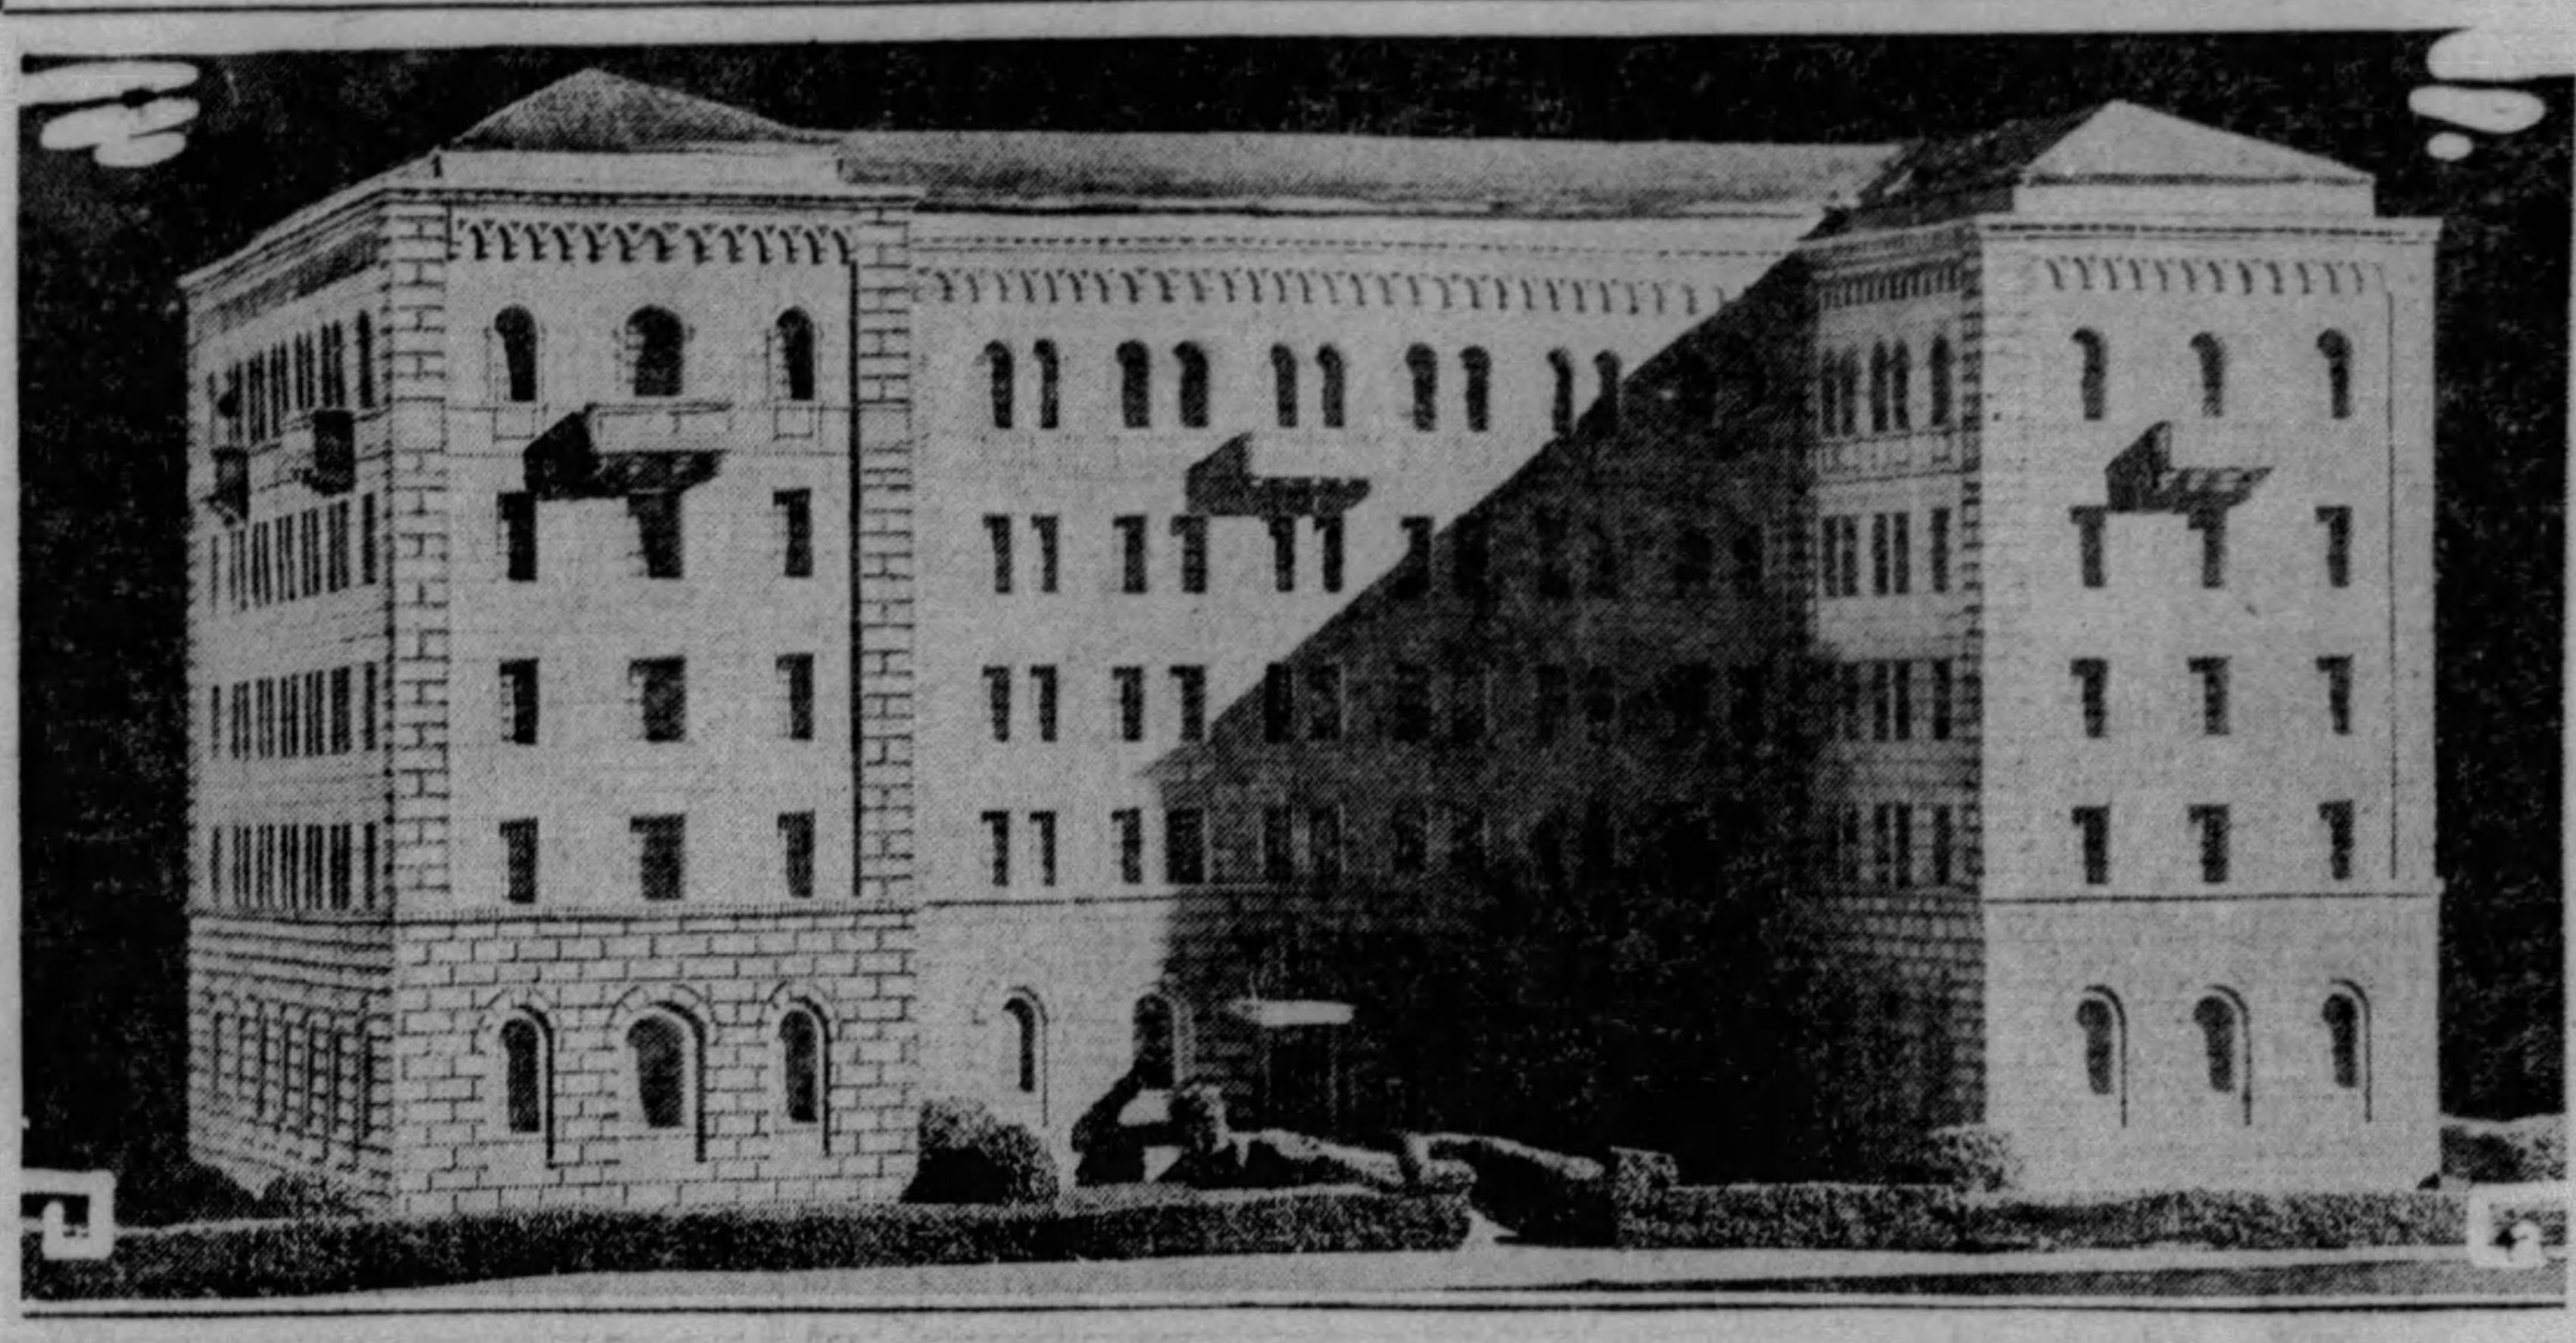
Mr. Malone's letter reads as follows:

"It is with greatest of pleasure that I indorse the movement to have radio receiving sets placed in the classrooms of our schools, as I sincerely believe that such an idea would result in inestimable benefit, not only to the students, but the people generally of the various neighborhoods and communities, in that the pupils would be in constant touch with current topics in a most interesting manner, and the adults would spend many enjoyable hours at nightly assemblies listening-in on the very high standard of radio entertainment that is being broadcast today.

"I hope this movement will meet with great success and the installation of these radios will be early realized."

PITT APPROVES PLANS FOR FALK CLINIC

PLANS ACCEPTED FOR FALK DISPENSARY AT PITT



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF FALK CLINIC, PROPOSED FREE DISPENSARY IN PITT MEDICAL CENTER

Plans for the Falk Clinic, free dispensary for the University of Pittsburgh medical center project, were approved by the university's board of trustees' clinic committee. Maurice and the late Leon Falk have given $750,000 for erection.

DISPENSARY TO BE ERECTED AT ONCE

Plans for the Falk Clinic, free dispensary of the Medical Center of the University of Pittsburgh, where 800 persons may be treated every day, were approved yesterday by the clinic committee of the university representing the board of trustees. Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the university, stated that work on the building will begin immediately.

He also made known the fact that Dr. Joseph H. Barach, for 19 years a member of the staff of the Presbyterian Hospital, is to be director of the clinic.

Plans for the building, which is to be located at Fifth avenue and Lothrop street, were drawn by E. P. Mellon, architect, assisted by W. L. Smith. Dr. Michael Davis, a member of the staff of the Rosenwald Foundation, of Chicago, was consultant.

PROVIDED IN GIFT

The clinic is the gift of Maurice and the late Leon Falk, who gave $750,000 for its erection. It will be one unit of the medical center group located on a 10-acre tract bounded by Terrace, Lothrop and DeSoto streets and Fifth avenue—the former H. K. Porter estate.

Mr. Barach, the director, in discussing the plans, stated that all departments found in the hospital group will be found in the clinic. It will be a clearing house for the entire hospital group.

"A thorough examination by specialists will be given each patient who enters the clinic. Then, if necessary, the patient will be transferred to one of the hospitals.

"When the patient is discharged, he will continue to report to the dispensary for care and treatment during his convalescence.'

BUILDING TO BE MODERN

"On the first floor of the clinic will be lcated the children's department, the dental and pharmacy departments, and the board and staff rooms. On the second floor will be the departments for the treatment of diseases of the nervous system, heart and kidneys. Here also will be the diet kitchen, a special X-ray department, demonstration rooms and lecture rooms.

"The third floor will contain the department for the treatment of crippled children, the women's department and general surgery division where minor surgical operations will be performed. A large public lecture hall is provided on the fourth floor where public health lectures will be given and lectures for the medical profession. Departments for the eye, ear, nose aand throat and a complete X-Ray division which will serve the entire clinic are also located on this floor. The fifth floor will contain the department for treating blood diseases.

MANY LABORATORIES

Laboratories are provided in connection with each division in addition to one main laboratory. Each department also has demonstration rooms where special cases are studied by the staff. Other features of the building are the photographic department, cafeteria for parents who bring their children to the clinic, dressing rooms for staff members and dining rooms for patients and for members of the staff."

Dr. Thomas M. Mabon, of the School of Medicine faculty, emphasizes the fact that the clinic is primarily for those who are unable to afford services of private physicians and for those who are in temporary financial difficulties.

DR. JOSEPH H. BARACH

3 SUSPENSIONS BRING POLICE FEUD

A meeting of Sharpsburg Borough Council, called last night to consider the suspension of three borough patrolmen, ended in futility when two members left the meeting and Borough Solicitor Edward Krause declared it was being held in violation of law.

The patrolmen were suspended by Burgess Walter Berner. He said he had found Patrolmen Anthony Domian and Armel Labia asleep while on duty and Patrolman John Janesyck a half-mile off his beat.

REJECTED MATE SHOOTS TWO

WIFE REFUSES PLEA

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night Hindman went to the Schragl home to persuade his wife, Isabel Hindman, 21, to return to him and their two children. Her refusal brought two shots from a revolver which he whipped out of his pocket, police said. One bullet, missing her head by a fraction of an inch, ledged in a door frame, while the other penetrated the floor.

The girl's parents, seated at the kitchen table, jumped to their feet as the first shot rang out. Dashing past the door where Hindman was standing, Schragl ran into the yard for a club with the son-in-law at his heels. A shot felled Schragl, he told police. Mrs. Schragl was wounded as she attempted to aid her husband, detectives said.

Three of the 11 Schragl children were in an adjoining room at the time. The trio, Marie, 8; Anthony, 13, and Margaret, 6, dashed into the yard in time to see Hindman flee.

LEFT HIM FIVE TIMES

Mrs. Hindman told detectives that she had left her husband three weeks ago because of alleged abuse. She had left him five times for the same reason and each time returned on his promise to reform, police were told.

Hindman was arrested in Beck's Run road by Lieut. Joseph Henigan shortly after the shooting. He told police that he had discarded his pistol.

The Hindman's have two children, Otto, Jr., 5, and Betty Jane, 3, who are being cared for by Hindman's mother in New Eagle, according to the sleuths.

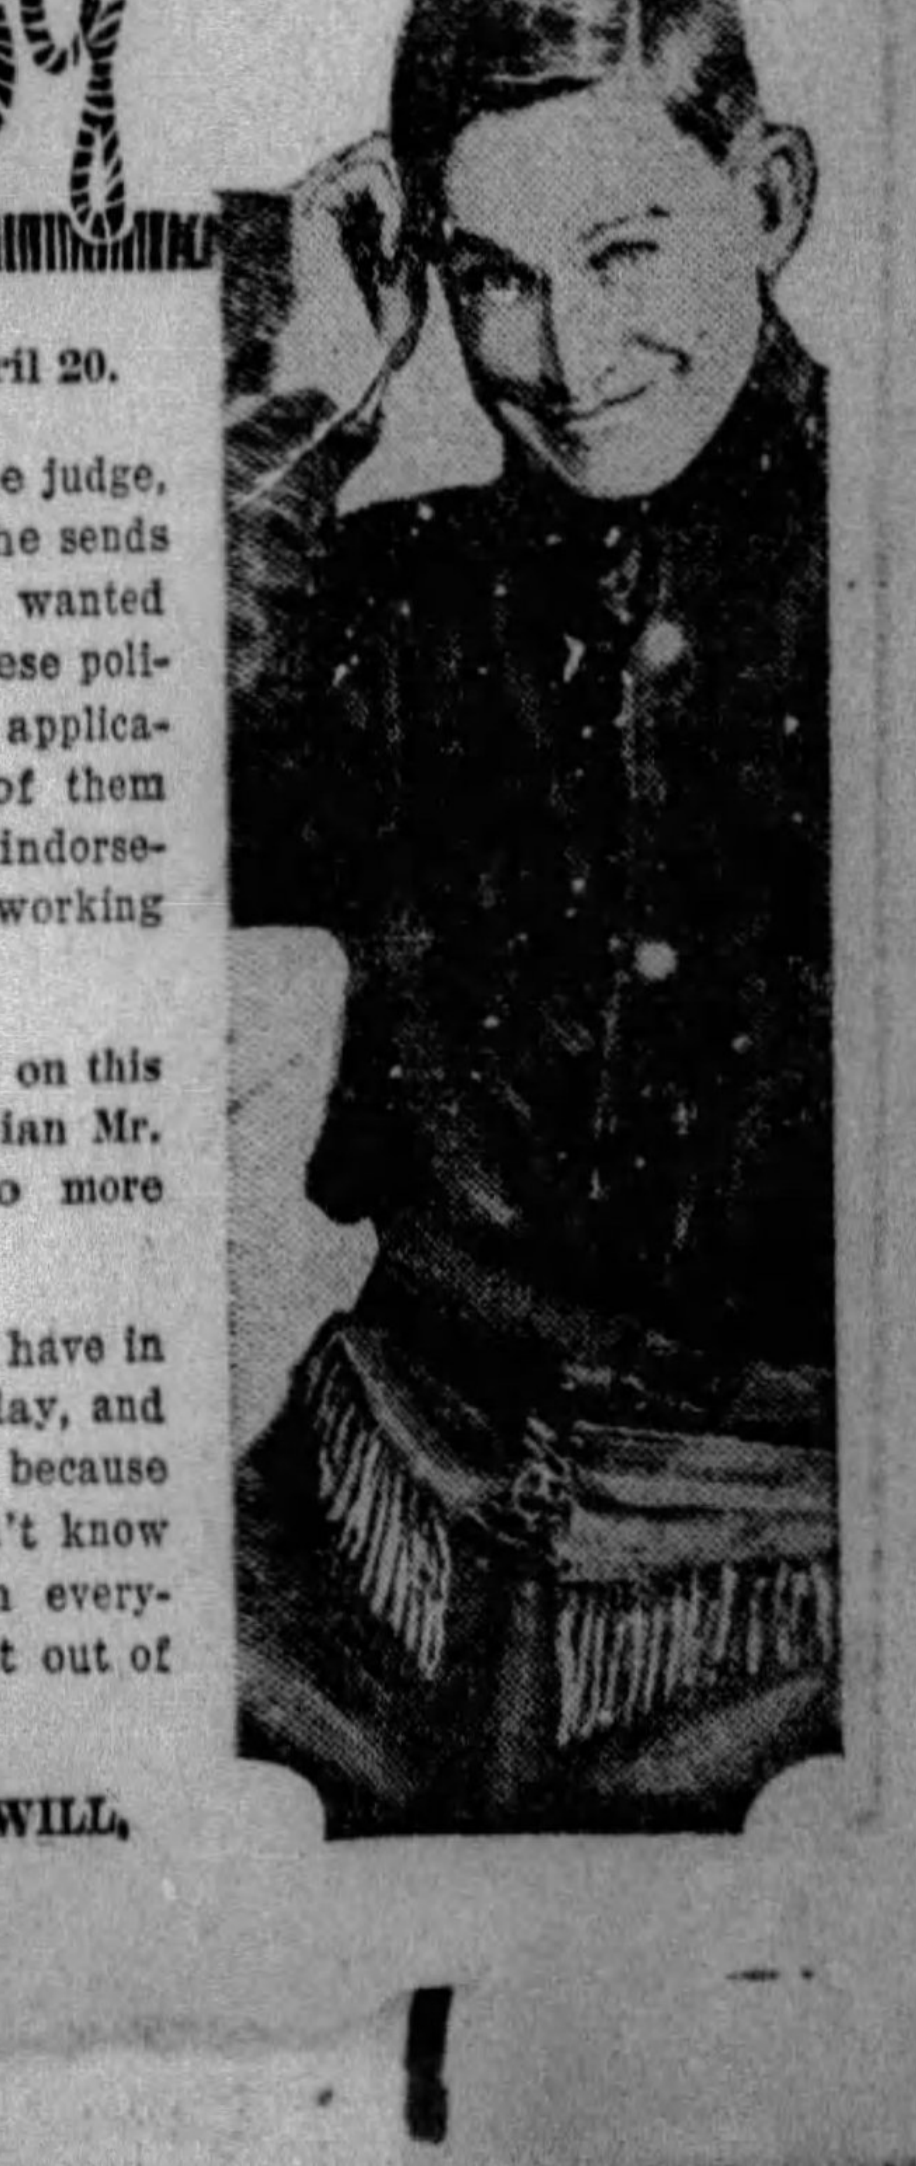
Will Rogers Says



BOSTON, April 20.

When Mr. Hoover appoints some judge, or fills some prominent position, he sends out the names of the fellows who wanted him appointed. That's to stop these politicians from autographing every application that comes along. Some of them were so promiscuous with their indorsements that they must have been working on a commission.

Now a lot of them are kicking on this new plan. But for every politician Mr. Hoover loses he will gain two more friends.

The biggest marathon race we have in this country finished here yesterday, and an old boy from Canada won it, because he never owned a Ford and didn't know how to run one. Outsiders won everything. We ride good, but we get out of wind walking to the garage.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

Eddie Goes to Party After Queenie and Gets in Fight With Warry

CHAPTER XXIV.

EDDIE KERNS, the paper in his hand, dashed out of the theater and into a taxi. His head was spinning like a flywheel. What was it all about?

So—Hank had never cared for him; Queenie, who had told him she hated him and done it because she loved him; was Hank telling him the same thing because she loved Queenie?

And Queenie—did she really love him? Why was she in an apartment that Warriner had put up for her? Because she loved Hank, too?

It was all too intricate for the limited ratiocination which his brain could master. But one thing he did know—he loved Queenie, and he was going to take her away from Warriner. The 15-and-5 drew up before a mighty building. A footman, who might have been a Russian general, gave him the frozen pan and blocked him with his bulk.

“You must be announced,” [illegible].

“[illegible],” snapped the guardian of the privacy of many men and women who do not want Tom, Dick and Eddie intruding on them. He waved toward the nearest elevator. Eddie was whisked up to floor K and as the lift door opened he heard his own “Broadway Melody.” He needed no guide. He went to the door and pushed a button.

Four luxurious rooms, appointed in superfine taste, three of them opening into each other to make one long ballroom, were thick with smoke. At the far end a small orchestra of Negroes swayed and played in jazztime that would debauch a saint. Against the wall on a huge sideboard was a “dutch” lunch of every dainty, in and out of season, that money and imagination could command. Alongside was a table where two men-servants were opening and serving wine.

It was a house-warming. And it was warm!

“Where's Queenie?” he demanded of Stewie Worthington.

The muddled fat rounder looked twice at him, then shouted—

“Hey—look who's amongst us. Nobody but Li'l Eddie Kerns, in the flesh—what there is of it on his skinny old physical half-pint. He's a half-pint—he's a split—whoopee—Eddie's a split. But he's no bust—he wrote that song. Make him sing it. Hey—stop that slop—Eddie's going to sing ‘Broadway Melody’—big hit—he wrote it—li'l ol' Eddie, himself—”

Eddie turned a disgusted look on him and started further progress. But he was surrounded and outnumbered.

“Where's Queenie?” he demanded.

“And—say, that's a big thought—that's a suggestion, boys and bims—that's an inspiration—Eddie'll sing it and our sweet li'l hostess'll hoof it—where's Queenie?”

“Oh, shut up you souse,” cried one of the girls, who had a champagne bottle by the neck and was drinking from its foaming mouth. “We want to dance.”

“Hey—isn't he lofty millinery? Can you 'magine—a cench'ry note, and he treats it like a tailor's bill—well, leave it for the sweepers. But got to have Eddie—Eddie mus' shing—”

The boiling Scotch in him was bubbling over and inundating his speech. Stewie dragged off his tux and threw it at the ceiling, over the heads of guests, to fall on a girl who was just lifting a goblet. The precious liquid flew in all directions. The fragile glass fell and tinkled to bits.

Many eyes turned toward the fourth room—the one that was not in line with the other three. The significance of it struck Eddie. He made a bolt toward the closed door. But someone caught him under the arms and lifted him on high.

“Well, wherever they are, here's to 'em . . . they cert'nly throw elegant parties and Warry's bootlegger should be decorated . . . here's mud in your eyes, soaks. As one drunk to a lot o' others, I rec'mend Warry's Scotch—uncut—sparkling—pure as nobody here—”

“A man's drink, that shot,” he blubbered. “Ch'mpagne's for babbling babies. Not for a Worthington. We were all strong men and beautiful women—we live, we Worthingtons do—and when we die boy, pour me a drink—ain' had one in a long, long per-r-riod—”

“Wow,” cried Stewie. “Forgot all about you, Eddie, ol' mackerel. Where's that ditty you were going to yodel for us? Who's got a ukelooloo—ukelala—oh, a uke . . . who's got a uke? That boy is a demon with a uke . . . he can make a uke climb a tree an' charm mating lovebirds apart, that boy can . . . here, boy, here's $50—run out an' buy a uke—a reg'lar plush-lined, ball-bearing uke—”

“You'll be sorry for that,” warned Stewie, waving a fat finger. “When your rent comes due it'll be ‘Stewie, ol' darling—give li'l Eva a couple o' yards so she won't land out in the street on her—’ ”

“Well, for a gazella with the gimmes like she has, an' hollow legs herself for the dear ol' hootch, she is in no stratogic p'shition to denounce me as a bum. I am not a bum. I may be a bozo—may be, mind you—but I am by no means a bum . . . I put it to a rising vote. Am I a bum?”

“See?” shouted Stewie. “And no phoney red-head can make a bum out o' me, tell you zhat, too. Shome foolsh crave red-heads. Warry likes pugnosed blondes—every man to his taste. As for me—they all go to hell or to Hollywood . . . my weakness is liquor.”

This time he doubled up and sat down on the floor with a thump. No one stooped to help him up. He looked blearily about him. The rooms swayed. He opened his mouth, but his tongue was too thick for words. In half a minute, propped against the wall, he was snoring.

Someone signaled to the orchestra.

With accord the musicians struck up “Two Lips,” the tender song of love that Eddie had written for Queenie and sung for her the first hour they were ever alone, that almost weird period when he first realized that she loved him. Every note cut into his flesh.

No one noticed him or held him now. He glided across the room, put his hand on the knob of the bedroom door—and yanked it open.

Queenie looked up suddenly—startled by the intrusion—affected by the melody—her melody——

She wore the gown of silver-cloth which Warriner had sent and Eddie had saved from destruction. On her slender left arm blazed the diamond and emerald studded bracelet of platinum that Warriner had given her as a birthday token.

Warriner sat at her feet on a huge pillow of antique design and composition. One arm was about her waist. He was looking up into her lovely, animated face.

“Come on, Queenie,” he said. “I came to get you.”

“Get out of here before I have you thrown in the ashcan,” ordered Warriner. He crossed Eddie and opened the door. “Out!”

“When I go she'll come with me,” said Eddie.

Warriner seized Eddie by the collar. “Leggo o' me, or I'll smash your face,” howled Eddie. He tore loose from Warriner's hold and aimed a clenched fist at him.

Warriner gracefully sidestepped and hooked a short, straight punch to Eddie's jaw that sent him sprawling backward through the open door into the middle of the floor. Warriner closed the door and turned back to Queenie.

Bella's Illness

By H. LOUIS REYBOLD

Daily Short Story

THEIR neighbors had long ago forgotten what the Eldridge sisters had quarreled about, but any one of them could have told you how Bella and Jane lived side by side in the same house for years without so much as passing the time of day with each other.

As a matter of fact, the real cause of their prolonged hostility had not been the actual trivial matter which precipitated its outward expression, but a very real fundamental difference in the temperaments of the two women.

Bella, the younger, looked out on the world with friendly, interested eyes. She loved children, flowers and sunshine. She yielded naturally to a happy-go-lucky way of living. Time slipped through her fingers, unbudgeted, unnoticed.

To Jane, life was real, life was earnest. No scrap of it should be spent wastefully. To Jane, dishes unwashed in the sink were as disgraceful as an unpaid bill. Money spent for valentines to be given to the school children was a sinful expenditure when the Chathamville Bank and Trust Company was paying interest for the use of one's dollars.

A dozen times a day one sister did—or did not do—that which seemed to the other an omission or commission of serious import.

Then the final flareup, whatever it was, occurred. Jane moved her belongings to the other half of the tiny Cape Cod cottage, called in Jim Reynolds, the plumber, to install an entirely separate system of plumbing, and settled down to a lonely existence with Bella, equally lonely (and equally stubborn) on the other side of the partition.

One year passed, two years. Half a dozen. Jane grew sterner-lipped. Bella did not laugh as much as she used to, but she still baked cookies for the youngsters who passed her door and let her housework slide to putter among her flower beds.

Sometimes their niece, Jane Slater, came to visit them, punctiliously spending the same amount of time with each and calling them to their very faces a pair of dear, silly old geese.

And now, once again, spring was coming to the cape. Soft, sweet spring with lilacs and robins and, out in the woods, the shy arbutus tucked under wet leaves. Snow shrank to tiny patches in spots unreached by the sun. Winds, ballooning across the marshes, carried a heady, salty tang straight from the ocean.

Bella, out in the garden, poking about among her early crocuses, straightened to rest her back and became suddenly aware that her home was greatly in need of paint. Perhaps, if she painted her half, Jane would paint hers.

With Bella, to hit upon an idea was to put that idea into action. Darting into the house, she reappeared shortly in coat and hat and set off for Willie Dodge's paint shop. “And when you have done my half,” she finished firmly, “just step next door to my sister's and most likely she'll want you to paint her side, too!”

But Jane wanted no such thing. “Indeed not!” she exclaimed. “I am much obliged to you, William, but any time I need you, I'll let you know myself.”

The little house, half a shining white, half a dingy gray, become a laughing stock in town. People went out of their way to drive past it and point it out to visitors.

To Jane, who kept close indoors, the matter was not the trial that it was to Bella. To see the little first graders, like as not with her cookies in their hands, chuckle and gesture at the house was almost more than she could bear.

From time immemorial the people of Chathamville had been accustomed when they wanted their doctor to step in on his morning round to display a red napkin or any bit of red cloth in front of the house.

Jane, letting the cat out, saw the flaming signal and drew back startled. Bella was sick. “I'll have Joan find out about her this afternoon,” she promised herself nervously. “Prob'ly she's just caught cold.”

Joan, who had taken of late to running down even more frequently since she had become acquainted with young Dr. Eastman, was due that afternoon and Jane was relieved that Joan could act as her emissary.

She watched, however, for the doctor. Was glad when he came and when his call proved brief. If Bella had been seriously ill—

Joan reported a “slight indisposition.” “And really, Aunt Jane,” she added comfortingly, “she has a fine color and not a speck of temperature!”

But the next day the red bit of cloth reappeared on the lilac bush. And the next. And the next.

Finally, Jane could stand it no longer. Bella might be going to die. Putting on her hat and coat, precisely as if she were about to call formally on the minister's wife, she went next door.

“I came to inquire for your health,” said Jane, stiffly to the figure lying on the bed with the candlewick spread drawn tightly up to her very chin.

Bella spoke languidly. “I'm a very sick woman. There's only one thing 'twill cure me. That would be having you paint your half of the house. Otherwise, I'm likely to keep getting sicker and sicker, the doctor coming day in and day out—” she paused significantly.

Jane was stunned into horrified silence. She saw Bella playing the role of bed-ridden martyr. She saw the doctor's bill growing bigger and bigger with casual Bella letting it go unpaid.

Suddenly Bella flung back the bedclothes and sat up. Her eyes filled with tears. “Oh, Jane,” she cried. “Someday one of us will be sick. Really sick. Let's—let's forget whatever 'twas made us act so while the forgetting is good!” The next moment they were in each other's arms.

* * *

“What was it all about?” Dr. Eastman asked his wife one day when they had been married some time.

“I—I don't believe I know!” said Joan. She had forgotten, too.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Firm

Wall Street Quotations

STOCK MARKET PRICES START DAY FIRM

NEW YORK, April 20.—(AP.)—The stock market opened firm this morning. Such important issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, Greene Cananea, Radio and Atchison mounted from ½ to ¾ of a point, while United Aircraft jumped 1½ points and Atlas Powder sold up a point. International Combustion Engineering was a soft spot, sagging a point.

The market quieted down after an early burst of buying, attributed, in part, to the more optimistic reports from Paris regarding the reparations conference, and the generally favorable character of the week-end business reviews.

Much of the week-end selling appeared to have been absorbed in the sizable wave of liquidation late yesterday, and save for a few soft spots, the market held steady. Goodyear was again under pressure, losing a point in selling inspired by yesterday's break in crude rubber futures. Johns Manville lost about a point.

The early buying carried corn products and Foundation Company to a new high. United Aircraft extended its gain to 2 points and Southern Railway and Collins & Aikman made like gains. Radio mounted a full point and Anaconda, International Telephone and Warner Brothers gained a point or more. Bethlehem Steel and General Motors were firm.

RATE REVISION ORDERED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)—Railroads connecting with the Inland Waterways Corporation Barge Line on the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers were ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish a sweeping system of combination barge-rail and rail-barge-rail rates and routes for the utilization of shippers desiring to combine both water and railroad facility.

By the terms of the order, which is made effective August 27, a series of rates are to be established ranging down to 20 per cent less than existing all-rail rates between the points affected. The routes over which the contemplated reduction will apply include a large part of the entire country.

In general, the commission granted almost completely a petition of the government-owned Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates on an extensive scale along the Mississippi River and its tributaries. The barge line contended that unless railroads combined with it for the making of through rates to and from principal traffic centers, the water route could not be fully useful.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 20.—Heavy widespread rains over domestic winter wheat territory did a good deal to turn wheat prices sharply downward early today. The plentiful moisture was expected to increase likelihood of a large crop. Opening ⅛c to ⅞c off, wheat rallied somewhat, but then dropped lower than before. Corn displayed strength, starting ⅛c to 1c higher, and subsequently holding near the initial range. Oats were easy. Provisions likewise tended to decline.

O'Fallon Decision Pending.

Decision day Monday in the Supreme Court will be followed with anxious care by railroad observers anticipating some finding in the O'Fallon case. If that tribunal allows the government to collect $240,000 from the tiny St. Louis and O'Fallon line, some of the country's major prosperous systems expect to find themselves resisting claims on similar grounds aggregating between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000. In fact attorneys have gained ground to rank the proceedings as perhaps the greatest lawsuit in American judicial history. "What we do with this small railroad," the Interstate Commerce Commission said in assessing the claim against the O'Fallon, "we must in substance do with the great railroad transportation establishment of the nation." That sentence established the representative status of the O'Fallon's litigation, and threw into the controversy practically the entire railroad world. By the transportation act of 1920 the government is entitled to recapture half the excess earnings any carrier may attain in excess of 6 per cent on a fair value of its property. Few subjects have ever been so disputed as this one of "fair value" of railroads, and carriers and commission have been far apart in their notions, railroad figures being uniformly far above any commission findings.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Weather Slackens Trade.

Bradstreet's weekly trade review says: "Inclement weather, with rains, snows and muddy roads in northern areas and a good deal of rain in parts of the South, seems mainly responsible for the slight quieting down noted in distributive trade this week. In sections where farm work has not been retarded the preoccupation of farmers in crop preparation or seeding is perhaps a contributing factor. In industry, while the advance of the season tends to aid outdoor occupation, the quieting down of building and reduced call for most construction materials, and for coal and other fuels, has exercised a slight slowing effect. In factory industry, however, aside from reports that some markets note steel shipments are now exceeding new orders, and that the slight easing up from March activity in automoile production is reflected in lessened takings of raw materials at some centers, the trend is not materially different from preceding weeks. Summed up, the report of last week that there is rather less uniformity in the broad general movement of goods into consumption seems fairly correct, also it may be added, however, that the broad general gain noted in the first quarter in trade and industry over the like period a year ago seems fairly well maintained."

Porto Rican-Am. Tobacco.

The Porto Rican American Tobacco Company will soon pay back dividends of $5.25 on its 101,875 shares of $7 cumulative class "A" common stock, according to interests close to the company. It is believed that within a short time the management will decide to pay on class "A" common arrears of at least $1.75 quarterly in addition to the regular quarterly dividend which was resumed on January 10 last. The company is showing a decided improvement in earnings compared with 1928.

Record Auto Production.

A new high record for automobile production was established last month in the United States, March production, as reported to the Department of Commerce, was 584,733 passenger cars, trucks, and taxicabs compared with 475,373 for February, the previous high record, and 413,314 for March 1928. Last month's output consisted of 513,266 passenger cars, 69,559 trucks and 1,908 taxicabs. During the first three months of 1929, the total was 1,460,801 compared with 968,838 for the same period last year. Canada also set a new record in March, producing a total of 40,621 passenger cars and trucks.

West Penn Power Output.

The West Penn Electric Company, which controls the electric subsidiaries of the American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., reports power output to regular consumers of 160,191,387 kilowatt hours for the month of March, 1929, an increase of 7.25 per cent over the output of 149,358,698 kilowatt hours for the month of March 1928. For the first three months of 1929, power output to regular consumers totaled 471,740,298 kilowatt hours, which is greater by 8.71 per cent than the output for the corresponding period of 1928, which was 433,925,171 kilowatt hours.

Week's Failures Increase.

Commercial failures for the week as reported to R. G. Dunn and Company totaled 488, an increase of 13 over the preceding week and a rise of 22 over the number reported two weeks ago. In the same week of 1928, defaults numbered 474. The current increase is attributed to the larger number of insolvencies this week in the South and West, which more than offset small decreases in the East and on the Pacific Coast.

The Investment Research Bureau says: "We find that well-informed interests are confident that the oil industry is facing a period of great prosperity which will be sustained for a period of years. It is significant to us that one after another of the better grade oils advance easily as soon as there is any concerted buying. Moreover, gains are well sustained, indicating that the stocks are in strong hands."

Since the middle of February aur plants have been operating at their top capacity of around 45,000 a month, and yet a survey of stocks of cars in the hands of distributors and dealers shows that the number is below normal. Not only have domestic sales reached a new high record, but our shipments of 11,585 cars over seas and 6,178 to Canada were the best we ever have known in a first quarter."

Municipal Offerings Loom.

Preparations for marketing of sizeable state and municipal issues today gave evidence of the recent improvement in the bond market and confidence in future. New York City was reported on the verge of offering $52,000,000 of corporate stock to finance subway construction, and New York state was understood to be ready to enter the market with an issue of short term notes. Major municipal, state and county financing has been at a low ebb for some time as a result of the tight money situation, and offerings have been restricted to necessities. The dearth of issues, however, enabled dealers to clean away some of the old securities and thereby placed the market in a better position to absorb the new.

Mellon Proud of His Irish Blood; Chain Papers Grow

By B. C. FORBES

DID YOU know that Andrew W. Mellon's father was an Irishman? He lived in County Tyrone, in the Province of Ulster. So did previous generations of Mellons.

Curious, the most famous of all Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's predecessors in office, Alexander Hamilton, also sprang from the North of Ireland—Londonderry.

Secretary Mellon has oftener than once visited the home of his ancestors. He declares there is no prettier country anywhere on earth. Also, he is very much impressed with the high character and staunch moral qualities of the people. Nevertheless, the man to whom the United States owes so much for his superb handling of its national finances during these recent momentous years, feels that his family chose wisely when they emigrated to the United States, because the economic struggle in their native land had become unpleasantly severe.

Mr. Mellon's firsthand inquires on the spot resulted in his feeling proud of the stuff his ancestors were made of.

A reader who hails from a spot midway between the ancestral homes of the Mellons and the Hamiltons, writes: "They were both fine families and very much respected by the Irish people. The senior member of the Hamilton family is the Duke of Abercorn, the present governor general of Northern Ireland."

Thus it is to Ould Ireland that the United States is indebted for its two most illustrious secretaries of the Treasury. There are few living Americans more deserving of a national monument than Andrew Mellon, son of the late Judge Thomas Mellon, from County Tyrone.

GOV. ARTHUR J WEAVER of Nebraska, after voicing approval of what was recently printed in this column concerning inland waterway developments and President Hoover's vigorous support of them, writes:

"I feel sure that development of the inland waterways system of the Mississippi Valley will not only be an important factor in the solution of the farm problem, but by placing industry by the side of our splendid agriculture, bring a new era of development to the middle west."

ALL public utility corporations apparently are not as black as some of them are painted. A Chicago reader, H. C. Daych, sends this letter which he received a few days ago from the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois:

"Your electric meter has recently been tested, and as a result of this test, we are crediting your account with the sum of $1.02 which amount will be deducted from your next bill."

Mr. Daych, astounded at such action, undertaken entirely voluntarily, in his letter of thanks made this comment: "It seemse to me that this marks an epoch in the relations of utilities and their public."

ENTERPRISING newspaper owners, in common with manufacturers, and bankers, and merchants, and distributors are acquiring more than one property. Explaining why, Col. Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst Newspapers, told the American Society of Newspaper Editors at Washington yesterday:

"The development of chain or group newspapers was as necessary and as inevitable in our economic change and growth as chain stores, chain hotels, great railroad systems, branch banks, big factories, and other great combinations were inevitable. Whether we like them or not, these things are here as a part of our social, commercial, financial and manufacturing evolution. One might as well argue against the law of gravitation or the law of supply and demand. Group newspapers are simply the result of the latter law, and have been gradually brought about by the demand for more, better, and more varied newspaper content, a more complete coverage of news, and quicker distribution.

"So, while it is not true that everything is right, it can safely be taken for granted that whatever is absolutely necessary to meet changing conditions and fill growing demands must be held to be for the best."

Illustrating the impossibility of any one newspaper being today sufficient unto itself, relying solely on its own resources, he stated that "of 2,388 daily newspapers in the United States, approximately 1,000 use, in one form or another, news or features gathered and used by the Hearst organization."

THE stock market won't run away. The writer, for one, feels there is not much need for hurrying to load up with stocks yielding only half the cost of money.

Cutten Denies Huge Oil Merger Rumor

CHICAGO, April 20. — (INS.)— Rumor that he is engaged in a great merger of independent oil companies with the Sinclair Consolidated Corporation as their nucleus was denied yesterday by Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago financier and a director of the Sinclair organization.

Cutten declared that he knows no more about the so-called merger than what he has read in the newspapers.

Rumor had it that the melting pot for the merger was to be the $500,000,000 Petroleum Corporation, an investment trust, the stock of which was offered to the public some months ago by Blair and Company.

Woman Faints, Falls Under Car and Lives

BALTIMORE, April 20.—(AP.)— Stepping into the path of an oncoming trolley car as she came from behind a parked automobile, Miss Gertrude Fitzgerald, 39, fainted, falling between the rails. The car passed over the woman's body, but the wheels did not touch her.

BOLTS AND ARMSTRONG SPURT IN MARKET HERE

Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt started with a bang on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, carrying through on the strong buying movement which made its appearance in yesterday's market.

Armstrong Cork also shot up conspicuously following the recent advance which carried it to new high levels. The best price here on Armstrong yesterday was 68, but on the New York Curb the closing sale was more than a point higher. This differential was eliminated at the opening here this morning.

Screw and Bolt's rise is due to buying by presumably informed interests who are expecting an important announcement which will have decidedly bullish influence on the shares. The statement is expected within a few days. The stock is scheduled for admission to the New York Stock Exchange in the near future and negotiations looking to its listing there are under way now. The present stock, which is a split-up of the old shares on a 3⅝-for-1 basis, is receiving dividends at the rate of $1.40 annually as against a regular rate of $3 on the former issue. People buying the stock on the present flurry are confident that higher payments will be forthcoming, but the dividend angle is secondary to the other development upon which information will be forthcoming, probably before the month ends.

The buying in Bolts and Armstrong had very little influence on other sections of the local market. Thin buying demand for Carnegie Metals allowed that issue to reach new low ground for the year and McKinney Manufacturing also touched a new 1929 bottom, but the stock met support immediately and recovered the lost ground. Neither issue, however, was pressed on the market in noticeable volume. West Penn Railways preferred reached new low ground on a sale at 97.

The fuels continued to work in the narrow trading range to which they have held for some time. Arkansas Gas common was moderately active but displayed no particular inclination to break out of the recent price scope.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slack today at the Pittsburgh wholesale produce district. No changes were made in the quotations.

The poultry market was easy, demand fair, supplies nominal and little change made in the prices.

Car lot supplies were light with a total of 343 cars on track. Arrivals included 11 cars of apples, 2 cabbage, 3 celery, 5 grapefruit, 6 lettuce, 7 onions, 19 oranges, 2 pears, 1 pepper, 1 spinach, 1 cucumber, 3 beans, 27 potatoes, 2 sweet potatoes, 1 parsley and 5 peas.

Last of Shipping Board Tankers Go

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(AP.)— The Antietam Steamship Corporation, of Philadelphia, was high bidder for the five remaining Shipping Board tankers.

The Philadelphia concern offered a lump sum of $2,649,686.53 for the five ships, with separate bids for any number of them. They aggregate about 47,000 tons. T. T. G. Gregory, of San Francisco, bid $1,620,000 for the five tankers and Cities Service Transportation Company, of New York, offered $1,500,000.

STEEL EARNINGS FOR QUARTER IMPRESSIVE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE first reports of steel companies for the initial quarter of this year indicate that the improvement in earnings has been even more impressive than the records in production. Some of the steel companies are now showing profits closely approaching those of war periods and it must be remembered that current steel prices are considerably lower than in war years.

The Pittsburgh Steel company earned nearly as much in the three months ended March 31 as it did in its entire fiscal year ended June 30, 1928. Net profit for the quarter was $1,333,661, or $4.54 a share on the 253,500 shares of common stock, which are on a $4 annual dividend basis. This compares with $837,448, or $2.58 a share in the preceding quarter.

NET for the nine months ended March 31 was $3,076,932, or $9.96 a share. This was 4.2 times the annual dividend requirements on the 105,000 shares of preferred stock. It exceeded each full year's profits since the company consolidated with the Pittsburgh Steel Products company on September 1, 1925.

A recent predict on that Pittsburgh Steel would earn $10 a share on the common stock in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, has proved to be too conservative. The results for the nine months fell only four cents short of this mark.

CURRENT production is continuing at the rate prevailing during the March 31 quarter so that a repetition of the highly satisfactory earnings just shown is not improbable. Although, pipe production, which constitutes the company's chief finished product, is not at as high a rate as other branches of the industry, the exceptionally good market for semi-finished material is making up for it and promises to keep the company's steel making at capacity for some time.

The extent of the improvement this year in Pittsburgh Steel's earnings can be seen in a comparison of the $9.96 a share earned in the nine months covered by the last report with $2.40 a share in the year ended June 30, 1928, $4.81 in 1927 and $7.10 in 1926.

The fact that sharp increases in steed company earnings can be generally expected has been indicated by the statements for the first quarter of the year published by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and the Republic Iron and Steel company. Both of these organizations showed fairly large advances over the preceding quarter and sensational gains over a year ago.

YOUNGSTOWN SHEET and TUBE reported $4,430,316 after all charges, equivalent to $1.22 a share on the common stock compared with $3,573,965 or $3.36 in the December quarter and $1,663,615 or $1.43 a share a year ago.

Republic earned $2,877,127, or $3.03 a share on 804,568 shares of common stock in the first quarter of this year.

This compares with $1,888,483, or $2.10 a share, on 690,891 shares in the preceding quarter and with $483,754, or 16 cents a share, on 300,000 shares in the first quarter of 1928.

The three companies which have reported make a sufficiently wide range of steel products to be representative of the industry as a whole. The reports of other steel companies to be made within the next week will show similar improvement.

IRON AND STEEL MILLS ACTIVE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 20.—Production of iron and steel next week in the Mahoning Valley will continue at 90 per cent and better. Full finished sheet makers and strip producers operate close to 100 per cent physical capacity. Tin plate departments are running full tilt with the independents, though steel corporation properties are averging somewhat under 90 per cent. Producers of highly finished sheets see no letdown in the requirements and look for capacity production well into the summer and perhaps beyond. Newton Steel is the principal maker of full finished sheets and is finding it difficult to meet demands of customers.

A new continuous strip mill is expected to start operations May 1, at the McDonald plant of the Carnegie Steel company. It is the tenth unit in this group, and will roll strip at the rate of 2,800 feet per minute.

Primary steel producers continue optimistic over the outlook. Flat steel rollers are especially encouraged by the heavy volume of business coming from Ford Motor and Chevrolet Motor Company.

BUGS BAER Says

A THOUSAND WRECKS AT SEA

"Bugs" Baer

SOME news of interest to amateur yachtsmen who intend to race the coast guard this spring.

There will be a large but exclusive regatta off the Grand Banks the last few days of April.

The moon will be in reverse, visibility will be below par and the tides will be salty. This information was acquired by placing the Hagerstown Almanac in a kettle and boiling it to a pulp.

Captains should delay sailing this week as there will be a low-priced area in the Gulf and declamatory tornadoes from enraged reformers.

The winds will be fair and wetter with short, intermittent dry spells between producer and consumer.

There will be no moon. But we are not responsible for inquisitive searchlights.

The old Scotch galleon, the Leviathan, which is the last of the booze armada, is now churning up the high seas using a corckscrew for a propeller.

"Please reserve a bar on the hurricane deck for Mr. and Mrs. Umbo and child."

Folks, it has been a weary year since Columbus sailed over here in the Pinta and the Quarta.

Few people realized that Columbus did his dead reckoning by liquid measure.

We have turned back the dew-spangled leaves of history and are staggering in reverse on the road to yesterday.

And, when the harpies of the shore shall pluck the eagle of the sea, we hope to have a harp.

NEW LIGHT THROWN ON FRISBY CONFAB

WASHINGTON — Congressman Frisby today gave out what he termed the "Official Authoritative Expatiation of What Actually Happened at the National Conference of Chiropodists Which Went on the Rocks Unexpectedly Through No Fault of My Own."

Mister Frisby said that copies of his report would be issued in pamplet form and sold for twenty-five cents.

In short, the Congressman declared that the chiropodists were assembled, as his guests, to listen to scientific data anent the strange phenomenon of Mrs. Frisbys corns. Mr. Frisby discovered that his wife could forecast weather by the pains in her feet. In fact, her corns invarably ached two days before a rain.

"As a courtesy," says Frisby, "I invited the chiropodists to hear about it first. Then I proposed to introduce a bill eliminating the U. S. Weather Bureau and substitute Mrs. Frisby."

Fisher Insults His State And Shows White Feather

Three important acts of the recent legislative session, made laws through the signature of Gov. Fisher, include the Metropolitan Charter for Allegheny County, the Harris voting machine act, a measure which affects the entire state in providing an available remedy for abuses of election laws, and the Mansfield coal and iron police law.

Gov. Fisher merely performed a perfunctory duty in signing the charter and voting machine acts, the first being of no concern to anybody outside of Allegheny County, and the second having been virtually the demand of the people of the state, as reflected in the huge vote given to the constitutional amendment to permit use of this effective insurance of honest elections. So he gains no particular merit through signing these laws.

In the one thing in which he could have shown that he had the courage of his own convictions, and the vertebral strength to stand up against the interests which fought against driving Cossackism from Pennsylvania—the signing of a coal and iron police act—he stultified himself and showed a craven weakness.

With the strong Musmanno bill and the comparatively weak Mansfield bill before him, he chose not to ally himself with the determined public sentiment demanding that the state resume some of the sovereignty it sells to coal operators, but against that sentiment, which, following the brutal murder of a miner by coal police thugs, he had indorsed. After the Bor[illegible] murder the state executive was at a state of high indignation, properly, and there immediately issued from official sources in Harrisburg reports that there would be an "administration bill" to curtail coal police activities and make them more answerable to the state.

The Governor's views appeared in due time and were introduced to the House under the sponsorship of Representative M. A. Musmanno, who had been very active in promoting effective legislation covering the subject. In the meantime the Mansfield bill had been forgotten until it began to appear that the Legislature MUST pass some kind of a coal police law. So the Musmanno (administration) bill was slated to die in committee. Loud public protests caused a switch, and then the little farce began. Both bills were passed. Senator Mansfield had attempted to make his of strength equal to that of Musmanno's, but was blocked. The Governor could have his choice, if a man with a whip at his back can be said to have a "choice."

What a spectacle! What a choice!

Yet it was not unexpected, and the Governor has proven himself to be in possession of just about as little courage as he had been suspected of having.

Is the public deluded? Legislators, back home after their work at law-making, can say to their constituents that they supported the public in its demands for a strong law to curb the thuggery of coal and iron police. And who shall convict them of participating in one of the slickest political schemes ever engineered to thwart the will of the public? Some of them, no doubt, were tricked themselves.

As the Sun-Telegraph stated a few days ago, weird happenings can occur in the closing days of a legislative session, when the political thimble-riggers "put it over" on the less astute among our lawmakers.

The bosses showed not only disgusting subservience to business interests, but an astonishing ignorance of history and lack of common sense. The people themselves are capable of wrecking the state machine beyond repair, and they will do it when sufficiently aroused. Prof. W. L. Nunn, instructor of economics in the University of Pittsburgh, spoke prophetic words when he said:

"Gov. Fisher's action in rejecting the Musmanno bill and accepting the Mansfield bill is an insult to the people of the state and is a repudiation of democracy. The signing of the Mansfield bill is, of course, in line with the desire of coal operators, and hence shows again the Mellon-Grundy dominance of state politics. The leaders in the state, by flouting outraged public opinion, have clearly shown that the only answer is an independent political party by which this alliance of big business and politics may be broken up."

Tales That Are Told

The Midnight Alarm

IT certainly was a strange sound—even though at midnight all sounds are strange. Mrs. Meekton nudged her husband.

"Henry," she said, "wake up at once and go downstairs! It sounds like burglars!"

"Yes, my dear," replied Henry, nervously. "But I don't—"

"If you don't go at once, I will go myself!"

"I shall certainly go, Mary," Henry said, with dignity; then he added, "if I hear it again."

"No, go now," ordered the wife, "or I shall shriek for the police, and tell them you made no attempt to capture the thieves."

"Very well," replied Henry, nervously, "but let me kiss you and the baby before I go, and when he grows up tell him that his daddy jumped out of bed one bitter night and boldly attacked several armed burglars and fought them till he was overpowered and—"

"O-o-o-oh, Henry, there it is again! Go at once!"

Henry went downstairs, trembling violently. Cautiously opening the kitchen door, he found the kitten playing with baby's indiarubber ball.

No Such Place

"Just a moment, please," a juryman spoke up, rising from his seat. "I've lived in this country nigh onto 50 years an' know every crossroad for miles around, but I never heard of no such place as that. I believe it's a make-up case."

Awkward

"JACK, who is Dorothy?" asked the young wife one morning.

"Dorothy? Why, didn't I tell you? Dorothy, my dear, is the name of a horse I backed yesterday. It won—here's a ten for you."

The husband returned home in the evening.

"Jack," said his wife, "you know the horse you backed yesterday?"

"Yes," replied he, dubiously.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a woman that was on trial for shooting her husband in Chicago. She said she'd testify if they wanted her to, and the lawyers had a lot of talk so's to earn their fees, and then they started to questioning her.

"Isn't it true," says the prosecutor, "that you have killed several husbands before this one?"

"Oh, yes, I guess I had some little accidents, and maybe killed one or two men that were mean to me."

"Oh, come now, think hard. Look at your notes and that little book you have there. Who was the last one you killed before this one?"

"I tell you I don't remember. That was in July or August a year or two ago, and my diaries never run beyond about May or June each year, so I haven't any record of it whatever."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WE'RE becoming very conscious of our Selves these days.

Popular psychology has wised us up to the fact that we are individuals with a lot of unique complexes, reflexes, inhibitions and other fancy linings. As a consequence, we're apt to think of ourselves as limited, de luxe editions with almost no connection with the rest of the universe. And we're donating all sorts of special privileges and exemptions.

"BUT I'M DIFFERENT" is the slogan of the day.

Well, that's true. Each one of us is different, to a small but important degree. BUT WE'RE NOT BY A LONG SIGHT AS DIFFERENT AS WE THINK WE ARE.

We're still 99 per cent like everyone else—

Most of the things you feel, everyone has felt. You may use a slightly different vernacular in describing your feelings to yourself or your friends, but the reactions on your intersticine glands, intestinal tract and blood stream is identical.

When you cry there is neither more or less salt in your tears than there is in the tears of the bootblack round the corner or the billionaire in the next block.

Which fact may seem most humiliating at first glance. Naturally you don't want to be like everyone else. But you had better thank your lucky stars that you are. For think of all the work it saves you.

Think of that vast mass of human experience which becomes your common heritage and that vast store of human companionship which becomes your common treasure.

Life's a lonely and difficult business at best. It will be far less lonely if you will realize that millions of other people are treading the same trail with exactly the same dreams in their hearts and blisters on their heels. It will be much less difficult if you will accept the fact that their findings will work for you as well as for them.

Try it out for a while. Stop thinking that You're the Only One Made by That Pattern—take a check on yourself and see in how many ways you fit in with the general pattern of all humanity. You'll be surprised.

And if you keep at it long enough you'll also be grateful. It's a great relief to stop trying to be different and resign oneself to being a common woodchuck—TO STOP TRYING TO DO NEW THINGS AND TO USE ONE'S ENERGY TOWARD DOING THE OLD THINGS A LITTLE BIT BETTER.

EGGS OF TIME

By Garrett P. Serviss

EVEN in this 200-mile-a-minute age, it is not unbecoming to sit down occasionally and ponder on the slow results of time. Look at those eggs of the dinosaur called protoceratops, which the American Museum found in the middle of Asia, in barren lands lying on the roots of mountains that may never have bowed their heads to the all-conquering ocean. A vast rock-rimmed basin was created there millions of years ago, which, so far from sinking below sea level, was lifted up like a great chalice. Into this elevated basin streams descended from the high borders which caught and sucked dry the moist winds from the distant sea, and these streams covered the bottom with sediments forming what today is collectively called the Gobi Desert.

"The animals that roamed over these plains," says Dr. Charles P. Berkey, "were never driven out by the sea. Here they lived, and here in these sediments their bones are buried with the rest of the debris. The strange creatures that inhabited this interior region for tens of millions of years are represented by the fossil remains."

This was a cradle for infant life, lofty, remote from the surrounding world (where the ocean was the master, and where other lands were rising and sinking) like the tree-top cradle of "Rock-a-by-Baby." No wonder that explorers looked upon it as the oldest abode of terrestrial life, and expect to find there, if anywhere, relics of the earliest links in the organic chain of man.

But even the discovery of such links, however startling it might be, would hardly exceed in dramatic interest the giant fossil eggs of the great protoceratops, together with the fossilized bones of the animal itself that laid the eggs upon which we now have to feast our wondering eyes.

There before the eyes of the astonished geologist, with uplifted pick, lay the huge eggs, in the baking sunshine of this modern age, with cracked shells and silicified yolks, some almost perfect in form, some in fragments, with bits of broken shell scattered about or projecting from the rock that once was the soft warm sand nest in which the living eggs were laid.

During millions of years, while stars were growing and new suns were forming, those unhatched eggs, whose chicks were destined never to open their eyes upon the living world, have lain there, waiting, as it were, for man to come to find them, and read in them the ancientness of life. Dreamless eons have passed over them, yet they have not lost the form they had when their mother, in the unquestioning confidence of instinct, deposited them in the warm sand.

And what of that dionsaurian mother. Her bones are those of a giant reptile, her bird-like feet terminated saurian legs. Her huge head was fronted with a mighty beak curved like an eagle's, and furnished with strong jaws edged with formidable teeth. In pathetic helplessness, her big skeleton lies broken in its rocky coffin, the terrible jaws, partly agape, the remains of the eye socket staring blankly, as perhaps for a million centuries.

How unobservant and inept for knowledge compelling inference our race has been! For thousands of years the great trade routes between the oriental and the occidental nations lay trailing, across these deserts, and no comprehending eye saw those eggs of ancient time, or guessed a line of their tremendous story—unless the old Chinese legend of the great "roc" and her giant eggs had its origin here.

Bible Passages

Give Praise

(Psalm 107; 1-15.)

O GIVE thanks unto the Lord, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever.

Let the redeemed of the Lord say so, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy.

Such as sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, being bound in affliction and iron;

Because they rebelled against the words of God, and condemned the counsel of the most High:

Therefore he brought down their heart with labour; they fell down, and there was none to help.

Then they cried unto the Lord in their trouble, and he saved them out of their distresses.

He brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death, and brake their bands in sunder.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

With Roses

NOT words, but roses, dear, can tell
The thing I wish to say;
Words could not bear my message well,
But roses, frail and gay,
Will add the weight of beauty's spell
To lines I pen today.

For roses all the ages through,
Have borne the tale of love;
When earth was young and gardens new
The rose alone could prove
As fair as one it helped to woo
By battling back his fears.

Not words, but roses now I send
To make my humble plea,
For something of love's self they lend,
Some subtle witchery
More potent than was ever penned,
To win your heart for me.

They Ate the Opportunity

Think of it—one fortieth of one per cent who aren't of crowd stature—who have attained celebrity of any sort!

Twenty-three thousand, three hundred and twenty-seven living notables out of one hundred and ten million people!

Through what miracles might we not move, with forty-fold present active brain power—with a mere one per cent of us thinking and working at full pitch.

Tantalum, tensile as platinum, incorrodible to all acids including the gold eaters; and titanium, more abundant than iron ore, far harder than steel and practically as light as aluminum, are simply begging for the first something-to-do.

Gallium melts faster than lead; beryllium is a demonstrably superior gilding medium; but both remain little better than foundlings of chemistry.

Fluorine, the best "mixer" in nature—a supremely sociable gas, a very mormon, quick to mate with any substance, which digests glass, dissolves metals, vaporizes bricks or glazes, hardly gets into a manufacturing plant.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 20.—On the sidewalk of a block in West Seventieth street there will be found almost every day in the year one or two persons or a group gazing across the street at a sedate, three-storied house, numbered 244. It was the scene of one of New York's most mystifying murders.

Although the crime took place about 10 years ago and other equally puzzling murders have been committed and forgotten, this one continues to grip public interest. No. 244 was the home of Joseph B. Elwell, the famous bridge expert, found dying with a bullet hole in his head in his living room.

It was a crime of passion that uncorked low scandal in high society. Elwell, it developed, was the Casanova of his period and his home was a seraglio. There was found among his effects a list of 53 women—indexed with their pet names—who flitted in and out his bacchanalic bower.

On the night before his death, Elwell, who was 45, divorced, wore a toupee and had false teeth, was at a gay dinner party with a beautiful society girl who had been divorced that day. It so happened her ex-husband came into the cafe with another lady and later also sat near the Elwell party at the Midnight Frolic.

It was also brought out the society girl and Elwell quarreled and he went home alone in a huff and she telephoned him around 4 on the morning of his killing. But the divorced lady and her husband proved perfect alibis. I saw her recently, the manageress of a Paris dressmaking house.

Elwell was the gold digger's delight. A lengthy list of women received a "monthly love pension." His bridge activities also gave him a wide circle of acquaintances. All were questioned, and those intimately involved were under long espionage. Some are watched to this day.

No tangible clue was ever found. The warmest trail had a penny-dreadful thrill. In his mail was a letter from an abandoned girl in a Kentucky village. She besought protection. Elwell was killed with a .45 caliber revolver. An avenging Kentucky father would likely use such a gun to vindicate family honor!

Food prices, at least on the lower East Side, are tumbling. Near Delancy street a window card proclaims: Pork sausage—8 cents; toast—2 cents; coffee with cream—4 cents; hot cakes and syrup—11 cents. O, yes, napkin service—2 cents.

* * *

One rarely sees the true Broadwayite until after midnight. Between 8 and 12, the street is thronged with visiting Elks. After 12, the Broadwayite arrives, and it's his alley. And so far as I'm concerned he can have it—with love and kisses. The evening boil has achieved the hard-boiled eggs by midnight.

Broadway becomes top heavy with worldliness. In the chop houses are those: "Say, Lissen!" conversationalists who know all and tell more than that. The gents with nicotine-stained fingers are feverishly turning racing form pages and gulping black coffee.

Glittering ladies lurch from cafe tables to telephone booths, inquire for mysterious numbers and ask if Al is there. Strange shifting creatures, wetting their lips, drift in and out like wraiths. The befuddled jag who missed the 12:13 to suburbs is spilling tapioca all over his vest.

The gambler awaits the tip-off for the high play crap game that breaks with dawn. There are the hybrids with mincing steps and loose wrists and the sure thing boy looking for a break. And through it all sit those gentle silver-haired night cashiers, perhaps reading Thackeray. And dreaming.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU know persons who seem to be failures in many ways but who can do some certain one thing so well that they command large incomes.

You yourself do many things in a creditable way, you think that you are more than ordinarily intelligent, in fact, you feel superior to many.

But if with all your gifts and intelligence you cannot earn half as much as they do, are they not more of a success than you are?

It is one thing to be intelligent, but quite another to put something over successfully as a result of your intelligence.

You are capable in one line and not in others and there are others who could not do the things that earn your salary, but neither could you fill their place so acceptably.

Because a person is not so well versed as you on many subjects don't think too lightly of his ability, for he might surprise you.

It may be necessary for you to do many things to earn a large enough sum to keep you, but one you consider inferior does one thing so well he gets a great deal more than you, with all your knowledge.
